Capacity Crowd Welcomes Reagan Brothers Four Arrive; Sing Here Tonight

Reagan Takes Bows On Cerritos Campus

By BECKY HUSTED

Once upon a time there were four young fraternity brothers who had four equally demanding ambitions. John Paine wanted to be a lawyer. Mike Kirkland saw his future in medicine. Dick Foley decided upon a career in engineering. Radio and TV management was the chosen field of Bob Flick.

This story might have ended quite normally and properly, had not these four talented young men banded together at their own University of Washington campus one evening to provide some entertainment for their friends.

Today, eight years later, the Brothers Four are still banded together. Instead of merely singing for "kicks" among a few friends, the group now sings for audiences from New York to Tokyo. Shakespeare's famous statement, "The world is a stage" was never more accurate, for the world has truly become a stage for the popular foursome.

What quality is it that the Brothers Four possess that has allowed them to remain on top for eight years? Many performers who have seen themselves rise for a time to the heights of success and then fall in a shorter time to the depths of despair have asked this question.

What makes the Brothers Four so special? The answer is simple. Their appeal is universal. With their ever-present witty comedy, they sing the songs that people the world over want to hear.

Although the group is more easily identified with the college crowd, their music appeals to all groups. In this age of long hair and the like, their natural, honest, no-gimmick approach to music is refreshing.

Everybody likes to think he has reached the ultimate success in his chosen field. The Brothers Four abandoned the makings of four bright careers to enter the ever-demanding, increasingly competitive entertainment world.

They have played a major role in the beginning and continuation of folk music today. Their first recording, "Greenfields," sold over a million copies. This hit led the way to more and more singles and several albums. Today the number of singles is countless, and the group has recorded over a dozen albums.

Whether they're singing such popular stand-bys as "Puff" or "Michael," or adding more of the personal touch with their "Since My Canary Died," "Just a Little Rain," or "Winking, Blinkin', and Nod" their magnetism continues to captivate audiences. Wherever they go, whatever they sing, their sensational appeal increases.

Today the Brothers Four have been acclaimed as "the most popular American singing group in all the world." They have reached the ultimate success.

Tonight the Cerritos Student Body is presenting the dynamic Brothers Four in concert. The concert, second in a series of "Evenings on a College Campus," will be held in the Cerritos gym at 8 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased at the campus ticket office or at the door before the performance. Full-time students pay $1 and part-time students pay $1.50. General admission is $2.

The Brothers Four will appear tonight in concert in the Cerritos College gym. This concert is the second of a series of "Evenings on a College Campus." Hosted by the Associated Students, the young popular singing group will perform for the public at 8 p.m.

Speech Dept. Presents Death of A Salesman; Phi Rho Pi Assists

When Arthur Miller wrote "Death of a Salesman" for the American stage, his aim was to restore drama to its ancient humanizing function—the purging of man's soul, and more specifically the American competitive soul blinded to real and lasting values by a spurious show of success.

The honorary forensic fraternity, Phi Rho Pi, and the Speech Department of Cerritos College will present a Reader's Theatre production of Miller's famous play at the Burnight Center for the Performing Arts on Nov. 8 and 9 at 8 p.m.

Reader's Theatre differs from conventional theatre in that conventional theatre appeals to the ear as well as to the eye. Reader's Theatre, however, makes its appeal primarily to the ear. The action of the play occurs in the minds of the audience as the characters speak the lines.

Miller made his purpose plain when he wrote "Salesman." He wanted "to raise the tragedy of the common man to the level of highly conceived drama."

Included in the cast are speech instructors Ron Tabor as Willie Loman; Mary Lewis as Linda Loman; Bill Lewis as Biff Loman; Wendel Hanks as Hap Loman; George Jaeger as Bernard; Juliette Venitsky as the woman; James Dighera as Charley; Frank Bock as Uncle Ben; John Schulte as Howard Wagner; Danny Houston as Stanley; and Jean Draves as Miss Forsythe.

Charles Tilghman, of the Cerritos English department, composed and recorded an original music score for the play.

Tickets are available by calling the Cerritos Box Office at 860-2451, extension 357. The price with an ASCC card is 50 cents and general admission is $1.

Committee To Decide

The ASCC Constitution and By Law Revision Committee will hold a hearing Nov. 17 at 3 p.m. in AC 74. The Committee is made up by Linda Saferite, chief justice; Richard Bernstein, ASCC vice president; Jerry Dexter, senator; Richard Kretschmann, associate justice; Bruce Reumont, ASCC president and John Tagg, party whip.

Any students who have any proposed revisions are asked to submit them to Linda Saferite in the Supreme Court box prior to the set hearing date.

In a recent visit to the Cerritos Campus, gubernatorial candidate Ronald Reagan held a capacity crowd of approximately 4,000 people spellbound for 45 minutes. The Republican candidate for the top California post outlined his campaign, as well as blasted the present administration.

Prior to Reagan's rally commitment, I had an opportunity to meet with him and ask just a few of the questions pertinent to college students. Because of his heavy schedule while on the "campaign trail", I joined the Reagan staff bus in Long Beach and talked with the candidate while en route to his campus appearance.

Young People Are Important
Reagan first expressed his interest in the young adults of today. He explained that the issue of this campaign is the future, and the future is the college student.

In discussing the possibilities of lowering the California voting age to 19, Reagan stated that he has an "open mind" on the subject and would like to see the proposal studied. He relayed the message that the argument for a change is valid; if a man can fight at 19, he should be able to help citizens make decisions.

Reagan expressed what problems he felt might develop should this proposition be put into law. Maturity is the main factor. He agreed that the young people of today are more mature than his generation, due to the improvement of communications and educational facilities. However, he explained that there will be some young men and women who will be influenced by parents and friends, such as an employer often influences an employee.

College Tuition

In clearing up a statement made by his opponent early that afternoon, Reagan reported that he had never proposed State College tuitions be raised to $1000.

He explained that the twisted statement had originally been, "As the cost rises we may face the choice of cutting the quality of education or limiting the number of persons to which education will be available."

"If an increase does become a necessity it will be done in context," he added. In order to do this he has three plans. One will be to offer a generous amount of scholarships, another will be to defer payments until after graduation.

In explaining the third solution Reagan stated, "I would urge the legislature to 'reimburse Congress,' that is to recommend to Congress, and I would urge other governors to join in asking Congress to give parents a tax credit against federal income tax."

In commenting on the second plan, Reagan touched the lighter side of the issue expressing how easy it would be for a student to pay his tuition after graduation. He stated that students are so used to being broke, that when they finally are graduated and get that first check, they feel rich, and a nominal pay-

Browning Back; Resumes Duties on Reduced Day

Vice President of Academic Affairs Dr. Bruce Browning has recovered sufficiently from his serious accident of a month ago to return to Cerritos on a half-time basis.

Assuming his old duties, Browning works two hours in the mornings and two hours in the afternoons. This schedule will continue indefinitely, until his doctors release Browning to work full time.

