Clinton rally sparks angry protestors

"Hey! Hey! Ho! Ho! Hillary has got to go" was heard outside of the men's gym on Cesar Chavez boulevard right outside East Los Angeles College in the city of Monterey Park.

Democratic Party nomination hopeful Hillary Clinton held a rally at ELAC on May 5 while a protest was formed in response right outside the college.

While supporters were clad with Clinton pins and placards, anti-Clinton demonstrators lined up with mega phones, posters denouncing the democratic front runner, others held Bernie Sanders signs.

Clashes between both camps broke out, some using the siren on the mega phones to identify Clinton supporters walking by.

According to ELAC nursing major Regina Castaneda Clinton spoke briefly before leaving the stage, mentioning Republican hopeful, Donald Trump in her speech.

Inside the Rally

About 1,000 supporters attended the Clinton rally.

The evening saw a mariachi band play for the attendants followed by Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti, who showed his support for the former New York senator.

Culinary major Nicole Mendoza also attended the rally and noticed the clash in ideologies at the event.

"The majority were [Clinton] voters but there were a few that protested their opinion, but they were immediately shut up.

"When people started noticing there were going to be protesters, they sat people that were big [Clinton] supporters next to them so when they started screaming they would be blocked out," she said.

Mendoza added, "As soon as they did speak out they were kicked out by the police."

Clinton Hopefuls

Clinton supporter and West Hollywood resident Sydney Ross, walked through a line of protesters and left feeling like the demonstrators didn't shake her sup-

"I am here supporting my girl, Clinton. She stands for everything I stand for, she is the only one in this presidential election that is going to fight for me and my rights and rights of everyone I respect and she is going to make America fair and amazing again."

Los Angeles resident Jeanette Orduno stated, "I support her because she has done a lot for health care and she supports women's rights, equal pay and affordable care for everybody and I think she would make a really good candidate."

Decked in purple Service Employees International Union gear, Carmel Matanga, whose husband is president of the Local 1,000 chapter said, "[Former ELAC Professor] Judy Chu gave a speech about how she grew up here [Monterey Park] and [...] not to build a wall but tear it down."

However, not everyone present at the college felt the same way.

Anti-Clinton Protestors

John Parker, who is running for U.S. Senate was vocal during the demonstration outside of the gym.

"I am here today because this is an important issue especially for black and brown people who are being victimized.

"This is repression that is trying to keep us all working people in fear because society cannot meet the needs of the people, so what they do to keep us from protesting is try to put us in fear," he said.

FIRST ISSUE FREE, ADDITIONAL COPIES $1

Parker expressed his belief that Clinton is a part of this repression.

He continued, "The Clintons were the ones who were responsible for the mass incarceration of black youth. When Bill Clinton was president he passed these laws that facilitated these mass incarcerations and Hillary is behind that super predator rhetoric."

Eli Diaz questioned Clinton's visit to ELAC, which according to a spring 2014 report is 77.3 percent Hispanic/Latino.

"This cause is really important to me, I'm actually an Anaheim resident, I'm a dreamer. My political science professor told me about this rally and I didn't think much of it, but then I heard the Chicano side was going to be here representing Latinos."

"One thing I couldn't figure out was why [Clinton] would come to ELAC and then I put the date together, May 5, and that's back to what we've been fighting, pandering," he said.

"We don't exist just on these holidays," Diaz expressed. "Our issues continue."

Bill banning campus smoking passes

Staff Writer

On April 25, California Assembly approved tobacco-free campuses on all community colleges and California State University campuses.

Assemblyman Kevin McCarty, representative of District 7 including parts of Sacramento, is the person behind this proposal.

According to McCarty's website it states "The Assembly today passed Assembly Bill (AB) 1594, Tobacco/ Smoke Free Public Postsecondary Campuses (McCarty, D-Sacramento) with bipartisan support on a vote of 48 to 24.

"This bill would prohibit any person from smoking or using any tobacco product, including ecigarettes, on any of the California Community College (CCC), and California State University (CSU) campuses by 2018."

Leslie Castellanos, undecided major said, "The positives of a smoke-free campus is that there would be less air pollution and it is less riskier for people that have asthma.

