800 Choose '67 Homecoming Court

By Phyl Fritsch

On Tuesday morning, at 9 a.m., six excited girls sat in the Board Room receiving class absence passes from Amy Dozier, Dean of Women. One girl was late in arriving. These seven girls are going to miss a few classes because they are the Homecoming Court and one of them will be chosen to be Homecoming Queen.

Homecoming festivities are THE social high-light of any college campus and the girls who are elected to represent their school have been highly honored.

The girls are honored by their friends and associates with their ballots. The Queen is honored by the student body, who may not even know her, because she represents Cerritos and reflects the campus spirit to the community at large.

The young ladies chosen for the Court were not voted for because they "deserved" to be so honored. They won the balloting because of their own efforts combined with their many fellow students who urged others to vote for—

Only the girls serving as Queen and Princesses are able to make the decision as to how they will represent Cerritos and the people who voted for them.

Many Activities Scheduled

On Wednesday, Kathy, Bobbi, Susan, Arlene, Pat, Andee and Lorray were scheduled to go to Disneyland before it opened and have publicity photos made at the exciting exhibit, "It's a Small World", which is an imaginary trip through a microscope into the world of objects and life too small to be observed with the naked eye.

The Court was introduced, on Thursday, to the student body at the rally held in the Student Center at 11 a.m.

The list of activities goes on and on, including the gala parade of floats at the football game (against Santa Monica), the announcement of the queen and culminates with the coronation ceremonies during the dinner dance to be held at the posh Pacific Coast Club, in Long Beach.

Girls Comment

Bobbi Fuentes, a "Talon Marks" staff member, queried the other six girls about how they felt about being selected for the Homecoming Court and received these responses:

Pat Perry is sponsored by Circle K, is 18 years old and a graduate of La Mirada. She is a sophomore majoring in German. "I plan to continue my education next fall at UCLA, attain a BA and study in Germany for an MA; finally I hope to become an interpreter at the U.N." said Pat.

Work, for her, consists of modeling and she is on the College Fashion Board at Henshaw's.

Ice skating, water skiing, swimming, sewing and shooting pool are some of Pat's hobbies.

Her campus affiliation is the German Club. Last spring, Pat was chosen Miss April by the Veteran's Club. This summer, she was "Dream Girl of the Week" for the week of Aug. 21 and will be competing for "Dream Girl of '67" on the TV show.

Pat said, "I was so nervous about the voting that I waited until 5 o'clock to find out who won. Sue Wells and I were together. We were so afraid to find out who won, we went to the phone booth by the library to call Student Affairs and find out.

Kathy Fletcher, sponsored by Lambda Alpha Epsilon, is a 19 year-old graduate of St. Anthony's Girls' High. She is a freshman who is majoring in French. In Kathy's words, "I plan to go to UCLA and then, maybe, teach French. Eventually, I would like to get married."

Kathy is working 8 hours a week as a language lab assistant and works "on call" at Disneyland. She relaxes by listening to music and enjoys dancing and water skiing.

She is a member of the Omicron chapter of Alpha Gamma Sigma. An ecstatic Kathy stated, "When I first heard the news, I couldn't believe it. Pat Perry called me from school and told me; we were both so happy that we didn't know what to say."

Susan Wells is 19 and a graduate of La Mirada High. She is a freshman majoring in business. "After I receive my AA, I plan to become an airline stewardess," said Susan.

Hobbies listed by the brown eyed court member are sewing and designing, she also likes dancing.

The Falconettes are Susan's sponsor and her campus affiliation. She was voted the Most-Improved-Freshman by the Falconettes.

Sue bubbled with excitement as she said, "I've never been so nervous in my life! At 3 p.m. I have Falconette practice and I asked my teacher, Miss Schutz, to call and find out who won, almost every ten minutes. Her answer was always the same, 'They're still counting.' By 5 p.m., no one was around school. Pat Perry and I knew that they had finished counting, but we didn't want to go and find out, so we started to telephone the Student Center."

AGS To Install College Bowl Program Here

Alpha Gamma Sigma, under the sponsorship of history instructor Russell Storkan, is in the process of developing a college bowl, similar to the national television program, on the Cerritos campus.

"The possibilities of such a program on campus are almost infinite," said AGS president Bill Valle. "We could set up competition between instructors and students, among departments and divisions, even invite the high schools to participate."

One of the eventual goals of the program is to select an all-star team of Cerritos college bowl participants to enter competition with other colleges and possibly appear on the junior college version of the television show. That's not the major goal of the operation, however.

"The program would give students an opportunity to participate in a program where they can take advantage of the academic climate of the campus," said Storkan. "It would also help stimulate interest in academics and give students a chance to enter academic competition other than forensics."

Bob Frisbee has already designed the equipment for the program, and according to Valle has made improvements on the equipment used on television. Actual construction hasn't started yet, but Frisbee and Valle are anxious to get underway.

Plans now call for a committee of five faculty members to formulate the questions and then give clubs, departments, divisions, instructors, and just the average student on campus a chance to show their stuff.