Browning suffered a serious accident while swimming at a neighbor's pool Aug. 28. Diving into the pool, he struck his head and lost consciousness. Rescued by several other swimmers, Dr. Browning was taken to Studebaker Hospital.

Emergency treatment was administered to Browning by several doctors and he was admitted to the intensive care unit at the hospital. While there, he came under the care of three nurses who were graduated from Cerritos in July.

Browning remained in the intensive care unit for 19 days while receiving treatment. He underwent a laminectomy, an operation to fuse the vertebrae in the neck.

After convalescing at home for nearly a month, Browning returned to Cerritos last week.

Rally Personnel

As the political band wagon reached the overflowing gymnasium, the GOP candidate was introduced to the crowd by Chuck Connors, star of TV's "The Rifleman."

Sharing the platform with Reagan were assembly and senatorial candidates Floyd Wakefield, Bob Corwin, Dr. Lewis "Ed" Martin, George Deukmajian and Charles Stersie. Also in attendance was Congressional candidate from the 19th District, William Sutton.

Celebrities appearing on behalf of the Past President of the Screen Actor's Guild include Buddy Ebsen, Skip Young and Ed Nelson.

Blasts Opponent

In speaking to the overwhelmed audience, Reagan blasted his opponent's views on several present issues. He hit things from the Berkeley situation and the problem with the Board of Regents, to the crime increase in the state over the past eight years.

Reagan commented that the "people have a right to know." It is his feeling that a regular statement on the formulation of program be issued each month. The candidate insures a monthly report to the citizenry of California on the progress of affairs, the progress of the budget and knowledge of "what's going on."

Sacramento Gang

Reagan stressed the importance of abolishing the "powerful machine" which is now in existence in Sacramento. He expressed his "deep-seated belief that our government was created by ordinary citizens to be run by ordinary citizens."

Reagan pleaded with voters for three things. One, he stated that the plea of the Republican team is "don't send anyone of us up there alone."

He then turned to the Democrat voters recommending, "To straighten things out in California, you must first join us and throw out the gang in Sacramento."

To the Republicans, he reminded them not to relax between now and election day. He asked them to support their party by doing precinct work, volunteering work in campaign headquarters, and most of all, he stressed that everyone get out and vote on Nov. 8.

In closing he expressed that it is his hope California will be like a prairie fire which will spread across the nation, showing everyone that we don't need a "big brother" in Washington.

News Briefs

THE CERRITOS COLLEGE BOOKSTORE urges all students who have not already bought textbooks to do so. According to Manager Gladys Balzer, the overstock will be returned to the publisher very soon.

INSTRUCTORS WHO PREVIOUSLY parked in Lot C-4 West are asked to park in Lot C-5 in front of the Lecture Hall. The C-4 East Lot is overcrowded and those regularly assigned to this area are unable to find parking space.

TICKETS FOR THE NORMAN LUBOFF CHOIR concert are available in the Student Center box office. Students are urged to purchase tickets as soon as possible.

GROUP COUNSELING WILL BE available to students beginning Nov. 14, announced Division Chairman of Counseling Robert Bos. The group will meet one hour each week for as many weeks as necessary. Categories discussed will be academic difficulties, vocational and educational exploration and social adjustment to college.

Friedrich Durrenmatt's play, "The Physicist," will be presented by the ASCC drama students, Nov. 15 thru Nov. 19. The production will be presented at 8 p.m. in Burnight Center. General admission is $1, and admission for ASCC members is 25 cents. Tickets are available at the Student Center Box Office. The

It's Your Duty

With what has been termed by some as "the hottest race" in the history of California drawing to a close it is important that we realize our duties as citizens.

In talking with some students about the Nov. 8, state wide election, I was shocked to learn of the lack of interest present on the Cerritos Campus. Although many of us will not help make decisions, it is still important that we become aware of the things which involve us.

Republican gubernatorial candidate Ronald Reagan recently stressed that we are the ones who will feel the affects of this election outcome. "The issue of this campaign is the future, and the youth of today are the future," commented Reagan.

Incumbent candidate Governor Edmund G. "Pat" Brown recently stated that this election will influence generations through the year 2000.

It is important that all voters accept their duty of getting to the polls and casting their ballot. They must realize their responsibilities as citizens. As non voters we can work in campaign headquarters, walk precincts and assist poll workers on election day.

As it has been said by Reagan, this country and this state were created by ordinary citizens, and they are to be run by ordinary citizens. Our government is dependent on the abilities of the people.

Senate Debates; Drops No-Shows

As is usually the case whenever two differing ideas are presented about one subject there is almost always bound to be a certain amount of heated debate.

Debate and compromise are two qualities which I believe are very necessary if the present session of the ASCC Senate is to handle its legislation efficiently.

At almost every meeting thus far the members of the Senate have appeared to be embroiled in some hearty disagreement over some legislation given to them by the cabinet.

The meeting of one week ago painted an excellent picture of what a real legislative body debates on as the senators refused to accept a proposal which would suspend the house rules and allow President Reumont to speak and explain why he vetoed the highly controversial Banas-Tagg Bill.

The bill in question, you might recall, dealt with the vice president's appointive powers in the Senate. It stated that the vice president may appoint standing committee chairman with the advice and consent of the Senate.

After the bill had been passed by the senators one week earlier, Party Whip John Tagg informed the body that Reumont had vetoed it. An official message explaining the veto is expected from Reumont sometime next week. Meanwhile, the Senate is supposed to take action which would override Reumont's veto.

The ability to influence and sway a large group of people rests with few people in the Senate. The two who excel in this field are John Tagg and Linda Dulac. Quite noticeably, Tagg and Miss Dulac are at opposite ends of the spectrum. While Tagg quite often challenges the legislation handed on from the cabinet, Miss Dulac is usually a strong supporter of Reumont and Bernstein.

While I don't necessarily agree with the views expressed by either one, I must commend them for the full time job they are doing in the Senate.

I myself, as with some other members of the student body first thought that perhaps this constant debate and arguing bit was being carried a little too far. I soon came to realize, however, that without the bitterness, without the radicalism, without the dissension, and without all the undermining the Senate would be nothing more than a "rubber stamp" for the Reumont Administration.

One other very excellent achievement of the Senate was to drop the "dead weight." Five members were carried on the roll but their attendance was never registered.

Gallery Presenting Islamic Textiles, College Offers Workshop Series

The Cerritos Art Gallery is presenting "Calligraphy in Islamic Textiles," on exhibition from the Smithsonian Institute.

The exhibition starts tomorrow and ends Nov. 27.

Gallery hours are from noon to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, noon to 6 p.m. Friday and Sunday from noon to 3 p.m.

Speech Conquers S.D. Goes to Loyola Today

The speech squad traveled to San Diego State College for their second Pacific Southwest Collegiate Forensic Warmup Tournament of the year. The tournament was held on Friday and Saturday, October 28 and 29, with 43 colleges and universities from California, Arizona and Utah participating.

