

Cosmetology Sponsors Annual Family Evening

The Cerritos College's Cosmetology Department is holding its annual Family Night tonight from 3-8 p.m.

The event is planned for members of the Cosmetology Department families only.

The night gives the students an opportunity to bring their families in for permanent waves, hair cuts, sets, manicures, and tints.

Recently Mrs. Florence Tilson, department chairman, and several cosmetology students traveled to Artesia High School where they presented a program on personal grooming.

Students making the trip were Kathy Ledbetter, Myrna Novak, Dianne Douglas, Janice Lichty, Frances De Marco, and Marty Arebalo.

Tourney Climaxes Forensic Season

Cerritos College's Forensic Squad members will compete in the Fall Championship Tournament at Los Angeles State College tomorrow and Saturday.

Sponsored by the Southern California Collegiate Forensic Association, this tournament will be the climax of a season filled with various tournaments and events.

Competition starts at 1 p.m. on Friday, and continues until the announcement of awards at 6 p.m. on Saturday. Trophies will be given for first places, and certificates will be awarded for other places and excellent and superior performances. There are also school honor awards for best overall squad achievement.

Entered in categories of extemporaneous speaking and impromptu is the debate team of Tom Carey and Robert Woolery.

The debate team of Steve Altig and Patti Roberts is also entered in the impromptu category.

Also taking part in the oratory and interpretive aspects of the tournament is the debate team of Jeri Williams and Tisha Beery.

The debate team of Maureen Pollock, Gloria Weatherbee, and Richard Harris is entered in oratory.

Entered in individual events are Phyllis Howard, Bette Longden, and Leann Oban.

HELPING STUDENTS plan their programs for the spring semester is the main project in the counseling offices these days. Pre-Registration to Begin Dec. 11 for Spring Semester

Pre-registration for the spring semester for all students having a tentative program plan from their counselors will begin December 11. There will be no need for these students to see a counselor at that time; they should just go to the counseling office to make out their schedules. Registration will continue through the week.

Those students who have not filled out a program plan with their counselors can register December 12 and 14 only from 11 a.m. to 12 noon, and 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. Schedules of the classrooms assigned for this purpose will soon be posted throughout the campus.

Times and classrooms for extended day students will be posted also.

Additional placement tests are necessary now for all students entering Cerritos who have not had a prerequisite college course within the past three years.

The regular college placement test must be taken starting December 2 at 9 a.m. if there is no record of scores on file.

The Mathematics test will be given at 1 p.m. on the same day, and the Chemistry test at 2 p.m.

'Pleased'

Drama and speech instructor Lee Korf reported that he was "quite pleased" with the audience response of "Romanoff and Juliet."

The play was presented last weekend in the Student Center. "Considering the rain, I'd say we had a fair turnout," Korf said. "I think the people who saw the play maybe learned a little tolerance, along with having some entertainment."

For reviews of "Romanoff and Juliet," see page two.

Band and Choir in Second Annual Holiday Program

Under the direction of John Feeney and Jack Wheaton, the Cerritos choir and band will perform in the second annual Christmas program on December 14, at 11 a.m. in the Student Center.

The theme this year is "The Song of Christmas," a story of the nativity as told in Christmas songs, carols, and biblical verses, written by Roy Ringwald. Narration of the story will be by Bob Longden while the choir sings three arrangements of the story and carols.

Soloists are Betty Watt, Sandra Bradley, Diane Iles, Robert Fraire, and Ross Billetta. Accompanist will be Henrietta Felix.

The Cerritos Band will open their part of the program with Christmas songs beginning with "White Christmas." They will follow with "Greensleeves," "Theme from the Nutcracker Suite," and "Christmas Festival."

The program will close with singing by the choir and audience accompanied by the band.

Library Features Student Exhibit

The Norwalk public library is now displaying art works of Cerritos students, according to art instructor Rudy Aguirre.