"As a non-smoker, I dislike second-hand smoke. There are also pregnant women on campus. The policy would also be better for people who smoke because it might be a motivation for them to quit."

McCarty said, "This measure will promote a safe and healthy environment for students to learn and make campuses a more educationfriendly environment and tobaccosmoke-free."

The proposal includes the right for school trustees and board members to fine smokers up to $100 for smoking violations on campus.

The money would be used for programs on that particular campus where the offense was made.

Not everyone supports this idea, such as Assemblyman Donald Wagner, representative of District 68 which includes Orange County.

He thinks this rule isn't necessary because there are already local governments that have power to regulate issues such as campussmoking policies.

His argument is that campus policies should be left alone for the people that are particularly in charge of them to decide on rules.

Some members of Cerritos College ASCC are in support of and planning to implement a tobaccofree policy at Cerritos College.

Hugo Avalos, ASCC Senator expressed, "The biggest reason I support this is health. Second-hand smoke is a big issue, we don't see the problems until later on.

"Nobody's really take care of their health issues now and as we get older we will start to realize and wish that we had sone something to prevent this from happening such as bad habits or death.

He continued, "There's been tons of articles and research that some people that go to tobacco free-campuses actually quit smoking once the policy passes.

"What I plan on doing is having a whole semester where students will adjust and have the idea of a tobacco-free campus, so they can come up with different alternatives or find somewhere that they can smoke outside of campus.

Avalos added, "We [ASCC] will fine people after the transition period but it wont be a huge expensive fine, but more of an annoying fine so people won't want to do it over and over.

We want to come up with a way to adjust to students where if you get caught smoking you would be fined a certain amount, but the second time it would double."

Taking to the street: Faculty Federation rallied on Studebaker and Alondra on May 4. CCFF has been in negotiations with the district for a complete contract; the negotiations are at an impasse.

Faculty Federation rallies for contract

A placard flew in the wind, it read in blue letters, "50 million on the backs of students."

The red "power of a thank you shirts" were visible from the outskirts of the college as the Faculty Federation and students rallied on Alondra and Studebaker.

Anthropology Professor Monica Bellas held the sign, which was a message about the board of trustees.

"The board of trustees has a stock pile of $50 million and it is not spending it on classes or students, [it is not being] spent on hiring new faculty to teach classes. By law [the board] only has to have $5 million in reserve and [the board] refuses to release $45 million to fund students for education."

She said, "As a professor it makes me feel very angry, we are here to teach students, Cerritos College is not to function as a bank."

English Professor Lyndsey Lefebvre was seen in red attire and adjunct professor buttons emblazoned all around her sweater.

"We just want to call attention to the community that we want the dollars that [are being] given to this campus to be spent on students and if you spend on students you have to spend on the teacher."

Moving on to the board

The rally which started at 3 p.m., ended at 5:30 p.m. and was moved to the administration quad immediately and lasted until the board of trustees meeting.

"But we respect faculty and we respect the people who work here and we will consider faculty's needs but also, students are first we will make a good and wise decision to serve our students and the faculty who helps us too."

Students caught in the middle

Student Martha Meza gave an emotional speech during the board of trustee's public comment expressing her support and appreciation for her professors.

"The part time teachers, they care for students most of the tenured teachers they care about us. I am a disabled student, I have a learning disability and I have professors who support me for my needs and part-time teachers have to run to go teach another class.

"That is why I support them and I want to be a voice for them, not only for them but for me too and for everybody especially those with learning disabilities," she said.

Liu stated that the college wants to serve the students better.

"I feel sorry of course, because we serve our students but also our students can understand sometimes parents argue, we don't necessarily agree all of the time, but we will try to reach an agreement at this difficult time,

Staff, faculty, and students then moved we hope students can understand we want to serve [them] better, it's not to give students a

Dr. Fierro stated that the district met with Board President Dr. Shin Liu stated, "We a mediator on May 2 from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and the next meeting is scheduled for May 19.

He added that the conversation is ongo-

AB-1725 and the Master Plan

Sociology Professor Bobbi Lee Smart stated during public comment that the college is not following assembly bill AB-1725.

"I'm not sure of all of the details of the assembly bill, but it came out in 80s or the 90s and it basically says that the CSUs, the UCs, and the community colleges are supposed to have 75 percent full time faculty and only 25 percent part time.