There were three divisions of speaking: Extemporaneous, Impromptu and Expository and an upper and lower division in Debate.

Cerritos entered eight students in lower division extemp and all eight received awards. John Tagg and Larry Spey both of Norwalk, earned superior certificates. John Schulte and Dan Houston, of Norwalk, Linda Dulac of Downey, Linda Ruehlman and Dianna Roberts of La Mirada, and Jim Cafaro of Bellflower received excellent certificates.

In impromptu speaking Miss Dulac earned an excellent certificate. Joe Dennis, of Downey, received an excellent award in expository speaking.

Cerritos was the only junior college to enter upper division debate, which is usually restricted to juniors and seniors. However, Tagg and his colleague Bill Cassio of Norwalk, earned superior certificates and medals.

The teams of Miss Roberts and Miss Ruehlman, Houston and Schulte, and Spry and Miss Dulac, all entered in Lower Division Debate, earned excellent certificates.

Altogether the squad won four superior certificates, 14 excellent certificates and two medals.

Other students participating in the San Diego State College Tournament were Peggy Reader, Downey; Amerigo Azevedo, Norwalk; Lindy LeVine, Downey; Kieth Gathercole, Downey and Linda Evenson, Downey.

Today and tomorrow, five debate teams will participate in the first championship tournament of the year at the Loyola University Invitational Debate Tournament.

Students Speak Mind: War, Government News

Rebuttal to Editorial in Talon Marks 10-28-66. Titled "Our Friends Die."

With all due respect to Miss Candy Adallah's earth shattering article, I believe that most of the students at Cerritos College were set back at the pacifist mood Miss Adallah airs as she cries like a spoiled child wanting an ice cream cone without paying for it.

Miss Adallah creates a mood of mourning for her "friends" as they are sent to Viet Nam to fight in the war. Miss Adallah has quite a few friends in the armed services, as she mentions these friends seven different times.

She should realize that crying over spilled milk (or as she would say — spilled blood), does not do any good. If she is the humanitarian she seems to be, or even the pacifist she sounds like, she would venture forth, somewhere and do something about wars. She would do something about trying to stop wars and not mourning as she does.

When reading Miss Adallah's article one can quite easily find a hidden message about the war in Viet Nam itself. She is forgetting or more likely doesn't know that there are American volunteers in Southeast Asia fighting for a just and legal cause. The largest percentage of G.I.s in Viet Nam are volunteers. They are there well aware of their importance to the free world.

In the editorial nothing is said about the 200,000 Red Chinese troops massed on the North border of North Viet Nam, who, by the way, are not waiting for Christmas. Nor does she say anything about the 2,700,000 Regular Army soldiers of Red China who are dedicated to the destruction, in time, of Democracy.

Red China's Air Force is the third largest in the world. Red China's nuclear potential is growing and all of these powers and peoples are dedicated, not to the preservation of communism in Red China, but to the overthrowing of democratic governments in Asia, and principally in South Viet Nam.

Why fear Red China? Red China's only allies are North Korea and North Viet Nam. Red troops occupy 10,000 square miles of the Indian territory of Ladakh.

China's main push of aggression is in Southeast Asia mainly pushing on North Viet Nam aggression into South Viet Nam and Laos. Let's not also forget their organizing of guerrilla uprisings in Thailand.

To Miss Candy Adallah I say this:

We are in South East Asia and the four corners of the world to protect those countries who are in need of help and ask for it; in their fight against external and internal communist aggression. Americans are in South Viet Nam for a reason and they, as well as the overwhelming majority, believe in the causes of democracy.

Miss Adallah, please don't set up isolated cases and then generalize. The American fighting man in South East Asia is not there to "prove himself a man." He is there to show the communists that the free countries of Southeast Asia will not tolerate communist aggression.

To the Editor:

As a member of the student body of Cerritos Junior College and a Senator I feel that we, the students, are being neglected and remain uninformed as to the standings of our government.

Our junior college is one of the very few colleges in which the final action is in the hands of the student representatives.

I feel that "Talon Marks" is neglecting its duty to report weekly the happenings in the Executive Cabinet meetings, Judicial meetings and the Senate which occur for the benefit of the student body.

To facilitate this situation could you please send a representative to each of these meetings if you are not available for commitment at these various times: Senate meets at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, Judicial meetings at 3 p.m. on Tuesday, and Executive Cabinet at 2 p.m. on Mondays.

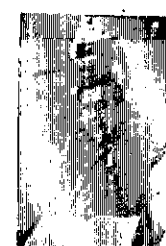

Thank You

Jeanette Skinner, Senator
Editor's Note: Apparently Miss Skinner has not read the Oct. 28 edition of "Talon Marks" in which the Student Government column written by Russ Leach made its debut appearance. In addition to this weekly column will be coverage of important legislation and court decisions. Examples of such coverage can be found in editions of "Talon Marks" dated Sept. 23, Sept. 30, Oct. 14 and Oct. 21.

Thank you, Miss Skinner, for your interest in "Talon Marks," and for your invitation for our reporter to visit government meetings. However, previous arrangements have been made for Mr. Leach to cover these meetings.

ROCKY DIAZ

Is It Fair?

One of the things that has always bothered me is the subject of alimony. It seems to me that alimony is unevenly distributed. For instance, why should the man always have to be the one to pay alimony. The trouble is we men live in a world of double standards.

Women have all the advantages over us. They live longer and are much less prone to disease. Yet, they still seek special favors from the masculine world. Women are even excluded from the draft.

As far as I'm concerned men are the dupes of this world. Fellows, if you don't believe me just stop and think a minute. Who picked up the check the last time you and a girl ate dinner together?

Women have it in for men. The sole aim in life for most women is to con some poor unsuspecting boy into marrying them. Why? So the poor fool can spend the rest of his life working like a slave in order to support her.

What does the male get out of this marital arrangement? Nothing but a big pain in the neck. He finds out that the sweet young thing he married is nothing but a Simon Legree in skirts.

So fellas I'm warning you. Keep your guard up or some conniving female is going to put her greedy claws on your wallet.

Another problem that I have grown more interested in of late is the draft. Now I don't really have to much to say about the draft except that the age limits should be changed.

Now, a lot of people think that the voting age should be lowered from 21 to 18. Personally, I'm not in favor of this. Instead I propose that the draft age should be raised from 18 to 21.

After all, if we're not old enough to drink beer what makes Uncle Sam think we're old enough to kill Viet Cong. Not only are we "undertwentyones" not old enough to buy liquor but we can't legally own anything. This is alright because after all we are only "kids", so we don't know enough to stand up for our rights.

Prexy Dowden Heads JC Journalism Confab

Cerritos College instructor John Dowden will preside over the annual two-day convention of the national junior college journalism honorary society, Beta Phi Gamma, beginning today.

Site of the annual gathering is the Plush Horse Inn in Redondo Beach.