Aguirre said that he had a personal request from the librarian at Norwalk for some representative art works of art students. "I guess word is getting around about our student work," Aguirre said. "Their work is getting better all the time."

The exhibit features some of the entries which won prizes for Cerritos students in the recent Artesia Art Festival. Included in the exhibit will be oil paintings, commercial art, design work, life drawings, and free hand drawings.

Athletes Invited To Sigs Dance

Sigma-Phi will have their first annual Christmas Invitational Dance 8 p.m. to 12 p.m. Friday, December 8, at the Student Center. The dance is by invitation only, extended to the members of the football, water polo, and cross country teams.

This will be a semi-formal event. Music will be supplied by the Notables and the entertainment will consist of games, and prizes, and refreshment will include cookies and punch.

ROBERT KIRSH, book editor of the Los Angeles Times, shown here recommending new reading material to students Bud Beecher and Nellie Weeda, recently opened the Cerritos "Meet The Author" series. Wirt Williams, author of "Ada Dallas," will be appearing December 12.

LIBRARY DISPLAY — exhibits concerning narcotics and dactylography (study of fingerprints) are currently featured in the campus library.

WARNING — students who attend any school function in possession of, or under the influence of alcohol will be endangering their school status, according to Dean of Women Amy Dozler. Failure to obey this rule concerning alcohol has, and will continue to cause dismissal from school.

The Dean of Women also stated that alcohol is not only forbidden by school rules but also by law.

'Edelweiss' to Present Native German Dances

Der Edelweiss, the Cerritos German Club, will hold its second annual Christmas Party on Wednesday, December 13, at 8 p.m. in the Student Center.

The program will present an hour's entertainment and dancing. Tom Carey, president of Phi Rho Pi, will act as Master of Ceremonies of the annual event.

The program will begin with carols sung in German by the Cerritos College Women's Ensemble under the direction of Jack Feeney. Gerald M. Kopache will then pan the first movement of Beethoven's Pathetique Sonata.

Bernadette Maguire, a former professional night club singer, will sing some popular German ballads. A performance by the Danube Seabian Dance Group will complete the entertainment. The dance group is under the direction of Jakob Braeu. They will perform traditional German folk dances and will be in native costume. The Danube Seabian Dance Group has performed all over Southern California, including Disneyland.

Following the program will be refreshments and dancing to the music of the Cerritos College Dance Band. There is no admission charge, and everyone is invited.

Falcon Grapplers Rip Sac 26-3; Klump Pins Foe

Heavyweight Bill Klump pinned his opponent last Friday, to lead the Cerritos College wrestling team to a smashing 26-3 victory over visiting Mt. San Antonio.

It was the first match for both squads this season, and the Falcons won every match except one.

Jerry Lundgren, 123 pounder for the Falcons, defeated his opponent to open the match. Jerry Adams, 130 pound Falcon newcomer, was the only loser for the home squad, as he was out-pointed by his Mt. Sac. opponent.

Art Kaklow and Dave Young were victors for the Falcons in the 147 and 157 pound classes respectively, as they both won their matches by a decision.

Freshmen Nick Saputo decided his opponent in the 167 pound class, while Buddy Cox was victorious in the 177 pound weight group for the Falcons.

Sophomore Gary Meissner was victorious in the 191 pound group, after being out for the squad for only one day.

Klump was the only Falcon grappler to pin his opponent, as he won his match in the first fall.

CERRITOS COLLEGE WRESTLER Bill Klump is shown in action against Mt. Sac. opponent in recent match held at Cerritos. The freshman heavy weight went on to pin his mountain side visitor in the first period, as Falcons breezed to victory 26-3.

If everything goes right, the Cerritos Falcons will be traveling to Phoenix College for their first game of the 1962 football season.

This was announced recently on the tentative football schedule for the coming season by Falcon Athletic Director Gene Martin.

The Bear affair will be on September 22, and will mark the third time that these two powers have met. The previous two were Western States Conference encounters, but this one will be a non-league game.