"The purpose of part timers is to fill a void [...] it is not supposed to be the backbone of the community, but now it is the opposite. It is about 65 percent part-time here and only 35 percent full time, so it is completely skewed, which affects students."

The assembly bill Smart is referring to is AB-1725 signed in 1988 by Governor George Deukmejian which has a section that addresses the goal for colleges to have a 75:25 ratio.

"I also talk about the master plan which came out in the 60s, that says that community colleges, CSUs and UCs were created public growth for citizens of California to educate us, to give us a good job, to help us and they are supposed to be tuition free.

"There's other people in terms of faculty that are older than me that went to college for free. Arnold Schwarzenegger went to Santa Monica College and paid $6 a semester in fees."

She continued, "The CSUs at that same time in the 70s were about $15 a semester, for a whole semester."

According to UC Berkeley archives, The California Master Plan for Higher Education was developed in the early 1960s by a survey team from the UC Regents and State Board of Education.

The Donahoe Act placed some of the key elements of the plan was signed into law on

About 60 agreements were formed creating a large network of public higher education in terms of enrollment. The system created includes community colleges, CSUs, and UCs.

Smart compared that to what students currently pay for tuition.

"Why? Why do they have $50 million in reserve and why am I teaching a class of 60? Why are you paying $1,900 for me to teach a class of 60? Where is the money going?

"I am paid for by the state, I am not paid by your tuition. These are questions that students should be asking," she concluded.

As of summer 2016, the enrollment fee at Cerritos is $46 per unit while students who are non-residents of California or International Students, with or without F-1 visas pay $259 per unit.

Celebrating Women: Certificates of appreciation were given to the people who participated. This was done to help them for their hard work.

Women's History Month has come to its complete end this se-

Anna Torres-Bower hosted the last event on May 5 thanking students, instructors and faculty for their collaboration.

"Every participant brought to this initiative a different perspective of the theme women transforming communities through engagement from civics, to what is ethics, from mathematics, philosophy, science, psychology, business, history, tech-

Safety lights brought to campus

KARLA ENRIQUEZ Editor -In- Chief ₩@Karlamenriquez

The bustling of cars and students going in and away from Cerritos College wont be the only things inhabiting the Alondra and Studebaker intersection as of this summer.

Alarm Stations

The blue lights are emergency alarm stations strategically located around campus for anyone in need of help in times of distress.

Emergency blue lights will start appearing on the intersection and across campus at about the same time most students start attending summer classes.

College President Jose Fierro has had the implementation of these devices in mind since the beginning of his presidency.

"This started about a year ago,

I was watching one of the board meetings during the preparation for my interviews, and I noticed the security concerns. The blue lights and cameras were discussed, so I remember during the forums [...] a student asked me about security and so on, so it has been on my radar.

"I have asked to expedite blue lights, so I want to increase the presence of blue lights in the college, making sure that they are in the densely populated areas of campus to make sure our students, staff, faculty, and administrationall have access and be able to call in case of an emergency."

According to Vice President of Student Services Stephen Johnson, the blue lights will be highly visible and locations have been figured out relative to two considerations:

- Where they will have the most access

Furthermore, Fierro added, "We're going to install six or so initially and were going to make sure they are around campus in different locations.

"We're working with the police department to identify the best locations for that. I want to make sure we increase preventive measures of different levels of security."

Johnson noted that most of the exterior units will have cameras with an overview and a camera for the face to allow campus police to see what is happening around the individual who places a call.

Spanish major Melissa Beleche said, "I think the emergency blue lights would be really helpful at Cerritos College, because like for Most quickly connect the example I have night classes and I

Appearance

Johnson stated that students can identify the devices by the clear markings that these are emergency phones done in a vertical sign.

"They will include a blue light at the top, [...] that has become a universal identifier, they will have a push button and a speaker, and part of the reason for that is it maximizes accessibility for folks to be able to use.

"The unit will have braille on the units themselves, [...] the button will be pushed at the time of emergency.

"The call will go immediately to campus police dispatch.

He added, "That call to dispatch will go as a 911 call, which thing that necessitates the Los Angeles County 911, we have a direct path to them so that we can connect a call as fast as possible," he concluded.