Dowden, for five years Cerritos journalism instructor and adviser to "Talon Marks," now instructs English at Cerritos.

A 1957 English and journalism graduate of San Jose State College, he was elected national president of the junior college journalism honorary society in 1965. Dowden holds membership in the Orange County Chapter of SDX and the Los Angeles Unit of the American Newspaper Guild.

In addition to teaching English at Cerritos, he is associated with newspapers published in Orange County and is editor of the California Junior College Faculty Assn. statewide monthly publication, the "Bulletin." More than 40 colleges from the western United States and 150 junior college journalism students will participate in convention activities. These include on-the-spot writing and photography competition as well as journalism-oriented workshops conducted by the Los Angeles area newsmen.

Artist Club Visits

Talented R. E. Wood

Fourteen members of the Art Club visited the studio of Robert E. Wood, a well-known artist, last Saturday.

Wood, whose studio is located at Green Valley Lake, high in the San Bernardino Mountains, is famous for his water colors.

The artist demonstrated his painting techniques to the students, and showed them some of his other works.

The Art Club is planning a visit to the Los Angeles County Art Museum and trips to the studios of other artists.

The club members were accompanied by Manuel De Leon, adviser to the club, and Melvin Wood, art instructor.

Nov. 12 Scheduled

As "Dads" Night

Calling all children! Saturday Nov. 12 has been officially designated as Dad's night.

Arrangements have been made to give all full-time ASCC students a free ticket for their dad. Any father accompanied by a paying child will also be admitted free of charge. The tickets will allow dad to sit either in the rooting section or in the general admission area.

Special ceremonies honoring the fathers of the Cerritos players will be held between halves of the Cerritos vs. East Los Angeles football game at Falcon stadium. According to Director of Athletics, Don Hall, the dads will borrow their sons jersey and be individually introduced.

Zeta Wins Tape Race

Collect Over $200

A grand total of $200.93 was collected on the money tapes for the Leroy's Boy's Home Christmas Project on Oct. 19.

Phi Kappa Zeta led the race to the library with $91.60 worth of change. Delta Chi Omega came in second with a count of $49.37.

The other money was collected by Delta Phi Omega, $34.30; Circle K, $19.00; Sinawik, $9.00; and Student Affairs Office, $6.66.

'T.M.' Coach To Be Host At Conclave

Hosting the Southern California Journalism Education Conference today and tomorrow is keeping Cerritos' Talon Marks adviser Philip Forthun busy.

The group is meeting at the Statler Hilton hotel in Los Angeles where elections will be held to choose a president for the next two years. Forthun is vice-president at present and host chairman for Los Angeles County at the Convention.

Keynote speaker at the Friday night dinner will be Saul Halpert, Chief field reporter for KNXT. Approximately 300 journalists will be in attendance.

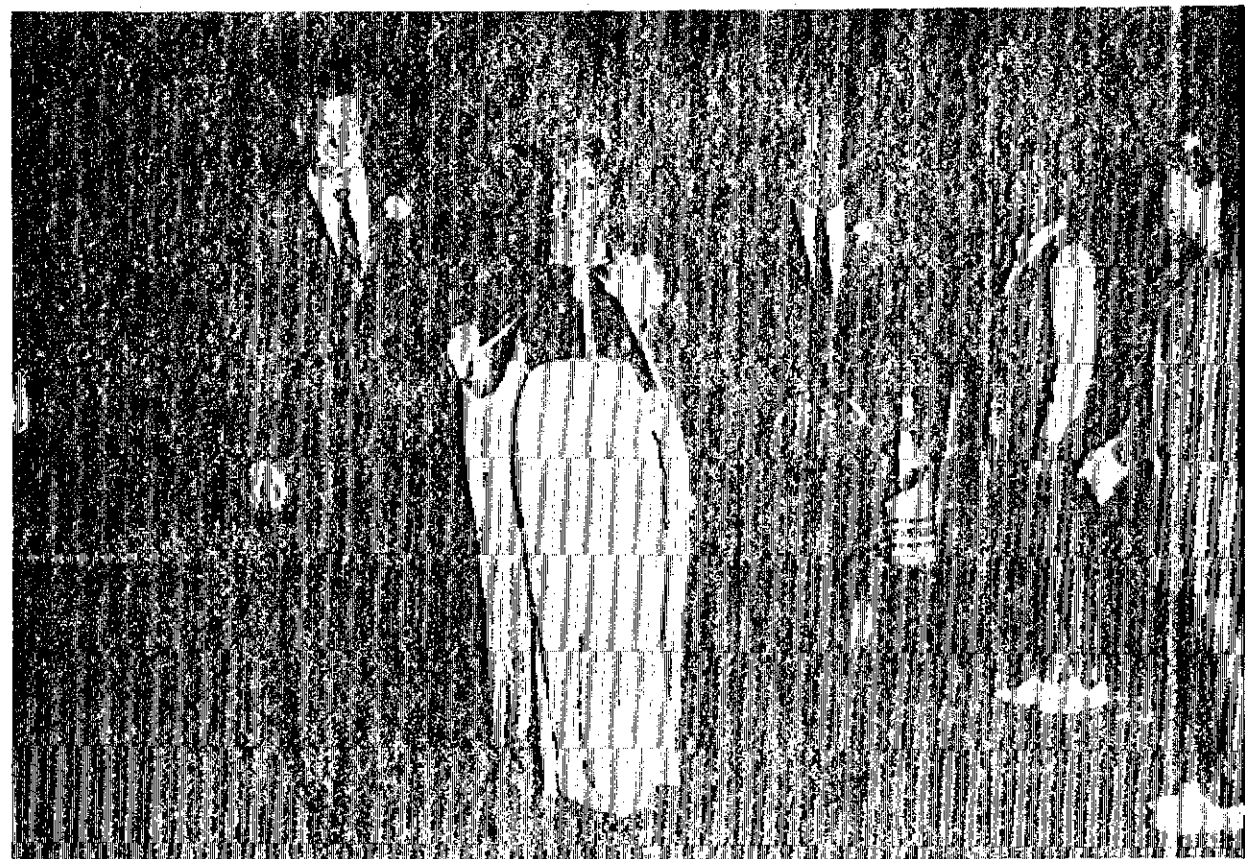

Saturday's panels will present Ted C. Smythe and Jim Alexander of Cal State Fullerton's journalism division, Winnie McFarland, Editor of the East Whittier Review, Ted Kruglak Director of Journalism at USC, and Art Borsdorf, Shop Foreman for printing at Enterprise newspapers.

Paul Zimmerman, Sports Editor of the L.A. Times, Eddie Erwin, Editor of Scene Magazine, Claire T. Grimes, originator of the Hollywood Stars on the Sidewalks, and their Christmas Parade of Hollywood Stars, and Frank O. McIntyre, director of public relations of SS-CTA.

