

Queen Carol Crowned At Dinner Dance

Tears of happiness streamed down Carol Gunnette's face as she was crowned Homecoming Queen at Saturday's dinner-dance which was held at the Newport Inn.

Attired in a gown with a red velvet top and white crepe skirt, Miss Gunnette said that she was very honored. She was the football team's candidate and was chosen during the recent queen election.

Princesses are Nancy Claccia, Leslie Ward, Sandy Brunette, Gloria Scott, Nikki Corcoran and Hillary Christian.

During the evening, music was provided by the Carroll Wax orchestra and ballad singer Steve Walsh.

As the 398 couples who attended entered the door, they were greeted by Dean of Men Richard Robinson and part-time Co-ordinator of Student Activities Richard McGrath.

The first dance after the coronation was begun by Miss Gunnette and her escort, AS President Jerry Smith.

Miss Gunnette is a sophomore physical education major from Downey High. She was crowned Miss Downey of 1964. Competing in the "Miss America" beauty pageant, Miss Gunnette was named as second runner-up to "Miss California."

She plans to attend Cal State at San Diego to earn her teaching degree. Miss Gunnette's hobbies include dancing and sports.

Trustee Unveils Goodwill Film

"People to People," a film about life behind the Iron Curtain, will be shown in Burnight Center next Monday evening. The documentary was made by Dr. Leon Richards, member of the Cerritos Board of Trustees, during his trip last summer.

The film was made and narrated by Dr. Richards and tells the story of the goodwill mission of 24 California pharmacists who toured Eastern Europe. They visited with pharmacists and ministers of health in several countries behind the Iron Curtain.

Throughout the entire journey, Dr. Richards filmed points of interest and living conditions in the communist countries.

Allen Drury To Lecture

Allen Drury, noted author and former correspondent in the Senate for the "New York Times" will be the first of four lecturers on the Cerritos campus this semester.

Drury will discuss "Challenge to America: The Student's View," on Tuesday, Nov. 9, at 11 a.m. in the Student Center.

In 1960 Drury won a Pulitzer Prize in Literature for his book "Advice and Consent," taken from his experiences in the Senate as a correspondent.

Tickets for the Drury lecture will be available at the door of the Community Services Offices. General admission will be $1. Students will get in for 25 cents and ticket No. 21.

Student Court To Decide Board's Constitutionality

By CATHY LONGAUER

Is the new membership structure of the Publications Board unconstitutional? The Student Supreme Court will hear the case Tuesday at 11 a.m. in the Board Room.

According to a petition submitted to the court, the senate bill should have read "therefore be it recommended" instead of "therefore be it resolved" concerning the change in membership.

During Wednesday's senate meeting, Party Whip Lynne Sedel reportedly attempted to change the phrasing but was defeated in bringing up the legislation. Her motion failed to get the necessary two-third vote to suspend the rules to introduce the change.

On Tuesday, Senator Mark Benton will argue the case before the court. The original petition was authored by Senator Richard Price, President of Sigma Phi John Thompkins, "Talon Marks" Editor Ralph Donald, Georgia Anne Nicolsa and Benton.

After the hearing, the court will have up to one week in which to decide the case, according to Chief Justice Gary Heidner.

Associated Student Body President Jerry Smith admits that the phrasing may be unconstitutional. Smith helped draw up the bill.

The present membership of the board as previously passed by the senate consists of a chairman and two administrative representatives appointed by College President Dr. Jack W. Mears and two faculty representatives appointed by the faculty senate.

College Choir Sets Sunday Concert Date

The "Requiem" will be the highlight of a performance which will be presented by the Cerritos Music Department in conjunction with the Long Beach City College Choir and Orchestra, Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Burnight Center.

This will be the season's first appearance of the 85-voice Concert Choir and the 45-voice Collegium Chorale directed by Stan Porter and Don Erjavec. The two choirs total over 250 members with a combined orchestra of 100 musicians.

Musical directors for the program include Wayne Gard of Long Beach City and Stan Porter and Don Erjavec of Cerritos. The performance is open to the public and the admission charge will be $1. Tickets are available from the Music Department and from the box office on Sunday.

The "Requiem" was written in 1887 by Gabriel Faure and is a tremendous lyric work, according to Porter, "but composed in a manner which demands utter simplicity and total purity in its treatment." The opening number will be "Jubilate Deo" by Giovanni Gabrieli. It has eight parts and will be accompanied by a brass choir of four trumpets and four trombones. The final presentation will be Jan Bender's "Psalm 150."

representatives appointed by the faculty senate.

Also three students from student government and one student-at-large appointed by Smith and approved by the student senate are included.

Advisers and editors of campus publications are "ex-officio" members and no longer hold a vote.