Fierro added that in addition to the blue lights additional security cameras that cannot be seen will be installed to increase coverage.

Women's History concludes

That shows that students really care about their education and how important events like women's history month are.

Experiences

"Overall it was awesome and a great experience I really saw a lot of enthusiasm go in this."

Richard Melendez, kinesiology major and third place essay winner said, "I think events like these are very important, just from all the events that I've attended for women's history month and seeing so much support."

He took some time to share what the essay he wrote was about, "I've had the privilege to work with many influential women in Puerto Rico who helped the community.

"One of the ways they helped the community was by creating an organic farm, Many students would be brought from elementary, middle, high schools and even colleges to the organic farm and teach them the importance of agriculture and sustaining own life."

Appreciation

Anna Torres-Bower had some words of appreciation of her own to share, "Here we celebrated the extraordinary resilience and power of Cerritos College and all the people that made it possible, over 68 events in four months.

"The variety of these events is astonishing and unbelievable. We had guest speakers, book clubs, faculty presentations, panels, essay contests, classroom projects, workshops, open houses and faculty development activities.

"These are the general categories of the different activities that took place and has been coordinated this semester and not a single event was canceled."

At the end of the presentation there was food and music for the everyone who attended to enjoy.

Cole dedicates 41 years to Cerritos

KELLY NAM Staff Writer @talonmarks

After 41 years of dedication to Cerritos College and the Cerritos College Foundation, Janice Cole, the Foundation treasurer, will retire.

On May 5, Cerritos College faculty celebrated the retirement of Cole with a reception at the Student Center stage.

The Foundation which is a nonprofit organization, serves as a charitable vehicle for the community, individuals and alumni, to assist with financial support of Cerritos College.

During the 2014-2015 academic year, the Cerritos College Foundation awarded $209,510 in academic and need-based scholarships to deserving students.

It provided $1,293,446 to total support to various academic programs at the college.

Cole said, "I started working here as a student in 1970. She went on, "I worked until

I got a job at another district and came back and worked for the same boss until he retired.

"This is like my second home there are amazing people here to work with."

"The students are beyond exceptional. It's a great place to make a difference in peoples lives," she said.

She added, "I had that opportunity with the scholarships that we do. I have never dreaded going into work and I love my job so it's hard Cole continued, "If you have a job you love, you will never work a day in your life and that's so true.

"I got to meet interesting people, make a difference, laugh and joke with people around me," Cole said.

"I feel like I grew up here. I got married and had a child while I was here, my son went and graduated from here, it's very hard to say goodbye.

"I love the people and my coworkers and it will be hard to leave the relationships but I'm looking forward to new adventures," Cole expressed.

Former dean of Community Education, business education instructor and Cole's first boss, Nello Di Corpo said, "I hired her in '75; she was a spark plug. She's loyal, a family member, she kept us all to-

"Cerritos is going to miss her they're not going to find anyone like her I've been trying to get her to retire for 24 years because thats when I retired, 24 years ago."

Di Corpo said, "Janice has heart. She is the glue that puts everything together and everything sticks because of her."

"I hired her as a student worker, she's a friend of my sister. Barbara Keenoy, former secretary of the Foundation said.

"It was the early 70s that we hired her as a student worker in community services, eventually I was [Di corpo's] secretary and eventually she took my job because I had a baby," Rachel Samarin, program assistant of Cerritos College Foundation stated, "Janice has been incredible. I've worked with her for nine years and its been an amazing nine years.

"She is kind, thoughtful, generous and Cerritos College is a better place because she's been here.

Samarini noted, "She going to be missed terribly and I sit right next to her so it's going to be different."

She added, "I'm excited for her and her future as she ushers in this golden time of her life and we're going to miss her. You can't replace Janice."

A farewell: Hagop Najarian, art professor, thanks Cole for her dedication.

Supporting Trump is toxic

BENJAMIN GARCIA Staff Writer @pieloverable

The few eloquent Trump supporters cannot defend their fuhrer from assertions of being obviously fascist.

In 2015 Trump expressed his plans for ethnic cleansing. Cruz dropped the race, Kasich soon afterwards. Trump will be a presidential nominee by default. Amidst the white supremacist proponents of Donald John Trump and the uninformed social media movement "Ber-

Goodbye tacos, hello Subway!