Main speaker at the Luncheon Saturday morning will be Archie Hicks president of the California Newspaper Publishers Association. He will speak on the cooperation of publishers and journalism advisers in California colleges.

Forthun teaches English and journalism at Cerritos, was formerly at Warren High in Downey for seven years, and served as editor of both the yearbook and newspaper while at Cal State L.A. He has won awards for his journalism endeavors.

Danny Lou Reigns At Homecoming

against Rio Hondo last Saturday night. With them are guest of honor Ed Platt along with Chirly Owens and Janice Street.

ASCENDING TO THE THRONE. Queen Danny Lou and Bruce pass through their subjects on the way to the royal throne at the top of the bleachers.

luncheon was one of the many activities held during Homecoming Week in honor of the 1966 Queen and her court.

FREIDA AND FREDDY FALCON stop to admire Queen Danny Lou's Homecoming memento. The autographed football will serve as a token of fond memories during her reign for many years.

Short Skits Feature Short Skirts In Acts; Tug-o-War Also Held

"Conk the Corsairs" was the theme of yesterday's pep rally, held in the Student Center at 11 a.m.

A short skit was put on by Delta Phi Omega, and the song and yell leaders performed for the students.

Ted Plum, coach of the receivers, introduced Steve Brinkley, defensive right safety, who has been averaging 24 yards per punt return, and Jim Faulkner, defensive end, who were chosen players of the week for the game with Rio Hondo.

Following the rally there was a tug-of-war sponsored by AMS between the Freshman and Sophomore men. It was held in the dirt just north of parking lot C-9. The AWS Board of Directors acted as cheerleaders for the men students.

LAE Bunny Hops Away With Top Float Award

A short tailed Easter bunny happily hopped its way down the Falcon Field to take first place sweepstakes in the Homecoming Float Contest last Saturday. The paper napkin Easter bunny towered 20 feet high when Lambda Alpha Epsilon finished constructing it.

Homecoming Queen Danny Lou Pfeleider and her court greeted float judges' at a tea held last Saturday. A briefing on judging procedures was given at this time in the Student Center.

Members of the Home Economics Chapter served refreshments at the tea. Walt Mayberry's Judges' Tea and Awards Committee organized the tea and gave out float awards.

Wives of the Cerritos Board of Trustees who judged floats are Winifred Kulzer, Anna Mary Mears, Betty Nordbak, Gertrude Nottingham, Gladys Paxman and Helen Tredway.

Other judges' include W. E. Padelford, mayor of Artesia; Tony Cordeiro, councilman for Dairy Valley; Demetrio Apedaco, councilman and vice-mayor of Norwalk and Robert Walton, mayor of Bellflower.

The remaining Homecoming Float Judges' are Mark Hannaford, councilman for Lakewood; Vonn Surgeson, mayor pro-temp for Hawaiian Gardens and Barbara Thue, art committee chairman of the fine arts association.

Judges' were given a complimentary game ticket and gift as a token of appreciation for judging the Homecoming Floats.

Sweepstakes winners besides Lambda Alpha Epsilon are the Ski Club which took second place sweepstakes for their Spring Vacation float and Phi Beta Lambda who received third place sweepstakes for their Valentine's Day float.

Floats given special awards include Chinese New Year by Kappa Theta Phi, St. Patrick's Day by Sigma Phi, Halloween by Tau Rho Beta and Thanksgiving by Delta Chi Omega.

The floats were judged on how well they followed the theme, construction, originality and color, announced Pat Schroeder secretary to Dean of Women Amy Dozier.

Float Chairman Margaret Saito made sure floats abided by the rules. Genie Johnson, half time and pre game chairman, controlled the floats when they were parading around the football field at last Saturday's game.

Nurses Earn RN Also AA Degree

Recent results from the Board of Nursing Education and Nurse Registration showed that all 17 graduates of the first class in the Associate Degree Nursing Program at Cerritos have passed their State Board Examination.

The graduates, who finished the two year program July 29 and who wrote the State Board Examination in August, now have the title of Registered Nurse as well as an A.A. Degree.

The new Registered Nurses are Penny Jo Fox of Whittier, Lily Hamming of Norwalk, Theresa Gomez of Long Beach, Frances Hulshof of Bellflower, Allene Johnson of Downey, Colette Joy of Lakewood and Helaine Kaufman of Norwalk.

Others are Patricia Kosinski of Pico Rivera, Carla Parker of Norwalk, Claire Rickman of La Mirada, Patricia Slife of Norwalk, Marcia Stoddard of Bellflower, Ellen Summers of Lakewood and Barbara Vanden Berg of Bellflower.

Turkey Shoot Opens

The College Recreation Association is sponsoring a turkey shoot on Nov. 22.

The turkey shoot will be held at the archery range located south of the swimming pool.

Students interested in participating are urged to register before Nov. 13. Registration blanks are available at the counter in the Physical Education Office.

Staff Hunts Editors

Editors of newspapers and yearbooks are needed in the Cerritos College journalism program beginning in February.

Campus Illustrated, the college photo magazine is once more in production. The student government has planned for two issues this year and has set a budget of $4500 to insure production.

Students who held positions of leadership in their high school yearbook or newspaper classes may find this production group a rewarding experience.

Former editors desiring information can see their own counselor, talk to Editor Cliff David, or drop into AC 35, where the advisor and staff work.

Kenton, Wheaton To Lead Neo East Band

Four Cerritos Students will perform in the Junior Neophonic Orchestra's East Band tomorrow at 8 a.m. before 800 music educators at Pasadena Junior College, announced Music Department Chairman Jack Wheaton.

Bruce Emarine, saxophone; Mike Vaccaro, saxophone; Skip Shortledge, trumpet and Peter Woodford, rhythm, are members of this college band that is giving a performance for a convention of the Southern California Band and Orchestra Directors Association.

The band, under the direction of Stan Kenton and Wheaton, will play "Fanfare," "Music for an Unwritten Play," "Latin Suite," "LSD Suite,"

"Pershing Square," "Passacaglia and Fugue" and "Blues for YNA YNA."