The former board consisted of an administrative officer, a faculty member, the AS commissioner of public relations, an AS senator, an AS member and the faculty advisers and editors of the campus publications. The chairman was elected, rather than appointed.

AGS Inducts Campus Brains

The campus honor society, Alpha Gamma Sigma, will hold its initiation tonight in Burnight Center, in BC17, at 8 p.m. Dr. James Thomas will be the guest speaker, according to Adviser Helen Wegener. His topic will be "Obligation and Responsibility" as related to academic freedom.

A special invitation to first semester students who are California Scholastic Federation Seal Bearers has been extended to attend and later join Alpha Gamma Sigma, Mrs. Wegener said. Refreshments will be served and guests are welcome, she noted.

TO GO TO $10? Ticket Book Cost Raise Proposed

Senator Tom Jacobs' proposal to up the cost of Associated Students ticket books was sent to the Senate's committee on ideas for further study. The bill was the first of two Jacobs' proposals to end up in committee, causing the freshman senator frustration in his first attempt at legislation.

Jacobs' first bill sought to make the cost of AS ticket books $10 for fulltime students, $5 for part-time students and retain the $1 cost at the summer session. Jacobs predicted that student government expenses will face a serious cut if his bill is defeated.

"With proper budgeting and passage of my proposal, we could provide the school with better programs and also create a financially stable situation which is currently lacking," the freshman legislator added.

The Senate also sent to the Rules Committee Jacobs' proposal calling for all presidential appointments to meet the qualifications required of elected officials. Jacobs' suggestion to have the Ideas Committee publicize ticket book sales was amended to delegate the responsibility to the committee on special services and activities.

In other action, the solons unanimously approved the appointment of Julie Loya to the Publications Board. Miss Loya is a freshman secretarial major from Excelsior High. She was President Jerry Smith's fourth, and final, appointment to the board and will represent the students at-large. Others appointed to the board last week were Pamela Pail, Doug Peake and Smith.

'DON'T FORGET' Horst Buchholz Stars In German Club Movie

"Vergessen Sie nicht den 5. November!" reminds Frau Bluske, adviser to Edelweiss, as the German club prepares for its biannual presentation of German cinematic achievement.

Buchholz Stars This semester's selection stars Horst Buchholz and Lise Lotte Polver in the movie version of Thomas Mann's "Buddenbrooks, Verfall einer Familie." ("Buddenbrooks, The Decay of a Family"). Erika Mann, Thomas Mann's daughter, was hired as a technical assistant in the production of this film.

The movie will be shown in the Burnight Center from 4:30 p.m., November 5. All are invited to come to the free showing of this film. However, the film is entirely in German; there are no English subtitles.

"Those who can't understand German can at least enjoy the photography," advises Frau Bluske.

The story is about the decline of the Buddenbrook family. Although a tone of pessimism and decadence pervades the novel, it is interspersed with humor.

In 1929 Mann received the Nobel Prize for Literature. His "Buddenbrooks" was credited as being a major factor in winning the prize.

Frau Bluske was able to obtain the film for the German club through the cooperation of the German Consulate in Los Angeles. The club expects to get some German newsmen from the consulate, too, to show at their regular club meetings.

Homecoming Fete Ends Tomorrow

Homecoming activities will climax tomorrow evening when the undefeated Cerritos football team meets Santa Monica City College.

All-night construction of the homecoming floats, each with its fairy tale theme, will begin tonight. Winning floats will be announced during the half time ceremonies. Prizes will be awarded for sweepstakes, the President's Trophy, second and third runner-up and four special awards.

The judging of the floats is scheduled for Saturday at 3 p.m. Those invited to judge include the wives of members of the Board of Trustees, Mrs. Anna Mary Mears, the mayors from cities within the college district, art department faculty members and Dr. Ralph Burnight, president emeritus.

The queen's float will lead the parade of 15 floats presented by various campus organizations. Produced by student government, the queen's float will feature Carol Gunnette and her court on a large crown. It will be presented during the pregame ceremonies beginning at 7:40 p.m.

Campus clubs will present their floats during the extensive halftime show. They include "The Little Donkey," California Collegiate Democrats; "Alice in Wonderland," Tau Rho Beta; "Rapunzel, Rapunzel Let Down Your Hair," Cos Metts; "Peter Pan," Lambda Delta Sigma; "Rip Van Winkle," Circle K; "Cinderella," Delta Chi Omega and "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," Lambda Epsilon.

Other floats include "Hansel and Gretel," Phi Beta Lambda; "Aladdin's Lamp," Home Economics; "The Purple Toad," Phi Kappa Zeta; "Saint George and the Dragon," Sigma Phi; "Babes in Toyland," Dorian Society; "Cinderella," Young Republicans and "Thumbelina," Newman Club.