Dance Tickets Soon Available For Fete

Speech Dept. Slates 'Mr. Roberts'

"Mr. Roberts" a two act play by Thomas Heggen is this year's production for the reader's theater which will be presented by the Speech Department and Phi Rho Pi on Nov. 7 and Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m. in Burnight Center.

The cast will consist of members of the humanities faculty and Phi Rho Pi, with the exception of Richard Robinson, dean of men.

The cast is as follows Lt. (jg) Roberts, Ron Tabor, speech department; Doc, William Lewis, speech department; Dowdy, Keith Gathercole, vice president of Phi Rho Pi; Insignia, Jean Allergre, Language dept.; Mannion, James Caforio, secretary of Phi Rho Pi; Lindstrom, Jack Lackman, English dept.; Stefanowski, Richard Robinson, Dean of Men; Ensign Pulver, Wendell Hanks, Speech Dept.; The Captain, James Dighera, Speech Dept.; Dolan, George Jaeger, English Dept.; Lt. Ann Girard, Ricardo Walther, Language Dept.; Shore Patrolman, Marc Sturdivant; Speech 4 and Oral Interpretation; and Military Policeman, Larry Spry, Treasurer of Phi Rho Pi.

Forensics Team Set to Compete

Cerritos' outstanding forensics squad journeys to El Camino College to compete in the second of two warm-up tournaments before entering regular competition. The members of the squad will compete in the fields of oral interpretation, debate, and expository speaking.

Cerritos will be in competition with four-year and junior colleges in the tournament, sponsored to help teams get oriented and cases established.

In competition two weeks ago, Cerritos walked off with more certificates than any other school, including USC, UCLA, Utah, and Arizona. The debate team of Steve Alvis and Keith Gathercole went through the tournament undefeated.

liceman, Larry Spry, Treasurer of Phi Rho Pi.

Reader's Theater a fairly new concept in theater production, is done completely without props. The reader is free to give all his attention to the audience when delivering his line because the scene is kept off-stage. The action occurs all in the imagination of the audience.

This is why many pieces usually intended for reading are now produced in a Reader's Theater, where their beautiful lines and the creating and developing of a character are brought through.

As evidenced by last year's sell-out success, "Death of a Salesman," Reader's Theater has proven very successful.

Another sellout success is expected this year, according to James Dighera, of the Speech Department. The group that put on "Death of a Salesman" will be doing "Mr. Roberts." The play will be produced by special arrangement with the Dramatists Play Service, Inc., of New York City.

Tickets will be soon available from members of Phi Rho Pi or in the Speech Department Offices at 75c with ASCC card and $1.25 without.

Theta Phi Sponsors Halloween Shindig

Theta Phi Sorority is sponsoring the Halloween Dance to be held in the Student Center Friday, Oct. 27, from 8 to 12 p.m.

All students are invited to attend. The price is one dollar per person or one dollar-and-a-half per couple. Tickets will be sold at the door.

According to Theta Phi Sorority president, Kathi Page, there will be a great band and they expect a huge turnout for this holiday dance. A costume contest will be the highlight of the dance.

The advisor of Theta Phi is Louise White.

Schlei Moderates Drug Use Panel Discussion

Norbert Schlei, former assistant attorney general of the United States, served as moderator for a public program, "Illegal Drug Traffic—Your Child, Your School, Your Problem," presented at Cerritos Thursday.

Presented as a community service under the sponsorship of the Civic Responsibility Citizens Advisory Committee, the program featured speakers and a question and answer period. Schlei moderated a panel consisting of a psychiatrist, a narcotics officer, representatives from the Los Angeles Superior Court and the Los Angeles County Superintendent's Office.

This program was the result of nine months of intensive study by the Civic Responsibility Committee at Cerritos. Interviews, field trips and consultations disclosed the need for a public informative program about the growing use among juveniles.

"Juvenile narcotics arrests went up 84 per cent in 1968 over the 1965 statistics," reported Mrs. Robert Rabens, chairman of the committee. "The purpose of our program was to share with the parents the information we obtained."

"By working together, we hope to help eliminate the use of dangerous drugs and narcotics among our young people," she said.

The Civic Responsibility Committee is composed of school and civic leaders in the seven communities which make up Cerritos District. They are working in close cooperation with local public and private schools in this program of total public education.

Drive Nets 200 Pints Of Blood

Donations totaled approximately 200 pints in the Veterans Club Blood Drive last Wednesday from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Burnight Center 31.

"Due to a rejection rate of nearly 25 percent and the fact that several students failed to bring parents' consent slips, the goal was down from that anticipated," stated Andy Bergen, chairman of the drive.

Those who donated blood established life-time eligibility for themselves and members of their families to draw a free unit of blood from the Red Cross for every unit donated. A record of all donations is kept in the Blood Bank files for this purpose.

Student Nurses

A hearty thanks is extended from the veterans to all the student nurses who helped with the blood drive. Doris Sanson, coordinator of health occupational programs, saw to it that five student nurses per hour were assisting in the drive.

Bus Your Own

Students, and we include ourselves, continually complain about the prices of food items in both the coffee shop and cafeteria.

One of the reasons for the high prices, explains our new food services company, is an anticipated high cost of bussing in both facilities.