Two years ago the Falcons traveled to Phoenix and thumped a strong Bear squad 28-19. This season the Falcons trampled over the Bears 26-0.

On September 29, the Falcons will host Fullerton on the Cerritos gridiron. The Hornets upset the Falcons this season 20-14, after the Cerritos crew had won the first two games, 34-6 in 1959, and 34-0 in 1960.

In the third game of the season the Falcons play their first game in the powerful Metropolitan Conference against always-tough San Diego, at Cerritos.

The fourth game of the season for the Falcons will pit them against powerful Santa Monica who lost only to Bakersfield this season, 38-26.

The Corsair game will be on October 12, and the Falcons will travel to Santa Monica for that encounter.

East Los Angeles will travel to Cerritos on October 20. The boys from uptown are expected to be a real powerhouse, as this year's squad was almost completely made up of freshmen.

The Falcons will travel to Bakersfield on October 27, to face the powerful Renegades in what could decide next year's Junior Rose Bowl representative from the west.

Bakersfield defeated the Falcons in the Potato Bowl last year 50-28, in the only game the two powers have ever met in.

After the Renegades, the Falcons will return home to face Long Beach City College on November 3.

It will mark the fourth meeting between the two cross-town rivals, with the Vikes holding a 2-1 edge. This year the Vikings trimmed the Falcons 44-30, after taking a 26-10 decision in 1960.

The Falcons' single victory came in 1959, when a powerful Viking crew went down to defeat 6-0, in the initial encounter between the two schools.

If the Falcons are still undefeated by this time, they will be able to waltz into the Junior Rose Bowl as their final two opponents, Los Angeles Valley and El Camino, have been hit hard by graduation.

The Valley contest will be an away game on November 9, while the Falcons will close out the season against El Camino on November 17 at Cerritos.

This reporter still feels that the Falcons, if all the freshmen on this season's squad return, could possibly be on top of the Metropolitan Conference next season.

FALCON FORECAST

Kelso, Johnson, Gurule To Lead Falcon Spikers

By Bill Hampton

Cerritos College could well have the state championship track team here this year, as the Falcon squad will have possibly the state's best performers in the shot put and the pole vault.

Pat Kelso, a 260 pound freshman, has a best toss of better than 56 feet with the 16-pound shot, and he did 62 feet from the 12-pound ball in high school.

Kelso is a transfer from San Jose State, where they were very much impressed by the former Bellflower ace.

Mike Johnson could join Kelso this year with state honors, if he improves as much as he did last season. Last year he had a best vault of 14-6, and his goal this season is 15 feet.

Also in the field events for the Falcons will be Art Delvaux who broad jumped 22-6 last year at Norwalk High School.

In the running events, the squad will be exceptionally strong in the distance races, headed by Gene Gurule and Art Pitman, while the balance of the sprints will be on the shoulders of sophomore Rick Alvarado, who had a best time of 9.9 in the 100 yard dash last season.

Alvarado also had a best time of 21.5 in the 220, while freshman Kerry Wright and sophomore John Menton are the top runners for the Falcons in the 440.

Heading the list of runners for the Falcons in the 880, will be Lynn Taylor and Jim Mason. Taylor ran the two-lap race in 1:55.4 in high school last year, while Mason was timed in 4:21.0 for the mile.

The Falcon four-mile relay team could set a new national record this year, but in order to do that, the four Falcon runners would have to average 4:19.0.

Kelley, Kellogg Top Predictors

Co-sports editors Dave Kellogg and Bill Kelley emerged as the top grid predictors for last weekend with equal 13-4 records.

With the regular season now complete, Kelley took over the over-all lead with a 95-46 mark. Bill Hampton dropped to second place after an 8-9 week. Kellogg and Talon Marks adviser John Dowden are tied for third with 83-58 records. Dowden was 9-8 last week.

Don Desfor had a 12-5 standing last week but remained a few games behind Coach Don Hall with a 77-50 mark to Hall's 80-51.