After the Santa Monica marching band presents the first part of the program, the Falcon marching band and the Falconettes will present an adventure through fairyland. Other participants in the halftime ceremonies are the Board of Trustees and Dr. Jack Mears, president of the college. During this period all floats will parade around the track.

The Real Queen

The most deserving female was not crowned Homecoming Queen last Saturday. There is one more deserving than any candidate who was entered in the contest. Not only is she the most deserving, but to all who know her, she is the most popular.

She is a behind-the-scenes worker. The Cerritos College Homecoming celebration would never have materialized without her.

She worked long hours daily and through the night to prepare the celebration for the Associated Students. She helped plan the program and the arrangements for the Homecoming candidates and coordinated the whole evening.

It is a shame she is not a student. Because she isn't, Dean of Women Amy Dozier will never be eligible for the title, that she, above anyone else, deserves.

RANDY GRATER

Do We Bury Our Heads in Sand?

From time to time "TM" has been accused of being hypercritical of the college and prone to rely on "scandalous" material to create reader interest. It has been said that we have a "negative attitude," that we have nothing good to say about our college.

When I first came to Cerritos, I was a bit skeptical of the then AS President Jim Logan's claim that Cerritos was the best junior college. Since then I have come to agree with him.

However, I still do not believe that Cerritos is perfect. And I also do not believe these imperfections on our campus will disappear if we bury our heads in the sand, like the proverbial ostrich, and pretend these problems don't exist.

Granted that at times our pointing out certain defects in campus life may tend to hurt the college's image. But which is more important, having a college with a perfect image (because all its defects are hidden from sight and allowed to fester and multiply), or a slightly tarnished image of a college with some problems, (but a college which is working to solve its problems).

The support Cerritos is receiving from the communities which sustain it is not so feeble that support would cease to exist if it were discovered that Cerritos is no more perfect than other colleges.

Opinions expressed in this paper have not been designed to attack the institution. They have been presented as suggestions for improving our college.

Though at times it seems that we are talking to the wind, our efforts have born fruit.

Last year free-for-alls in the coffee shop were criticized. This year the problem seems to have been eliminated. Several students have commented that Cerritos, on the whole, seems to have a more mature atmosphere this year.

It is for results like this that we present our ideas. If our readers would consider our opinions as suggestions, rather than personal attacks, perhaps our campus would come closer to being the perfect college we would like it to be.

Why should attendance play a major role in the student's grade?

Is Cerritos such a "rinky-dink" college that students must be graded on attendance rather than their mastery of the subject?

Why should the student be forced to waste his time attending classes which do nothing but show films, films which are often directed at a high school audience? Wouldn't his time be spent more profitably in studying for that class?

Why should students be expected to attend classes which amount to little more than a "bull session" covering topics which are not even apropos to the class?

Doesn't it seem ridiculous to give an individual an F for a class in which he had been earning a substantial B or C, simply because he didn't attend the class as well as he studied for it?

Two weeks out of each semester the college gets money for student attendance. During the other weeks, the school gets nothing for their attendance, and often the student gets no benefit from attending his classes either. Yet some teachers persist in making attendance a major part of the grade, and the only part of the grade after a prescribed number of absences!

If students must be required to take these classes, shouldn't they be challenged by the content of the course, rather than the ritual of attending class?

If the actual class itself adds nothing to the course, the student should only be penalized for lack of attendance on test days and attendance weeks. If the class period added to the course, the student couldn't afford to skip class!

If we are to be graded on attendance, why not save the taxpayers' money? We can fire all the teachers, save one, and the lone professor can conduct Advanced Attendance in the gym bleachers!

An American Tragedy: 2-S to 1-A

A friend of mine, who is quite young for his age, probably because he was born so young, likes to write letters.

At Christmas, he writes to Santa Claus, at Easter he writes to the Easter bunny and at Halloween to the "Great Pumpkin."

Last week he wrote to Uncle Sam—everybody's Uncle Sam. His letter began: "Dear Uncle, Do you mind if I sit this war out?"

This letter brought great reaction from his draft board. They promptly changed his classification which was 2S (you shoot guerillas while I shoot pool across from the college) to 1-A, which means "pack your bags."

To try and avoid this terrible fate, my friend went up to Berkeley last week to participate in all the fun. But by mistake he burned his gasoline credit card instead of his draft card and couldn't get home. I haven't seen him since.

For all students who have trouble studying I have a solution for you. Elmer Botz, author of "How to Succeed in Business without Really Cheating," has come up with a sequel titled "How To Fake a B.A. Degree."

Freddy, Frieda Falcon Frolic For Football

By RALPH DONALD

In the beginning Cerritos was a school without a name. Cerritos, needing a name, chose as its mascot the noble falcon. He called the Falcon Freddy.