JENNY GONZALEZ Staff Writer 🄰 @jennnnay44

Subway coming to Cerritos College is a good thing because they have healthier alternatives than Taco Bell.

Many students may have liked Taco Bell because it was a cheaper option to what The Bowl and Burdog has to offer, but it wasn't necessarily healthier.

Although one of the clichés that comes with college students is their bad eating habits, Subway seems to be a healthier option to the substandard food that Taco Bell offers.

Subway does have extreme meat sandwiches, like the pastrami sandwich and the steak and cheese sandwich; but at least there is a choice for those who do not eat meat, like the Veggie Delight.

Taco Bell only had bean burritos and nachos. For vegetarians, or someone cutting back on eating meat, one of the best and most delicious options that Subway offers is indeed the Veggie Delight.

Subway also offers salads! Yes, you can add meat, but there is a possibility to remove the meat, so vegans and vegetarians can rejoice.

Comparing just the options for non-meat eaters on a calorie counter, and the options they have at both Subway and Taco Bell, students can see that Subway wins in terms of healthier options.

Bringing awareness to Cinco De Mayo

KRISTOPHER CARRASCO Online Editor @902kris

What was originally meant to be a Cinco de Mayo themed fundraiser for the SAFE Club ended up becoming an entire celebration, when other clubs decided joining in would be beneficial for everyone.

Students were welcomed to school on Thursday by a festival full of clubs, music, food and performances in celebration of Cinco de Mayo.

The celebration took place at Falcon Square and lasted throughout the afternoon with plenty of time for students to participate in the festivities.

With the help of ASCC, the clubs joined together to turn a fundraiser idea into an entire event that not only offers entertainment, but brings light to a dominant culture

According to Alan Rodriguez, president of the SAFE Club, there is a misconception in what Cinco de Mayo really celebrates and that this event is meant to bring light to that.

"It's a misconception of it being a Mexican Independence Day[...] I'm Mexican and Cinco de Mayo celebrates the victory my mom is from Puebla so I'm really in to the community by sharing their culture.

"A lot of Americans think it's a form of communities in both Mexico and in the Independence Day for Mexico. I just want- ferent countries[...] This makes me feel haped to show everybody that there is a lot of Mexican culture that thrives here at Cerritos," Rodriguez said.

The clubs were selling traditional Mexican candy, snacks and drinks with MeChA performing traditional folkloric dances in the center of it all.

A crowd of watchers roared as the dancers got ready in the colorful and exotic at-

"These are not just celebrations in one part of the world, this has ties to many difpy, to be able to share it with other groups and to have the support of faculty and other students," Lopez said.

Lopez mentioned that people should continue to honor their traditions from where ever they come from.

The event was able to bring a lot of students from different areas together as many members of the community joined in.

Every time a new song came on, the stu-MeChA adviser, Alex Lopez, said that dents in line for tacos would cheer and be-

Marlene Estrada, member of MeChA, believed the event went well and that it offered a lot of visibility to the clubs on cam-

'There's a lot of people walking by [and] seeing who we are and asking who MeChA is. A lot of people don't know who we are, but it's great that they're asking questions," She said.

Estrada thinks students should be more involved and that students shouldn't feel ashamed to be who they are.

"La gente unida jama sera vencida," she added. Which translates to people united will never be defeated.

Social media users continue creating false realities of life

CHANTAL ROMERO Staff Writer @Chantal_Marie_

It seems like nowadays people rely on social media to feel validated about their lives.

Have you ever waited to eat a meal because you needed the perfect Snapchat or Instagram post?

In the rare case that you haven't, there's a very high chance that you know someone who does put their life on hold for the perfect post.

Remember the old days when all you needed to get past was prayer time?

Now you have social outings where it takes 10 minutes to dive into a dish because everybody needs to post and earn likes. Why do we feel the need to post everything? What does someone's "thumbs up," "heart," "like" do for our well being? According to degreed.com, social media is addictive. About 63 percent of Americans log into Facebook on a daily basis and 40 percent sign in multiple times. Many claim that they'll sign in out of boredom, or because they're looking for a distraction. The addiction develops with the likes or thumbs up one receives from posting. The positive reinforcement for posting validates the users and makes them always come back.