Five Squad Members Make First Teams

By Bill Hampton

Cerritos College placed quarterback Jerry Otterson and halfback Ronnie Hales on the All Western States Conference offensive team, while Dick Degen, Eldon Taylor and Art Delvaux made the defensive first team.

The Falcons also placed guard Gary Meissner and center Leo Austin on the WSC second team. Otterson was the conference's leading passer with 1355 yards, while Hales was the second leading ground gainer.

Over the course of the season,

Otterson passed for 13 touchdowns, which along with his total passing yardage was the second best total in the nation.

Hales gained over 400 yards rushing in his final five games for the Falcons this season. Coach Hall expects big things from this freshman next year.

The Falcon defense, which in one stretch of the season blanked three straight opponents, was well-represented on the first team, as Degen placed on the first team for the second straight year. Delvaux made the honor role as a defensive halfback, while sophomore linebacker Eldon Taylor also made the first team.

Tackles John Farris and Sheldon Moomaw made honorable mention. The latter is a freshman, whom Coach Hall is also counting on for heavy services next season.

Austin, who played in the All-American Bowl at Albuquerque, New Mexico last Sunday, made second team at center, while guard Gary Meissner also made the second offensive squad.

The Falcons placed four men on the first team, while Glendale and Phoenix both placed five players on the top squad.

Falcons Host Loyola Dec. 8; Oppose Santa Ana Saturday

On tap (not draft-brewed) for Cerritos basketball fans this weekend is a basketball twinbill. The Falcons played host to Long Beach City College, Santa Ana, and Loyola Frosh hoop teams.

Game times are 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. tomorrow night and Saturday night. Tomorrow, Cerritos takes on the rough Loyola five, while Long Beach tangles with Santa Ana. Saturday, the Falcons meet Santa Ana and Long Beach gets a chance at Loyola.

There isn't much known of Loyola but that they get the top Catholic basketball players from high schools in Catholic leagues. Santa Ana, co-champions from the Eastern League with Fullerton last year, will not field as good a team as last season. Santa Ana's record the past year was 26-5, four of those losses to Fullerton, who eventually won the State Junior College Championship.

Next week, Cerritos enters the Chaffey tournament on December 13 and for their first-round game they face Fullerton at 7:30 p.m. in Chaffey's gym. Sixteen teams are entered in the tournament.

This will mark the Falcons first tournament of the young season and the first of four straight tournaments they are invited to. The others are the Santa Ana Basketball Tournament, December 19-21; Sam Barry Basketball Tournament at Glendale, December 26-29; and Modesto Basketball Tournament, January 4-6.

Getting away from future games, Cerritos split last week losing to El Camino 54-50 and dumping East Los Angeles 78-61. The Falcons now have a 2-1 stanza, both wins coming in Cerritos' new gym against Los Angeles Harbor and East L.A.

Against El Camino, Cerritos faded in the final minutes and lost their lead with six minutes left, never to regain it. When the first half ended, Cerritos enjoyed a comfortable seven point lead 33-26.

In the second half a new team came from El Camino's dressing room and quickly closed the gap. With six minutes left, El Camino sank two free throws to put them ahead 47-46. The final buzzer sounded and a tired Falcon five left the floor, four points to short.

Alan Schmelz led the Falcon scorers with 11 points followed by Jerry Atkins with 10 points. Others pointmen were Mike Wallsmith, 8 points; Ron Ray, 7 points; Jack Shawcroft and Gary McArthur, 6 points; and Bob Curtis with 2 points.

In the East L.A. tilt, Cerritos started where they left off against El Camino. The game saw-sawed during the first half with East L.A. taking a one point advantage, 32-31 when the first half ended.

A different Cerritos team faced the Huskies in the second half. Head Coach John Calne stated, "We won because of good aggressive hustling in the second half." That is what the Falcons did by out hustling the Huskies, and beating them, 47-29.