But Freddy was a real falcon. He had claws and wings. He bit people. And Cerritos had to banish him from the campus. But still the bird was needed. They chose a student and stuck feathers on him.

But Freddy Falcon, the student, was not happy. He longed for another feathered friend of the opposite sex.

At the football games he sat on his plumes and moped. The students looked down from the stands and saw Freddy was not happy. The next game they wheeled out a huge egg. Freddy pecked it open to see what was inside.

Out of the egg emerged a beautiful Falcon of the opposite tweet. Freddy was happy. He named her Frieda.

The identity of Freddy and Frieda Falcon is always kept secret. So it will be this year. No one will know until the last game of the season who they are. Then Freddy and Frieda will shed their feathers.

Until that time, only a few tight-lipped individuals know the identities of the birds. Who knows? The person next to you reading the paper and chuckling to himself might be, in reality, a bird in people's clothing.

RALPH DONALD

Where There Is Some Praise Due

Words of praise for fraternities and sororities do not issue forth from this writer in any great excess... this time is not an exception.

It has come to my attention that although the majority of these organizations vowed last semester that they would not have on-campus pledging activities, the majority have indulged in these practices.

Club representatives said last semester that pledging antics were below the dignity of their clubs and that the college campus is no place for such "infantile" programs.

It is a shame that outsiders, such as the delegation from South Carolina studying Cerritos last week, were witness to these frivolities. They saw students rolling eggs with their noses, skimming across the quad on blocks of ice and conducting coed wheelbarrow races.

This is only the on-campus part of it. Although this writer has never spoken a word of disavowal with off-campus slavery (pledging) it has also been made known to me that a form of kidnapping has occurred many times while pledging has been going on.

Pledgemasters take the individual to some God-forsaken place in North Boondock County and turn the hapless pledgee loose to find his way home in time to attend classes on the morrow.

I thought this went out with Al Capone!

The whole idea of pledging is getting out of hand... again. Something must be done to either refine this activity or throw the whole kit and caboodle off campus.

To dodge the draft... there is a place... where we can go. "Say, fella!" You don't want to be drafted, do you? I heard of a place where they teach you how to be conscientious objectors.

"Man, like where is this pad?" "If you could see through that mop of hair, you'd find it's across the street."

"Like, I see it. Thanks heaps!" So he picked up his guitar, tightened his sandals, stroked his beard and ambled toward the building.

Inside he found others of his breed and some fellows who were very neatly dressed, too. The man in charge said, "So you object to American intervention in Viet Nam?"

"No. Not especially. All I want to do is stay here. Those rice paddies and the swamps don't appeal to..." "That's fine, too," the director interrupted. "We don't discriminate here. We'll take almost anybody."

"Even blacks?" queried the fellow. "We haven't had any yet. But we have almost no prejudice."

"What do I have to do to beat the draft?"

"It's very simple. All you do is say it's against your religion to..." "I don't believe in religion," the fellow interrupted.

"Then you can say you don't agree with Johnson's policies." "But man, I'm like a Democrat. I dig all those cats in the White House. They dig folk music!"

"Then say you won't kill a man, no matter who he is." "But I wouldn't mind killing nobody. I just don't want to get bumped myself!"

"In that case would you be interested in joining the Communist Party?"

Carol Gunnette Named Homecoming Queen

MIRROR MIRROR on the wall? The mirror has spoken and the fairest of them all is Carol Gunnette, the Football Team's nominee for Homecoming Queen. She was crowned Saturday night at the Homecoming Dinner Dance.

Football Team Candidate To Reign Tomorrow Night

Three weeks ago 20 clubs and organizations nominated girls to be their representatives for homecoming queen.

Carol Gunnette was presented by the football team and expressed the thought she wouldn't get into the semifinals, let alone become Cerritos' queen.

Carol, a 19-year-old sophomore from Downey, graduated from high school in 1964.

Miss Gunnette's education started at Gallatin Elementary School in Downey. Later she attended North and East Junior Highs.

In her senior year in high school Carol was a flag twirler and won the "Miss Downey" contest.

As "Miss Downey" she entered the "Miss California" contest for the "Miss America" pageant. Carol's brown hair and brown eyes helped her to be chosen second runner-up. She stands 5'4" tall and weighs 115.

Carol lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gunnette and her brother Craig. Craig, a graduate of Warren High in Downey in 1962, also attends Cerritos.

Her father is an engineer for the Los Angeles County Fire Department in Pico Rivera. Mrs. Gunnette is the cafeteria manager at Compton High School.

Carol entered Cerritos in the fall of 1964. In her first year at Cerritos she completed 30 units.

Carol's major is physical education. She plans to transfer to Cal State at San Diego after this year.