Being addicted to social media can be a challenging

Like with any other addiction, such an excessive ex-posure to social media is detrimental.

It paints an idealized picture of what life should be like. There's constant comparison between what one posts and what others post.

If one doesn't get as many likes, or validation points as we can call it, one might feel as if society's expectations aren't being met.

This can lead to decreased self-esteem and make users unhappy.

Frequent users also express that using social media often gives them FOMO (fear of missing out) one can especially see that for example with music festivals like Coachella or EDC.

People who attend even these sorts of events constantly post and make one constantly check their Snapstory or Instagram only making the user wish he or she

It's problematic because it repeatedly sets expectations as to what a certain individual should be up to and when that individual can't, he or she is exposed to all the things he or she might be missing out on.

This constant comparison might make a person feel unsuccessful and depressed.

Social media has evolved rapidly and with it, the effects that it has on individuals.

It is always important to be aware of the difference between trying to portray an image online and what actually happened before the user's post.

Social media can be deceiving and make individuals believe in a false reality.

Teachers utilize social media to benefit students in school

KRISTOPHER CARRASCO Online Editor @902kris

Over the years, the advances in technology have become intertwined with everyday life.

For example, cellphones are no longer limited to making phone calls and sending out a simple text message. Phones are capable of much more, like being able to use social media apps.

Often times people use social media for a variety of things, but how effective is it if a teacher used it in a learning environment?

According to edudemic.com, social media can be used in many ways as a teaching tool.

Marcela Lopez, a teacher's assistant in the LA county school district, uses Twitter as a way to connect with her high school students.

"Often times, students forget the homework or what they've learned in class. So I use this as a way to Lopez says her account that she shares with students is mainly used for class or school related posts. Should professors be using social media more to stay connected? There are several professors on campus that use social media as tools to stay connected with students

For example, math professor Ian McCance created an online math book that his students could access for no cost at all.

He also linked youtube tutorials, which he created, to go over example math problems step by step to help his students understand the math problem better.

His students were encouraged to learn the math lessons at home in the online book, and practice the homework problems in class in case they needed his help or the help of those around his students.

Because educators deal with a variety of different students each year, the use of social media seems to be Cerritos College uses Talonnet.com which is a site that allows students to check grades, make posts and utilize resources the professor provides for them.

Students are also able to use a discussion board amongst their classmates as a way to reach out to others in need of answers to certain questions.

Students can also chose to have any announcements made on Talonnet.com forwarded to their email, which hinders students full usage of the site.

While this can act as a social media tool to stay connected, not many professors use it, and in return students end up with a limited interaction.

Eliott Martinez, undecided major, says, "I think it would help with staying updated.

"Let's say class is cancelled or you forgot the homework, all you have to do is check Twitter," he said.

Social media is still evolving and people are constantly finding different ways to use it throughout their days, but maybe someday in the future teachers will be able to find an effective way to reach their students using only social media.

Civil War builds anticipation

MARVEL STUDIOS/TNS Chris Evans, Elizabeth Olsen, Jeremy Renner, Paul Rudd, Anthony Mackie and Sebastian Stan in "Captain America: Civil War"

KRISTOPHER CARASSCO
Online Editor
@902kris

Warning: Movie Spoiler Alert

The next movie in from the wonderful world of Marvel has finally arrived as Captain America and Iron Man duke it out in Captain America's Civil War.

Considering Civil War is the next addition to the continuing story of our beloved Avengers and the infinity stones, every Marvel movie fan needs to see this movie.

This movie is long and sometimes a bit lack luster, but the pay off is well worth it because it not only introduces new characters like Spider Man and The Black Panther, but it maps out the future of the Avengers.

Civil War does a good job at keeping the viewers entertained and informed on the deeper truths behind the Avengers.

There is constant foreshadowing of the developing plot, and the comic relief is kept to a minimum and used in spots that balance out the long dialogue.

Usually the comic relief in these movies can be really obnoxious, but Civil War does a great way to get you to chuckle every now and then.

Spider Man by far steals the show. Tom Holland is a natural Peter Parker and does a wondrous job at capturing the care free, friendly humor that Spider Man has during the heat of battle.