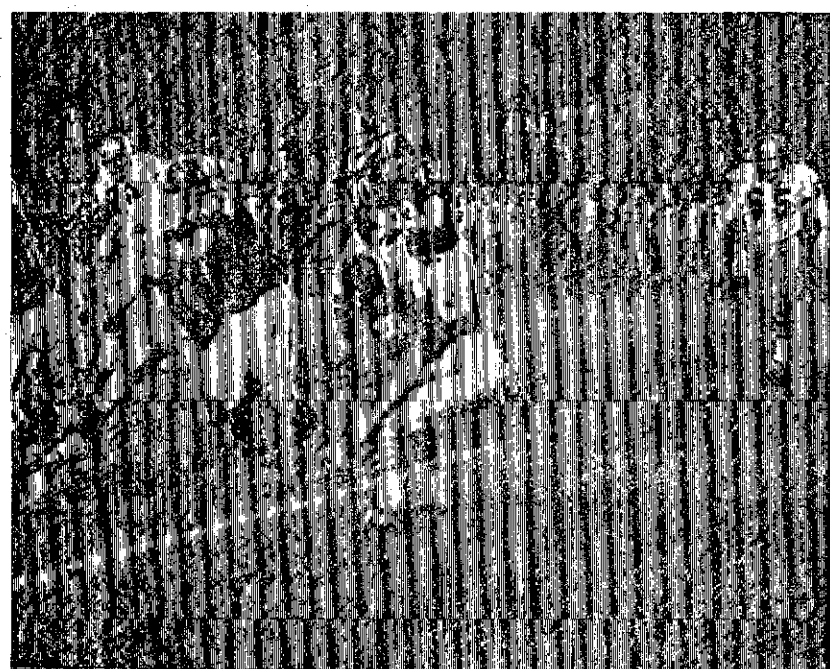

Also, "America," "The Blues Story," "West Side Story," "Poltergeist," "I Feel Pretty" and "Somewhere."

The Junior Neophonic program, sponsored through the Office of Community Services of Cerritos College, is "made up of the very best college talent available in the Southern California area," according to Wheaton.

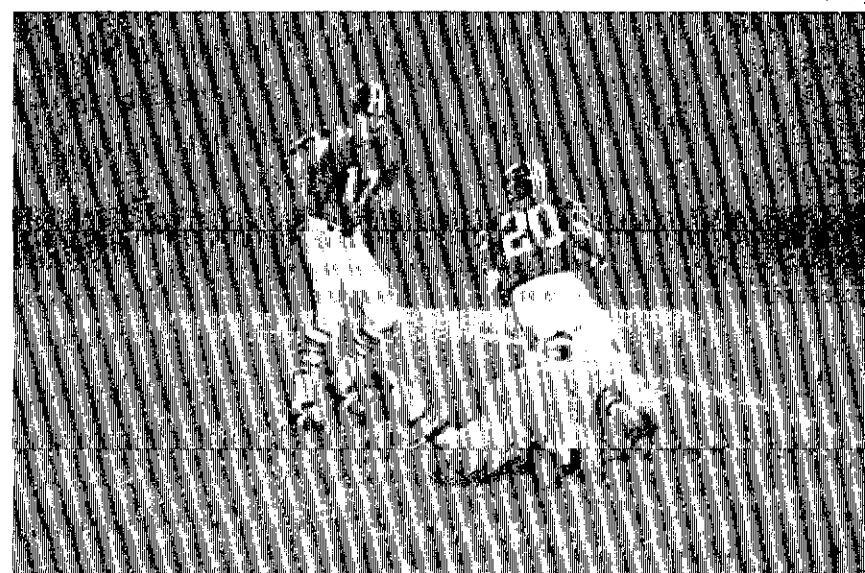

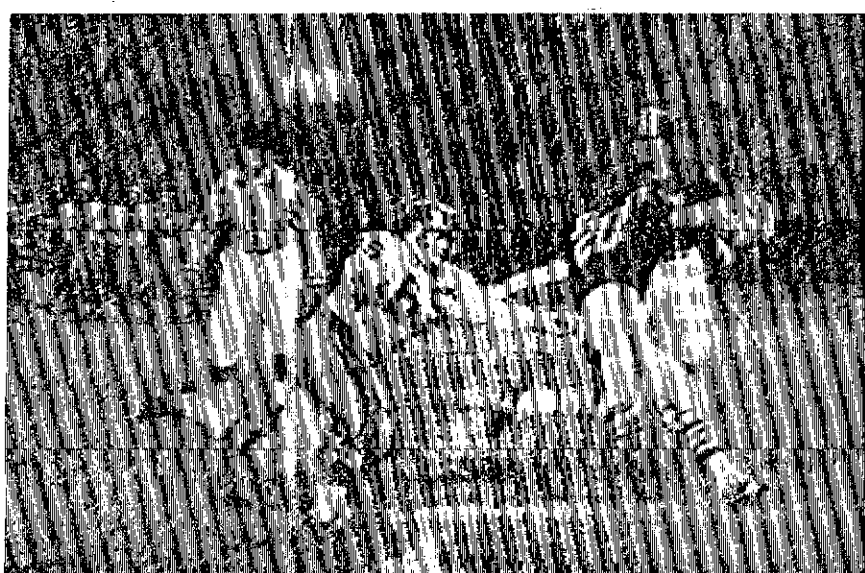

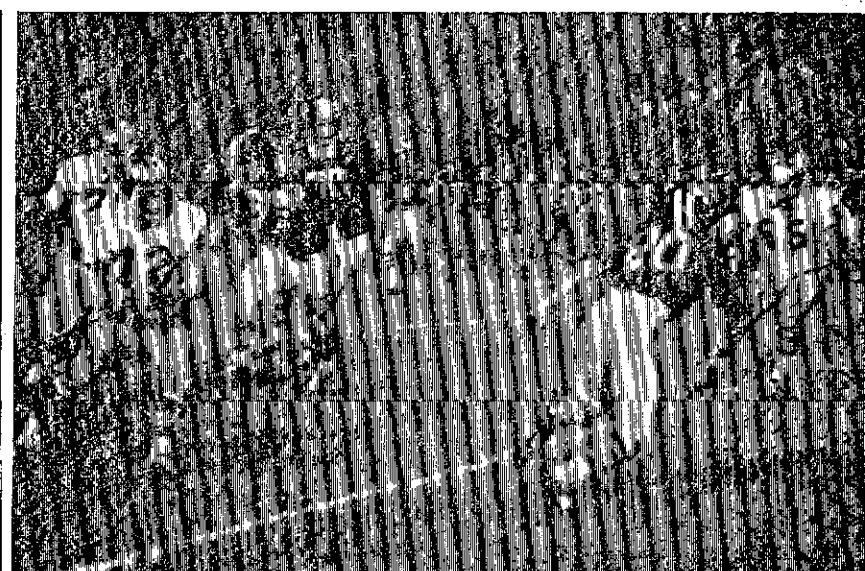

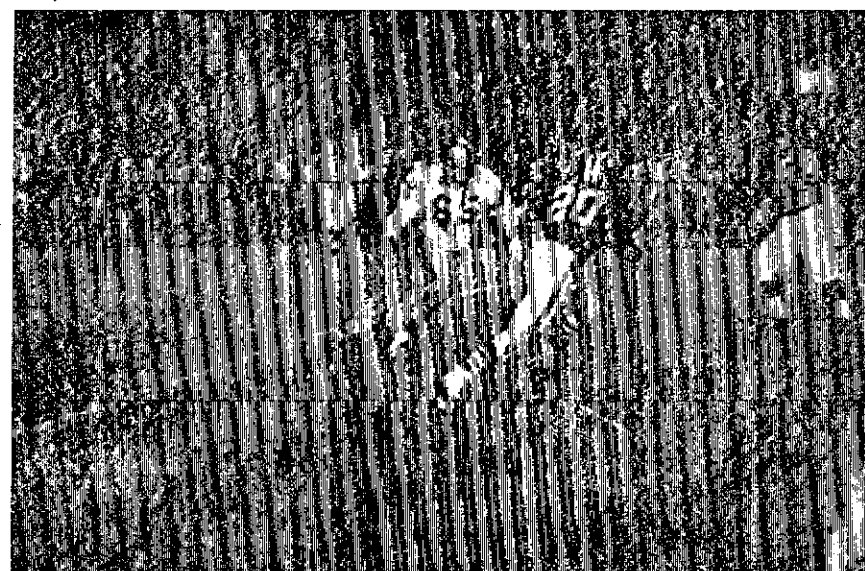

The East Band is composed of 27 members. The West Band, which was recently formed, has 19 members, with others to be selected.