This semester Carol is enrolled in 15 units. Anatomy, physiology and speech keep her busy with her studies.

Tomorrow night Carol will reign over the Homecoming game against Santa Monica.

EVEN A QUEEN must study. Carol is no exception. She is a physical education major. She plans to transfer to San Diego after this year's studies.

DANCING WITH DAD—Carol, at right, has a look of "finally it's over" on her face as she waltzes with her father after being crowned Homecoming Queen. Dad cut in on Carol's escort, AS President Jerry Smith. Soon after he cut in on father.

"Who done it?" The mystery had to be solved before the day ended!

Under the glaring lights, a wide-eyed girl, dressed in Delphic, yellow hip-huggers with the new stovepipe bottoms from JOEL'S, was getting the third degree.

"Okay, honey, let's go over the facts again," said a heavy set man.

Sofly she began speaking. "On Monday — that's when I first suspected that I was being followed — I sped away in my Astin Martin. I remember well, because I was wearing my exciting paisley skirt and matching jacket. (JOEL'S has them in elusive blues and mystifying greens.)

"When I arrived at the secret rendezvous, Agent OOO was there, attired in a JOEL'S pancho with loubelle slacks which have the most fabulous front slit on the bottoms.

"She told me about, about . . ."

"Go on," demanded the detective.

"The new look that is revolutionizing the fashion industry. It's called 'OOPS' and will soon be at JOEL'S. Of course, it's no secret that JOEL'S always has a wonderful selection of outfits. The nautical colored clothes are just the right fashion to get your man.

"And, with the velvet tops, ever-so-feminine dresses and sweaters, all girls will find that they will get admiring glances and maybe they will even be followed."

JOEL'S done it — and you too can solve the mystery of what to wear to look your best by shopping at JOEL'S.

DAVE RAUSCH

The Second Guesser— A Rotten Apple

Second guessing has been a favorite pastime of spectators for centuries. Eve second-guessed Adam when he chose to nibble on that delicious looking Washington State apple. (I suppose she liked oranges).

The Plebians in ancient Rome thought twice about their emperor's strategy when he sent them into battle unarmed. And today of course, we have the greatest second-guessers of the lot—sports fans.

Take football, baseball, basketball, tennis or even underwater basketweaving and these boys know how and what to do better than the best of coaches.

Cerritos College football fans are no exception to the salty group. Many of these fans of the loud-mouthed variety have been known on occasion not only to decide what Falcon head coach Smokey Cates should do, but also when he should do it.

The pet peeve with this toothy group of sideline coaches seems to be what they consider the use or mis-use of Cerritos second-string quarterback Reid Braden.

Two weeks ago Cerritos played a tough team from El Camino in what proved to be the roughest battle this year for the Falcons. First string quarterback Gary Davis had a torrid first half, hitting on 10 of 12 passes. Davis' success didn't hinder the grandstand experts, however, as they grew louder and louder in their chants for Braden.

The second half saw Davis fall a little off his game, and on the orders of coach Cates, in came Braden. Loud cheers arose toward the heavens, as the fans were sure they had influenced the coach's decision. Up to this time Braden had completed 10 of 21 passes for 300 yards and five touchdowns. He promptly fired a nine-yard pass to Steve Brinkley who gathered it in for a Cerritos first down. Back in came Davis, out went Braden and on came the boos from the grandstand coaches. Cerritos went on to win the game 27-21. The fans went home happy although many of them were sure the victory margin would have been greater had they been running the show.

Tomorrow night the scene will repeat itself as Gary Davis will again take the Falcon reins in a battle with the Santa Monica Corsairs. The hecklers will again be dictating plays from the stands, but Cates will again run his team with his years of experience and football knowledge.

In answer to the fans who continuously chant for more quarterback platooning, Cates said, "Braden is a real fine quarterback. He's going to be a great one and we're sorry we can't play him more than we do."

Don't let the second-guessers get you down, Smokey, after all your team is 5-0; not bad for a coach who supposedly doesn't know how to platoon his players.

Tomorrow night is Cerritos College homecoming. Gala halftime activities will be sponsored by various groups on campus for the enjoyment of all the Falcon fans. Let's all come out and support the number one J. C. football team in the country. We all know that Falcon field is one of the largest and best spectator fields in the state so there will be no excuses for staying home on such a perfect evening for Cerritos football.

Robinson, Gregory Tie; Rausch Nearly Perfect

The run for the Roses is on! The UCLA Bruins made it four in a row last week when they trounced Cal, 53-6. Ara Parseghian's fighting Irish managed to keep the hex over the visiting Trojans and defeated USC, 28-7.

It looks now if the Rose Bowl choice will be made come the UCLA-USC contest in four weeks.