Jerry Atkins, who at one time in the game hit for three straight buckets to put Cerritos ahead by 12 points, was top scorer with 19 points.

Other Falcons to hit in double figures were Ray, 13; McArthur and Shawcroft with 11 points. Schmelz followed with 8 points and Wallsmith had 5 scores.

Kelley to Kellogg

By BILL KELLEY

Too bad, I understand Cerritos was No. 198 on the list of Rose Bowl opponents. If Minnesota had not of come through when they did, we might have been battling the Bruins New Year's Day.

Imagine what kind of game that would produce. Probably cause some national attention. Picture our group of gridders on the Ed Sullivan show or playing thumbs ups with Perry Como.

Coach Hall would announce before a national television audience that he expects UCLA to be a tough team to beat. Coach Barnes in return will say that he expects the Falcons to be rough but his team is really up for the game.

The game would be played up as a cross town rivalry and the merchandisers along Bellflower Blvd. and Norwalk Square would place "Beat the Bruins" signs in their windows.

Co-captains Jerry Otterson and Dick Degen would have dinner with Tuesday Weld at the Movie Studio while the remainder of the team would play the mob in a scene from the "Untouchables."

On the day of the game, the boys would ride in open convertibles in the Rose Parade and then suit up for the game.

Despite natural prejudices, I would use my predicting talent, that made me tops of the staff, and choose UCLA over Cerritos by lots.

★ ★ The General ★ ★

"HE COULD HANDLE SOPHISTICATION." "Particularly impressive as the General." Jim Stinson's performance in the recent production of "Romanoff and Juliet," received praise from reviewers Day and Dighera. For added comments on the production see accompanying reviews. (CCASBFoto by Ray Storie)

'ROMANOFF AND JULIET'

Poor Acoustics Detract From Superb Performance

By Gloria Day

Peter Ustinov's "Romanoff and Juliet" is set in "the realm of sense, of gentleness, of love," in a country where time stands still and even Death is late. The Cerritos drama workshop production of the play last week-end successfully evoked that realm.

Distractions

Not even the distractions of clinking dishes and noisy students in the snack bar could dispel the mood created by the acting, the direction, and the sets of "Romanoff and Juliet." The play's locale is the tiniest country in Europe and concerns the romance between the son and daughter of the Russian and American ambassadors to the country, respectively. The romance threatens to set off a diplomatic and political crisis which will engulf the peace loving little country.

The acting ranged from superior to adequate. Jim Stinson was particularly impressive as the General: it is a cleverly written role and he did justice to it. His first act speech about night set the tone of the play and he sustained a balance between whimsy and poetry in his characterization. His robust singing of the folk song about "our army of rocking horses" was a highlight.

Difficult Role

Richard Lorenzen handled the difficult role of the didactic Igor Romanoff well, investing it with humor and warmth. Pam Kendall's Juliet was not all sweetness and light; she displayed wit and spirit. Miss Kendall's costumes were striking, as were all of the costumes.

The Russian Ambassador and his wife were Michael Shorb and Lucia Hamilton. Shorb's speech about the Russian people was well-read; his accent was admirable, as was Miss Hamilton's. She lent a touch of dignity to her role.

By contrast the American ambassador and his wife, played by Gene Whitcomb and Harriet Seekins, seemed almost pallid. Whitcomb was mis-cast and Miss Seekins did not warm up to her role until the final scene.

Spy Portrayal

Michael Pascal's portrayal of the Spy deserves more space than can be devoted to it here:

anticipated his appearances and applauded him on his exits.

Tom Fitzgerald as Freddie and Adrienne Hansen as the Russian captain were characteristic of the types they played, both in acting and in appearance. Both were excellent.

Lloyd Goebel was hilarious as the ancient Archbishop; his makeup and characterization were outstanding. He was responsible for the longest, loudest laugh of the evening.

As the two-man "army" of the tiny country, Ron McCannon and Ron Miller added to the general chaos and hilarity.