The East Band is planning a commercial recording session soon, and an hour-long television special.

SMCC Hosts Cerritos In 'Must' Game

Bowls Canceled Playoffs Begin

The California Junior College Association voted to replace all post season JC bowl games with a statewide playoff tournament beginning in 1967. The measure, brought before the CJCA in a semi-annual conference held Thursday Oct. 27, at the International Hotel, passed by an overwhelming 57-19 vote.

Under the new system, all bowl games will be canceled in favor of the state championship tournament. Participating in the three round playoffs will be the representatives from the six major school conferences in California.

The Metro, Eastern, Western State, Pacific Southwest, Valley, and Golden State Conferences will all send their champion to the playoff. Two teams will draw first round byes.

There will also be a playoff for the four small school conferences in California. The Desert, Golden Valley, Coast, and Central Conferences will all be represented.

According to Cerritos' Director of Athletics Don Hall, the new system will be of great benefit to schools and fans alike. It will settle once and for all who the superior teams are and will also provide fans with more interesting games.

He favors the plan on the grounds that never again will a large scale dispute exist over who shall go to what bowl game. Also, the proceeds from the game will go back to the colleges rather than into one of the charities supported by the bowls.

Cerritos' head football coach, Smokey Cates, echoed the opinions expressed by Hall. "I'm in favor of it very much. I feel it will eliminate the weaker teams, the ones that just do not have it," said Cates.

Very much opposed and very surprised by the decision were officials of the Junior Rose Bowl Committee. JRB Committeemen did express the hope that the championship round game could be held in the Rose Bowl in conjunction with past policies.

Falcons Battle LBCC In Metro Polo "Crucial"

A capacity crowd is expected this afternoon when the Cerritos water polo squad takes on Long Beach in the Falcon pool at 4 p.m. in a battle of the unbeaten.

Cerritos and LBCC rest atop the Metropolitan Conference with 2-0 records, and the winner will have a strong shot at the conference crown. Last season they tied for the top spot, as each lost once.

The two titans met once earlier in the year, and Long Beach pulled out a victory in sudden death after tying the game in regulation time just before the gun sounded. The Falcons were called for a costly delay of game penalty to turn the ball over to the Vikes, giving them the opportunity to tie the game.

"If we played 10 games, each team would win five of them," said coach Pat Tyne. "I think most people rate Cerritos and Long Beach the top two teams in Southern California."

Last Friday the Falcons knocked off Bakersfield for the second game in a row with little trouble. Returning to action Tuesday, however, Cerritos dropped a tough 9-6 decision to three-time defending State champ Foothill, giving up six third quarter goals. Foothill also nosed out Long Beach.

Harriers Travel To SD Tourney After Mt Sac Show

Cerritos cross country squad journeys to San Diego today to compete in the Aztec Invitational, after a fine showing in the Mt. San Antonio Invitational last week.

The Falcons copped seventh place in the 21-team competition in their division of the 18th annual Mt. SAC event run on the Mounties' four-mile course.

Glendale easily captured first place in the event, followed by Grossmont, Santa Ana, Rio Hondo, Citrus and San Diego. Following the Falcons were Harbor, Chaffey, and Golden West, rounding out the top ten.

Smokey Praises SMCC

By Dan Armstrong

"I can see that Damn question in everybody's eyes," began head coach Smokey Cates as he addressed the Cerritos Bench Tuesday night. Every person in the room knew what he was talking about, and each of them had his own opinion on the question.

In Saturday night's 13-7 victory over Rio Hondo, the Falcons gained control of the ball with time running out in the final period after a costly Roadrunner fumble. Cerritos attempted to use as much of the remaining time as possible. With a full 40 seconds remaining on the clock, the Falcons still mired inside their own twenty on fourth down. Yet Cerritos didn't punt. Why?

"There's an unwritten rule in football coaching," began Cates. "When in doubt, punt. When you break this rule you had better have a darn good reason, and it better turn out all right."

"Our number one punter, Daryl Waronicki, was out with an injured knee. I feared they might run a poor punt all the way back, so we didn't kick."

As it turned out, Gig Perez failed to pick up the necessary three yards, and the Falcons turned over the ball.

Onto the field came Walt Walters, the Rio Hondo quarterback, who had just connected on 12 of his last 13 passes.

The Falcon defense held, however, and Cates remained a slightly fainter hero.

Highlight of the meeting was Smokey's scouting report on tomorrow night's Santa Monica game. The quiet man had nothing but praise for the rugged Corsairs, calling them the most colorful team in the state.

Going over the Buc offensive unit made Cates shudder at each position, beginning with quarterback John Erdhaus. He averages about 250 yards a game passing and connected on 29 for 373 in last week's victory over Bakersfield.

Bill Parks teams with Erdhaus to

The Cerritos College football team held off a fourth period rally by a fired up Rio Hondo eleven to win a narrow 13-7 decision in Falcon Stadium last Saturday night.

The Falcons came into the game as heavy favorites and looked the part as they moved the ball almost at will throughout the first half. The Falcons moved the ball repeatedly deep into Roadrunner territory only to have drives stopped by the upset minded underdogs.

Early in the second period, Reid Braden showed he is fully recovered from his lingering hand injury by engineering the Falcons to a score. He started the drive personally by scrambling for nine yards after a busted pass play.

On the second play of the 63 yard form a 1-2 punch that has led the Corsairs to heartstopping victories in their last two games. Two weeks ago against Long Beach, the Corsairs were on the verge of losing their hopes of their first conference championship since 1958. The Vikings held a six-point lead with 44 seconds remaining in the game, and Santa Monica was faced with a fourth and 13 situation.

Even though the Vikes were in their deepest prevent defense, Erdhaus managed to hit Parks for the tying touchdown, and the PAT preserved the Corsairs' unblemished record.

It was the same against Bakersfield last week. The Bucs started at their own 31 with just over a minute left and scored with half a minute to go to register a 27-22 victory. The scoring play was a 10-yard pass to Parks, set up by a 41-yard pass to Parks.

Cates rated Corsair fullback Walt Shockley as the most bruising runner in the conference, including Bakersfield's Leroy Sledge.