Dean of Men Richard Robinson and Football Assistant Ken Gregory went into a first place tie each having 52-12-6 overall standards. Gregory gained one game on Robinson picking 12 of 14 games while Robinson mustered a 11-13 slate.

John Dowden remains just one game off the pace with a 51-13-6 mark. Sports Editor Dave Rausch enjoyed one of his finest weeks going 13 out of 14, pushing Sportswriter Dave Brockmann into a cellar tie with "TM" reporter D. J. Lacey.

Corsair Seen as Passing Threat

By DAVE BROCKMANN

It has been a fact that Coach Jim Powers of Santa Monica has a sheer delight for developing the top quarterback in the conference. This year it is not going to be any different when the nationally-ranked Falcons go after their six win against the Corsairs tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the Cerritos Homecoming.

Ball in Air

Once again Powers has come up with one of the leading signal-callers in the conference, Bob Matthews. As a result, the Corsairs will be a pass-minded team with Matthews favorite targets being ends Ken Brenner and Fred Kenefsky.

If you remember last year, Powers processed a man named Jack Reilly who passed the Falcons blind, but lost in a dying effort, 32-22.

Against El Camino in their 28-28 deadlock, Matthews completed 27 aerials out of 39 for 287 yards and four touchdowns. Brenner caught 10 receptions for 114 yards and three touchdowns against the Warriors.

Hard Running

The running attack of Santa Monica is centered around half-back Ed Saenz and fullback Alton Thomas. Saenz has been consistent on wide sweeps and the deadly draw play. Thomas is noted for carrying the ball on short yardage gains, especially when the Corsairs have a fourth and one situation.

More often than not the Bucs will go for the two-point conversion after they have scored a TD. Last week against Bakersfield the Corsairs tied the Renegades three times with the final time being deadly as they missed the two-point play giving a one-point margin to the Gades, 37-36.

The Corsairs have a fine offensive line made up of Nick Saenz, Don Weems, Bob Eagle, Bill Adams, Irwin Hyman and Rick Prince. "They are a fast and aggressive squad who likes to hit," said Head Coach Smokey Cates. Their offensive line averages a mere 198 pounds as to the Falcons 238.

Two Weeks Off

The Falcons after a two-week layoff will counter the swift line of Santa Monica with the stout, rugged defense. In five games Cerritos has given up only 43 points while the Falcon offensive unit has racked up 175 tallies.

Heading the offensive drive for the Falcons will be scatback Dan Laskowski and fullback Dan Scott. Laskowski is sixth in the conference in the rushing department with 64 carries and 237 yards for a 3.70 average. Scott, leading scorer at 60 points, is fourth in rushing for 288 yards on 59 carries good for an average of 4.90.

The Falcons will be without the services of Lon Woodard as Marty Babajian still remains a doubtful starter. Woodard sustained a dislocated shoulder early against El Camino while Babajian reinjured his knee.

One good note for Cerritos will be the return of linebacker Dan Hayes. Hayes received a concussion in the opening Metro contest against LA Valley.

REID BRADEN (15) . . . gets set to pass a Don Scott (41) and Gerald Kriska (84) defend his ground against the opposition. It is this kind of teamwork that has kept our team undefeated.

Harriers Win at Last, Top S.M.

The Falcon cross-country team hit the win column for the first time this year last Friday as the hapless harriers blitzed winless Santa Monica 23-46. Running on Long Beach State's hilly course, the Cerritos aggregation placed first (Dave Kuester), and after giving up second and third to the Corsairs swept the next ten out of twelve spots.

Today the harriers will run at the Mt. San Antonio Invitational, competing against 30 of the top junior college teams in the state. Cerritos will enter teams in both the varsity and junior varsity divisions, but chances of winning the team title are slim, though Dave Kuester, the defending Metro champ, should do well.

Against Santa Monica Kuester, who had finished a disappointing eighth against Long Beach and Valley while running with a 103 degree temperature, came back to blitz his opponents with a first-place finish.

One bright note was the running of John Harris. After running poorly for the first part of the season, he finished 5th against the Corsairs and stated that "I'm making my comeback." Harris confidently predicted that he would "finish in the top ten" at the conference finals, which would greatly aid the Falcon cause.

Musclemen Prove Tough; Prepare for Coming Season

After boasting the finest performance ever by a Cerritos wrestling team over Cal State (LB) and Fullerton Junior College, Coach Hal Simonek's matmen will prepare for their upcoming season beginning with the UCLA tourney in a few short weeks.

The UCLA meet is one of the top tournaments in the Cerritos schedule this fall. Last year the Falcons gained valuable experience at the tourney and this year should be no different.

"I feel we improve 100% after we have taken part in the UCLA extravaganza," said Simonek.