Infinite Care

Lee Korf's direction showed infinite care on his part. It was skillful, drawing the best out of the actors. The elaborately designed sets added much to the play: the lighting effects which transformed seemingly solid walls into transparent screens were most effective. Frank Bock and his technical staff are to be commended.

Everyone concerned with the production of "Romanoff and Juliet" deserves praise.

By James A. Dighera

In contrast to the chaotic, confused, and troublesome world in which we live, it was indeed a pleasure to travel to the world of fantasy and dreams of Peter Ustinov's "Romanoff and Juliet" presented by Cerritos thespians last week. It was indeed gratifying to find the audience so enthusiastic about the beautiful settings designed for the play by Technical Director Frank Bock. The applause accorded to the designer was a recognition of the efforts of much work.

"Seeing Shaw"

As the play opened it seemed as though I was seeing Shaw in the actions and lines of the General (played by James Stinson) and the two soldiers (played by Ron McCommon and Ron Miller.) It should be mentioned that James Stinson certainly has overcome much of the stiffness of the beginning actor which was occasionally present last season when he played J.B. Stinson has proved that he is capable of playing not only serious and tragic roles, but also that he could handle sophistication as well. Stinson and the soldiers effectively handled the witty dialogue of Ustinov in an excellent manner.

In "J.B."

Adrienne Hansen, whom I saw last in "J.B." and who kept getting in and out of character, should be given much praise for her performance as Jr. Capt. Marfa Zlotochienko in last week's performance. Not once did she falter from her characterization.

The sophistication of the Americans was certainly maintained throughout by Gene Whitcomb and Harriet Seekins; however, at times Whitcomb showed a tendency to become himself and forget that he was playing Hooper Moulsworth.

In spite of the superb characterization created by most of the players, I thought Richard Lorenzen was miscast as the young Russian who falls in love with Juliet. Lorenzen was not at ease in this part. He might have felt much better playing one of the character roles. Pam Kendall as Juliet was much too much a Russian to be an American, being too naive in her characterization. Most American Juliets who would have found such a handsome man with which to fall in love would have drooled constantly over their new romantic find.

Much Finesse

Lloyd Goebel as the Archbishop and Mike Pascal as the Spy created two difficult roles with much finesse.

If there was a general criticism to be made of the play I would say that it was unfortunate that many of the "good" lines were lost in the midst of the bad acoustics of the student center. As a result much that went on between the Russians was missed. However, the idea of Russian regimentation envisioned in the actions of the characters was evident, even though the lines were lost.

There was in the production of "Romanoff and Juliet" a certain quality in the delivery of lines and playing of the characters a certain tint of the satire of Shaw and of the sophistication of Coard and Behrman. In talking to various theatre patrons, the majority felt there should be more plays of this type. Lee Korf's skill in theatre arts evidenced in the production.

Cerritos to Host SCJCSGA

Plans for hosting the Southern California Junior College Student Government Association Conference began recently.

Delegates from 30 junior colleges will attend the conference which will be held at Cerritos on Saturday, March 3, 1962.

More than 300 representatives will discuss and recommend policy and procedure for student government at the junior college level.

Conference planning is under the direction of Assistant Director Earl Klapstein and Student Chairman Kirk Dolan.

According to Klapstein, Cerritos is honored to have the association hold their meeting here.

PBL Plans Christmas Party

Business club Phi Beta Lambda, who is sponsoring the Maud B. Booth Home for Children, plans to have a Christmas party for the boys from 7 to 10 p.m. on December 11 in the Student Center.

Carolyn Klein, head of the party committee, obtained three films from a film company to show at the party. The films are "Paul Bunyan," "Big Scott," and an African film.

State President Bob Clemons will be Santa Claus and distribute individual gifts, purchased with the money obtained through selling cans of candy. Presents of curtains, bicycles, and skates will be presented to the home at a later date.