After the team gets torn apart by emotions and politics, there's a huge super hero brawl that will really make you feel like a kid again.

It was like watching a live version of Marvel vs Capcom, minus the Capcom characters.

The Black Panther plays a significant role in the movie in a way that also showcases how powerful he really is

He easily goes toe to toe with Captain America and the Winter Soldier in one of the coolest action/chase scenes ever.

This movie really does a good job at hyping up the future Marvel films, while following up on the current status of the Avengers.

Lastly, still till the very end of the film. There's two ending credit scenes that will leave you smiling like a kid on Christmas.

Both Cerritos track and field teams have a combined 40 individuals athletes and three relay teams advancing to the state finals.

Saturday Cerritos College track and field competed at the Southern California Championship Preliminaries, in Antelope Valley.

Road to a repeat

As an individual team, the women's team dominated, gaining 26 team points to place first in the competition.

"The young ladies did outstanding this [past weekend]," said women's head coach Michael Allen, "We're defending champs so everyone was taking a shot at us."

At the end of the weekend, 22 individual women and two relay teams advanced to the Southern California Championships. Director of Track and Field, Chris Richardson said, "With our women's team being fairly young with a few strong seasoned returners, I could not be more proud." Out of the 22 athletes, Destiny Mack-Talalemotu and Najia Hudspeth both placed first in two separate events.

Mack-Talalemotu placed first in discus (46.17 meters) and shot put (13.33 meters.)

performance this weekend- I know I can do better," said Mack- Talalemotu about her performance. "My main focus was just to make it to the next meet at the SoCal finals."

Hudspeth took first in both the 100 meters (12.35 seconds) and 200 meters (25.26 seconds.) After clinching a four-peat, as South Coast Conference Champions, the road to a state championship repeat is well underway.

Mack- Talalemotu had high confidence going to South Coast Conference Championship stating that in her opinion "the conference championship was already [the women's] to begin with."

However, Richardson stresses that "focusing on the task at hand," and on each individual race, is the most important thing.

"Track and field in Southern California is extremely competitive and even though our ladies are talented, prepared and motivated anything can happen.

"Losing focus is the first and most critical mistake that can be made," he said

Still, with a state championship repeat within reaching distance, the women have a target on their backs as they are definitely the team to beat.

"Our women's team competes with a constant target on its back as returning state champions," said Richardson.

If the team wins at the SoCal Championships this coming weekend, it would be its third first place win in five seasons.

"I'm asking each young lady this weekend to step it up a notch. What we did last week was good, and it has already served his purpose," said Allen.

"This week we have a new chal-"I was not satisfied with my lenge in front of us, and we're expecting all of our young ladies to rise to the occasion."

Reaching for a championship

Coming off a second place win in conference, Cerritos men's track and field were unable to obtain high placement in the preliminary events this past weekend.

The team had 18 individuals and one relay team advance to the SoCal Championships.

First place winners included: high jumper Vincent Calhoun (1.92 meters), pole vaulters Nicholas Mendoza and Andrew Hladek who tied with a finishing height of 4.37 meters.

Richardson was both proud and impressed with the men stating, "There were only a couple of spots that did not advance that I expected to move on."

Moving on to this weekend, the men will be reaching to improve their championship standing.

The men have placed third three times in the last four seasons and fourth in the 2012-13 season.

If the team advances through this weekend it will strive to obtain its first state championship.

The team has come close to doing so placing fifth in the 2011-12 season, third in 2013-14 season and seventh last season.

Head coach Morris Jones said, "We are really excited about those moving on."

He feels that the men performed and represented the school

Richardson continued to express his enthusiasm of the men's performance this past meet.

"I felt that our men's team performed extremely well," said Richardson, "The intensity and motivation of our men this past weekend was impressive."

On-Field Accomplishments

This past year for track was riddled with record setting performances and recognitions.

Mack-Talalemotu had a big season breaking three records in throwing events.

She was also awarded Field Athlete of the Meet during SoCal Conference Finals after clinching her three conference titles.

"I am honored to be named the field athlete for that meet, it feels amazing to be able to help out my team," she said.