A loss to Santa Monica would end Cerritos' hope of becoming the first team to repeat as Metropolitan champs, and a victory for the Bucs could boost them right into the Junior Rose Bowl.

A win for the Falcons would set up another battle of the titans on Nov. 19, the same day Notre Dame meets Michigan State and USC and UCLA clash. On that day Cerritos invades Bakersfield to take on the once-beaten Renegades.

A three way tie could still be produced for the league crown if the Falcons knock off Santa Monica and then lose to Bakersfield.

The members of the Bench honored Jim Faulkner and Steve Brinkley as linemen and back-of-the-week, for the second week in a row the defense contributed both outstanding players.

Against Rio Hondo Bear man Faulkner played his finest game of the year, topped by ten unassisted tackles, tops for any Falcon this year.

Falcons Hold Off Rio Hondo, Remain In Metro Title Race

march, Braden fired a 13 yard pass to Ed Romero for a first down. Halfback Dan Laskowski was held for no gain on the next play. Braden then hit Laskowski on a 31 yard pass play to give Cerritos a first and goal to go on the RH ten yard line.

The speedy Falcon back then swept right end for a nine yard gain to the one. On the next play he dove over both lines into the end zone giving Cerritos a 6-0 lead.

About halfway through the same quarter, the Falcons drove 59 yards for their second TD. This time, Mike Olsen engineered the march. Greg Perez made the key play before the drive even started. He returned a Rio Hondo punt 31 yards to the Falcon 41 yard line, giving his team good field position.

Olsen passed to end Jerry Kriska for 21 yards and a first down. A screen pass from Olsen to Perez netted 12 yards and another first on the 26 yard line. After a six yard loss put the pigskin on the 32, Laskowski struck again for the Falcons.

He took a pitchout from Olsen and circled left end for 32 yards and the touchdown. Braden kicked the PAT and the Falcons took a 13-0 lead to the locker room at the half.

Rio Hondo spent the second half playing a fierce but futile game of catch-up. They stymied three Falcon threats with key pass interceptions keeping the game close. The Cerritos defense led by Jim Faulkner and Steve Brinkley kept Rio Hondo from the Falcon goal.

The Roadrunners finally scored midway through the last period following a short punt by Cerritos. With a first down on their own 43 yard line, RH quarterback Walt Walters hit on three passes for the score. An 11 yard pass to Alan Knebel was sandwiched between two aerials to Gary Lundahl. The last play covered 9 yards for the touchdown.

After the extra point narrowed the score to 13-7, the Falcons had to hold on for dear life as the fired up Roadrunners tried for the tying TD. The visitors held Cerritos on the next series of downs and started a long drive toward the Falcon goal.

Walters completed seven of nine passes on the drive from their own 18 yard line to the Falcon 12. On second down from the one, Walters again faded back to pass, but linebacker Jim Grissum put on a tremendous rush causing Walters to run out of his pass protection pocket.

Grissum caught Walters just before he could get a pass off and the jarring tackle caused the RH passer to fumble.

Cerritos took over after recovering the boot and began to run the clock out. On fourth down with three yards to go for a first, the Falcons faced a punting situation. But Coach Smokey Cates violated one of the first rules of coaching and gambled by going for the first down.

It turned out to be a good gamble, but it nearly ended in disaster. Cerritos did not make the first and Rio Hondo took over on downs on the Falcon 22 yard line. With 40 seconds left in the game, Walters again took to the air. Two passes fell incomplete and a third netted only four yards before time ran out on the valiant Roadrunners.

Frat. Goes Wild Shows Bad Taste

The football game last Saturday night left me with a bad taste in my mouth. It made me ashamed for the first time since I entered Cerritos that I am a part of the college.

No, it was not that the team looked too bad or that the hot dog stands ran out of refreshments. It was the student body who succeeded in bringing shame upon Cerritos.

To begin with, I arrived shortly after seven, only to find that the fraternities had sportingly reserved every seat within the 35 yard line on the student half of the field. To me, this was a minor problem since I am possessed of a pair of binoculars.

But the overwhelmingly conscientious frats did not miss the chance, to make others miss much of the game. A case in point involves one frat which took it upon themselves to summon the law to remove one who had dared encroach upon one of their most precious seats.

The officer reluctantly asked the man to leave. Note here, with whom it was the frat did not wish to share a few inches of concrete bench. The person was an alumnus who had returned to his Alma Mater on the night of Homecoming. His night! And the person was not just any graduate, but a member of last year's Metro Conference Champion Cerritos football team.

The facts as stated here were quite plain to the fraternity. The person involved was a well known member of that team and he was wearing his Cerritos letterman jacket at the time. Perhaps they cannot read, but they must have some sense of justice. If this person is not entitled to sit where he chooses and cheer for the team he once so nobly played on, then what right have the frats to sit there? It certainly was sporting!

Yes it was indeed a noble, kind and thoughtful performance by the undergraduates in that fraternity. The former football player must be thinking that he got out of Cerritos just in time.

The suave performance by this particular frat was far from over with the removal of the alumnus from their section. During the entire game, these extraordinary examples of today's vigorous youth managed but a few cheers which should be enumerated and analyzed.

Let's begin with the one they gave themselves. It seems they succeeded in the overwhelming task of actually lifting an unrolled roll of toilet paper over their collective heads. Alas, this spectacular accomplishment seemed to have worn them out to the point of sheer exhaustion. After cheering themselves roundly they were not heard from for some time.

At halftime, they did manage two wonderfully co-ordinated yells: "Hell-o, Mr. Logan. Hell-o, Mr. Reumont." Logan, a former ASCC President, and Reumont, the current President, both managed embarrassed waves from their positions along the sidelines.

Somewhat encouraged by this response, the frat commenced yelling at the start of the second half. Not however with the yell leaders. They did everything just the opposite of how the leaders did it, thoroughly succeeding in making our cheering section look very bad.

Perhaps I am being unfair in my analysis. The frat did assist our yell leaders in one yell. For this one, Richard Bernstein must take a bow.

Bernstein held up a statuette of a bird which the school of the losing team between Rio Hondo and Cerritos must keep. With Cerritos winning, Bernstein came up with the ingenious phrase, "give 'em the bird." Practically every member of the frat proceeded in making obscene gestures at the opposite side of the field.

I am no prude. Mount Baldy might well be as close as I will ever get to Heaven. But this kind of thing belongs at a Teamsters Union meeting or a Longshoreman's Convention. It goes without saying that every young man who was there with a respectable girl was very embarrassed.

And what would the JRB Committee think of this sort of antics in the rosters' section? If it had been on TV, the sponsors would have had some explaining to do to the FCC.

To the alumni present at Cerritos tenth Homecoming Game, please note and take into consideration that the poor taste exhibited on the night dedicated to you is not representative of the entire student body, but only a small irresponsible few who have no pride or sense of value and fair play.