This year he will have the help of Coach Dick Juliano who hails from Western High School. "Dick will be a valuable asset to the squad and will also give me help in scouting other schools," added Simonek.

Coaches' Corner

'Matmen Able' Says Simonek

For those of you who have met wrestling coach Hal Simonek, you know the first thing in his life is the love for wrestling.

The presentable young man, who refuses to admit his age, began his career in wrestling at Ingewood High School where he competed as a CIF champion. From high school he went on to California Polytechnic State College at San Luis Obispo, only to be called for active duty in the Navy.

After his hitch where he completed on the Naval team in San Diego, he went back to school at El Camino College and wrestled under their present coach Dave Hengstler. After earning his AA he went back to Cal Poly to pick up his Bachelor of Arts, and then in 1960 he received his Masters.

Simonek's first coaching job came at Hawthorne High School where he coached for three years. During that time he brought the Bay League co-championship to the school.

Last year, in his second term at Cerritos, he brought the Falcons from the unknowns to be one of the top teams in the state. Placing high in the annual UCLA tourney, the team finished second at the Cal Poly Invitational and were co-champions for the Metro title.

So far this term, the team in preliminary matches has looked outstanding.

"In our first match with Cal State (LB) and Fullerton Jr. College, we were a very well represented team," said Simonek. "I believe we are going to be a much stronger team because we have good men in every weight bracket," he added.

"The big match which we are preparing for will be against El Camino. I think the boys will be inspired to be the Metro champions this year and not just share the crown with the Warriors," he concluded.

Against the 49er's and Hornets, Cerritos won a fantastic 49 out of 52 matches during the afternoon.

The area in which the Falcons have improved this term is in the lower division weights. At 115 lbs, Simonek has Rolan Garza from Cal High and George Salcido from Artesia. Salcido finished first in the CIF last year while Garza concluded high on the ladder.

The 123 lb. division is loaded with outstanding material in Ralph Gribble (Whittier), Gary Thompson (Artesia) and Shep Bloom (Downey). All three won against their opponents and look for excellent seasons.

Returning this season at 130 is Pete Philpott who went all the way to the regional finals last year. Also in the 130 division is newcomer Tom Waters from Cal High.

Steve Johnson, Armando Muniz and Fern Arsenal will be battling out for the top spot in the 137 to 147 bracket. Johnson finished sixth in the State Finals while Muniz did a fine job as a frosh and looked good against Long Beach and Fullerton.

Back again at 167 lbs. is Ken Bos. Bos beat Bob Powell of Fullerton in a well-wrestled match.

Wayne Partee, 177 lbs., was again the tiger on the mat by defeating Tom Nichols who resided under Partee last year. Partee won the consolation title at the State finals.

At 191 lbs, Simonek will have two of the finest in Barry Schneider and Gary Densham, both back from last year. Schneider will be a much-improved wrestler after assuming the conference title last year. Densham, moving down from heavyweight, should do a fine job at the lower weight.

The heavyweight position is going to be up for grabs between Jeff Smith of Bellflower and Brodie Dunn from Mayfair. Smith, after leading 3-0 against John Potts of Long Beach, pulled a hamstring muscle. Dunn, presently on the Falcon football team, will give Smith competition when the season concludes.

"This year I have a team who really wants to work and achieve something great. We lack mat experience but by the time we meet the first Metro opponent (El Camino) we will be hungry," concluded Simonek.

Poloists Win in North; Resume Metro Play Here

Cerritos water polo men, just back from a successful trip up north, tangle with local foes Bakersfield, Orange Coast and Santa Monica this week.

The Falcons already hold victories over two of these teams, having beaten Orange Coast 13-11, while capturing the Southern Cal Invitational, and dumped Santa Monica in the conference opener. It will be Cerritos' first meeting with the Bakersfield seven and Coach Pat Tyne was confident of victory over the Renegades.

On the weekend tour, Tyne's tankmen gathered wins over Cal Poly and San Mateo, while getting dumped by defending state champion Foothill.

Jerry Ray scored four times and Steve Berry pushed in three scores to lead Cerritos to a relatively easy 11-3 triumph over Cal Poly. The game was tight during the first half, but a seven-goal third period iced it for the Falcons.

Last Friday Cerritos played one of the wildest games in the college's history at San Mateo, according to Tyne. There were a total of 122 fouls called by the officials and 21 players fouled out... ten of these from Cerritos. Despite all of these difficulties, Tyne's crew eked out a 15-13 decision in double overtime. Ray and Ed White paced the Falcons with four and three tallies, respectively. San Mateo's Don Lear took scoring honors with nine.

Foothill JC was the last stop for the travelers. They managed to stay close to the state champs during the first period on goals by Bill Crist and Ray, but the highly regarded Foothill aggregation splashed to an easy 14-3 victory over the Falcons.