Yearly Awards

Najia Hudspeth also broke three records this season and was awarded SCC Running Athlete of SCC Field Athlete of the Year was given to Juanita Webster who broke a significant number of Cerritos College track and field records this year. She now holds places in the top five in five events.

The final recognition went to Maria Orosco who was awarded Co-Running Athlete of the Meet at SCC Championship.

It was also a good year for relay teams with both breaking into the top five this year.

Members of the 1600 meter relay team include: Nylia Hudspeth, Rabia Hawes, Bria Palmer and Najia Hudspeth. The members of the 400 meter relay team are: Lilian Ebanks, Najia Hudspeth, Nylia Hudspeth and Meka Story. Other record breakers this season included Erica Davis and Lilian Ebanks. "There is a lot of pride that goes into being a Cerritos College student athlete. The team is known all over the state [...]" said Allen. "The college and the coach expect excellence. The young ladies from the track program do an excellent job of representing the college as lady Falcons."

The men also had plenty of record breaking moments this year.

Hurdler, Dario Robinson improved his mark and is now second over all in the 110 meter HH with a time of 14.22 seconds.

Alejandro Rios, Tristan Escobar and Vincent Calhoun also broke records this season earning their spot in the Cerritos College men's track and field top five marks.

Coaches were not left out of the recognitions.

Michael Allen was award women's coach of the year for the seventh time and Lloyd Higgins was awarded assistant coach of the year for the sixth time.

Keeping up with tradition of years past, Cerritos College continues to be a constant competitor in athletics.

This year, Cerritos College produced four state championships and 14 conference titles, with three more teams fighting in the state play-

For the fourth consecutive season, women's soccer head coach Ruben Gonzalez has carried his team to a state championship. "It's unbelievable to be able to complete four straight championships," Gonzalez said. Wrestling had two wrestlers that were crowned state champion in two different weight classes. Aaron Negrete captured the 157-pound title while Oscar Martinez snagged the 197-pound championship.

For the first time in school history, women's tennis under the tutelage of head coach Alvin Kim, won the first CCCAA Dual Team Championship in school history.

"The women's season was probably the most difficult I've ever had; clashing personalities and internal issues made it difficult to keep the team together.

"However, in the end winning bonds everyone and we ended up on top," Kim said.

Despite every sport not winning state championships, Falcon teams competed at the

"For the first season ever, we did not make the playoffs. It's always tough to defend your state title but, overall we had a good season and finished the season exteremly strong.

"We had five straight shutouts to finish the year and that gave our freshmen a good amount of experience. Next year looks extremely promising," Artiaga said.

South Coast Conference Coach of the Year, Russ May, coached his men's basketball team to the second round of the playoffs before being bounced by East LA.

Under first year head coach Trisha Raniewicz, the women's basketball team made it to the playoffs only to be defeated by Irvine Valley for the second consecutive year.

National Northern League Coach of the Year, Frank Mazzotta, admitted that the team completed every goal he and the coaching staff had set with the exception of one, winning the

The team lost in the Southern California Bowl to rival Long Beach City.

Despite the ending of the season returning running back Kishawn Holmes is proud of his teammates and the team's future.

"The season went great; [there is] only so much you can do especially when you try to contribute to the team and be a team player. The win outcomes could have been better, but as a team player, it went great," Holmes said.

Behind the hot bat of sophomore outfielder For the first time in the last nine years, the Mark Pena and the coaching of head coach Ken Gaylord, the Cerritos baseball team made it to the first round of the playoffs.

Cerritos, the No. 12 seed, won the first game not competing on the grandest stage but he unagainst No. 5 Grossmont before losing both games of the doubleheader the following day.

> "It was a good year, we competed. It didn't turn out how we wanted but we put ourselves in great positions to win but that's baseball. I'm proud of the team," said Pena.

> Handling double duty, men's tennis head coach Kim had both of his teams in the state playoffs.

> Despite not capturing the gold, similar to the women's team, Kim was proud of his team's season and says more is to come.

> "Our men's team was young and its response to the big moments showed. I'm hoping that watching the women's success from the sidelines will motivate them to play angry next year," said Kim.

Not every team could make the playoffs but every Cerritos College athletic team continues to make great strides toward progress.

Softball and Cerritos track and field are still vying for a state championship.