Book Lists Available

"Book lists for next semester are presently available for students wishing to plan ahead," stated Robert Beauchamp, book store manager.

Next semester's books are arriving now from the various publishers, and the texts will go on sale near the end of the semester.

FASHION NOTES . . .

Fall Styles Indicate Trend Toward Freedom of Choice

By Jean Field

Right now, the fashion picture is prettier than it has been in many a season. It's not stylized or regimented; it emphasizes individuality and freedom of choice. And—happily—last summer's trend to softness has not disappeared. It has actually gained strength.

Fashion today is all-out for gentle lines, graciousness, downright flattery. The only restrictions are that we be feminine and that we choose styles which suit us.

For example: shoes which have been needle-pointed still are, in many instances. But there are other shapes. A. S. Beck reports increasing interest in square and oval tips, as well as in those that are softly or sharply tapered. This applies to both play and dress footwear. Heels, too, vary: functional, mid, high. The real news here, as elsewhere, is that it's up to us. The budget-minded girl (there's another kind?) can find whatever she wants in moderately priced footwear. Beck points out another happy circumstance: the use of lots of fabric in shoes. It's possible now to have the style you want and also the fabric that suits its design and your purpose. A wide choice of textures and finishes makes this season's footwear a real costume accessory.

Dresses are so feminine (there's that lovely word again) they're hard to believe. They feature drapery, softly full skirts, intricate side closings. Pleats are anywhere and everywhere, and the bosom is softly outlined. We have all the frills. These 'dressmaking details' even include buttons and bows, but they are used with subtlety and sophistication. The trend is to a custom-made look.

Pearl Harbor Plus 20

Some hadn't awakened yet. Some had been up for hours. It was 7:30, minutes before "a day that will live in infamy."

It was Sunday, a day usually set aside for worship and rest, but for the Japanese there was no rest.

Soon there was to be death and destruction. At 7:56 hundreds had been killed. Battleships had been sunk, and the United States of America was being drawn into a war, which was only to be stopped by an atomic blast hurled at the enemy which resulted in still more death and destruction.

Today the smoke from the battlefronts of World War II has cleared, and we are close allies with Japan. Sixteen years after the bloody day of Pearl Harbor, Japan is now one of our strongest and closest friends, and it is up to us to maintain the friendship so many humans gave their lives to obtain.

Today on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor, let us set a goal to learn to live with countries that are or might be a threat to our country. They in turn must learn to live with us. Let's have peace without having to go through another war to achieve it.

Faculty Members Recall Fateful 'Day of Infamy'

By Melynda Woodson and Ray Storie

Can you remember back twenty years? Not many can, but there is one day that Americans always remember and that is December 7, 1941. Today on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor we thought it would be interesting to ask some of our faculty where they were and how they found out about Pearl Harbor.

Dr. Ralph Burnight: "I had just gotten home from church and I turned on the radio to get the New York Philharmonic orchestra. They broke into the program with the announcement. I had a sickening feeling when I heard the announcement because I knew it meant war. Before that, everyone thought it could be avoided."

Roy Tucker: "I was a junior in high school at the time and was listening to NBC and heard the initial announcement come over. My parents were still upstairs eating Sunday dinner and I rushed up to tell them the news."

Marshall Treat: "I was lying in bed listening to Peter Potter. I was 20. It didn't seem real to me, just as kids today don't always realize the danger in international situations. But it was real all right!"

John Neff: "I was working in County Hospital in Peoria, Kansas and had just finished helping in an emergency appendectomy when the news came. My first reaction was shock and then wondering what the next step would be. I was one year out of high school."

Al Lyles: "I was working in the office of Kettleman Hills Oil Company and a friend from the warehouse, called and told me the news. It was a while before we got any details the attack. I couldn't believe it, I thought the Japanese would never touch us."

Frank Showman: "I was a college student then. I heard the news by radio and, being of draftable age, my first reaction was wondering who would be called. I was able to finish college before being called into service."