In summarizing the trip, Tyne stated, "It was a valuable experience for us. If we should get to the state tournament, we would greatly benefit by this trip."

"We have an idea of what brand of ball they play up there and also the style of officiating. We can aid any southern team going to state with the information we gathered," he continued.

Tyne also said that Southern California is by far stronger in competition. "We have many top teams, such as Fullerton, Orange Coast and Long Beach in our area. All their strength is held by Foothill and San Mateo," the Cerritos mentor concluded.

Group Counseling Tried; Technique New to Cerritos

Group counseling, a relatively new aspect in student guidance, is currently being used here at Cerritos by Dallas Smith of the counseling department.

Although group counseling has been used with some success in high schools, Smith said he knows of no other junior colleges using it. He said the technique is actually just getting started.

Smith believes that a student may be benefitted by group counseling in several ways:

- In the initial contact between student and counselor, the student may be hesitant to relate his problems in a group, however, he may be able to relate these troubles if others have the same problems.

- A greater degree of rapport between the student and counselor may be established because the group will be in session two hours rather than the normal half hour. Although a student actually has only about 15 minutes of direct counseling, he feels that he has had two hours.

- The more efficient use of time allows more extensive group or individual counseling as needed.

Smith plans to use small groups for program, occupation and career counseling; "identify" counseling (helping the student determine his purpose in life, and what he wants out of life) and counseling students with grade problems. Smith also feels that group counseling will help him evaluate his own techniques, as he will be tape recording sessions to be evaluated by experts in the counseling field.

First Music Recital Set

The first of a series of recitals will be presented by the Cerritos College Music Department Tuesday at 11 a.m. in BC 53. These recitals, which are presented every two weeks, are open to public and students.

This week's recital features: Talemann's "Concerto in D Major for four violins," performed by Ann Oosterink, Suzanne Ganzveld, Frances Logan and Mary McAfee, all members of John Feeney's String Ensemble class.

The first movement of Mozart's "Sonata K. 283" performed by pianist Peggy Adamsen.

Vivaldi's "Double Trumpet Concerto," first movement, played by Jerry McGee and Richard Henderson on the trumpets and Dave Crane on the piano.

The program will conclude with the singing of three madrigals by the Cerritos College Madrigal Singers under the direction of Stanley Porter, choir director.

'CAINE MUTINY' COMING

What of War and Peace? Is An Underling Right?

By ROBERT UNDERWOOD

War is a confusing affair. Can men of lesser rank be more valuable in times of conflict than men of higher rank? Does war have a place for men of mediocrity? These are the questions asked and answered in "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial," which will be presented by the Theatre Arts Department on Nov. 16 in Theatre 31 of the Burnight Center.

The play was adapted from the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel "The Caine Mutiny," Herman Wouk both wrote the novel and adapted it for the stage. The well-crafted play ran for more than a year on Broadway with great success.

Wouk concentrates on the strain of war on a leader. He deals with the "breakable commander." This particular leader is Phillip Queeg, a career man a paranoid. The man in charge is Captain Phillip Queeg, a in command of a destroyer, who breaks down in the middle of a harrowing typhoon.

Naval Reserve Lt. Stephen Maryk is the lesser man who relieves Queeg of command with the charge of mental incapability. Lt. Thomas Keefe is the man who puts Maryk up to it by showing him the naval regulations under which Queeg could be relieved.

The court martial, which is the entire play, focuses all the attention on the two conspirators. The defense counsel, Lt. Barney Greenwald, goes against his own beliefs in defending Lt. Maryk. Greenwald admits that Queeg is not the best, but Queeg stuck around between wars to do his job. To complicate matters, Keefe doesn't testify to Lt. Maryk's advantage. The play ends with the men acquitted . . . but leaves the question "Legally they were right, but were they morally wrong?"

Vince Bradley Is 'Busy' New PR Director

By LOUIS BANAS

Vince Bradley, recently appointed director of publications and coordinator of community services, has been at Cerritos for a little over a month, yet he is one of the busiest men on campus.

Last year 2 million different printed items went through the publications office. Bradley said he expects this figure to double this year.

Bradley is a 1962 graduate of Iowa State University. After receiving his bachelor's degree from Iowa, he was employed more than three years as a reporter on the "Monterey Peninsula Daily Herald."

In addition to his work in publications, he will assist Dean of Community Services William Keim in coordinating community projects such as the Annual Space Science and Technology Show. He is currently making plans to publish a newsletter which will be distributed to faculty members and local businessmen during the exhibition.

"It has been no picnic and Maryk. Greenwald admits that I've had plenty of work to do. Being from Northern California, I'm currently suffering from this heat wave."

He and his wife, Anne, and their 3-month-old daughter are living in Norwalk.