The problem came before the first meeting of the year. The Council suggested that Student Government leaders, members of the sororities and fraternities, and members of various campus clubs set a good example for the student body at large. The student leaders responded by bussing their own dishes during and after the pep rally.

It is our hope that the student body will take over this good example and help reduce the prices they pay daily. Disposable items can be tossed in either of the trash cans near the doors in the coffee shop, and plates and silverware can be deposited near the steps of the cafeteria.

ASCC President Eric von Hurst urged students to take a little of their time to bus their own dishes, saying, "It doesn't take much to walk by a trash can or the cafeteria and bus our own dishes. And in the end we're the real winners."

CC Trustees Call For Publications Board

"Six students and six faculty members will be responsible for evaluation, advising and protection of student publications at Cerritos College . . . following the board of trustees' approval of a publications board."

"According to the by-laws of the board, its duties will include:

"Evaluation and interpretation of policies established by all student publications of Cerritos College."

"To advise the college board of trustees, administrators, faculty senate, student senate and, as staffs and advisors of the student publications, in all matters pertaining to student publications."

"To protect student publications from undue pressure exerted from within and without the college community."

"Although approved Tuesday night (Oct. 12) with little or no comment, the publications board had been the subject of long debates and often heated discussions."

"While some term the board as a liaison between the college publications and the students and administrators, others have described the board as being merely a 'polishing' board—one which meets to 'censure' the publications if they get out of hand."

"Membership on the board will be comprised of two administrators to be appointed by Dr. Jack Mears, college president; two faculty members, who will be appointed by the faculty senate; four students, one of whom will be the commissioner of publications, one of whom is a member of the student senate, and two of whom are not to be connected with student publications; and four publications area representatives, two of whom will be faculty advisors."

"The purpose of the board is to act as a hearing and recommending body to the college board of trustees, college administrative council, faculty senate, student senate and as the staffs and advisors of the student publications."

Instructor Donates Trees To Cerritos

LIFE DEPENDS ON DRIVERS' REACTIONS

Dan Bisher
Staff Writer

Have you ever experienced the knotted stomach, absolutely stark fear of a car out of control? It is bad indeed. When you consider the number of miles driven in this country, probably not a fraction of the cars which go out of control cause an accident. However, when a whip starts in a car going at high speed, the reaction of the driver often results in aggravation of the whipping motion of the car. This rapidly develops into a vicious weave back and forth, until the car goes into a skid and subsequently rolls or leaves the road.

THREE ACTUAL EXAMPLES:

1. A man driving a VW passed a truck at about 85 mph. As the bug shot around the truck, the pressure wave from the front of the truck made the VW whip to the left. The driver over-reacted by pulling right. This aimed the VW at the ditch on the right. The driver over-reacted again, pulling left. This dance was repeated two more times, with the rear end oscillating further to the side each time until the car rolled eight times. Results: Two badly mangled young men.

2. A young man driving at moderate speed (60-65) on Interstate 15 near Barstow, Calif., pulled out to pass. Another car was passing him, so the young man pulled back to his lane, stepping on the brake. His car touched the bumper of the larger, heavier car he was passing, throwing his car to the left. The rear end swung right, the driver hit his brakes and pulled right, the rear end whip was thereby exaggerated, and the car skidded broadside into a sign in the median. Results: Three seriously injured young boys. The police and firemen had to hack the cars apart to get them out.

3. A Corvair rounded a curve at about 40 MPH. The rear end drifted a little. The driver jerked the wheel to correct and the rear swerved to the right. One more panicky correction, and the car flipped. The driver could walk, but he was hurt and his car was a total loss.

The moral of this information is that whip control is extremely difficult. The higher the speed, the less the driver has on it. Over-reaction tends to turn a minor whipping action into a skid in a split second. Just remember the things you have been told so many times. Drive Defensively. Don't Tailgate. Keep the Speed Down. If these driving rules are followed, you won't need to know how to get out of a whip.

THERE ARE NO BAD TEACHERS; THERE ARE ONLY BAD STUDENTS

The academic year has only just begun and already one thing is clear: you're not ready for college.

What, then, should you do? Should you throw up your hands and quit? I say no! I say you must attack, grapple, cope! I say America did not become the world's leader in motel construction and kidney transplants by running away from a fight!

To the question then: You say you're not ready for college. You're too green, too naive. You lack maturity. Okay, the answer is simple: get mature. How? Well sir, to achieve maturity you need two things:

- a) a probing mind;
- b) a vast.

A probing mind will be quickly yours if you'll remember that education consists not of answers but of questions. Blindly accepting information and dumbly memorizing data is high school stuff. In college you don't just accept. You dispute, you push, you pry, you challenge. If, for instance, your physics prof says, "E equals me squared," don't just write it down. Say to the prof, "Why?"

- This will show him two things:
- a) Your mind is a keen, thrusting instrument.
- b) You are in the wrong major.

Ask questions, questions, and more questions. That is the essence of maturity, the heart and liver of education. Nothing will more quickly convince the teachers that you are of college calibre. And the tougher your questions, the better. Come to class with queries that dart and flash, that make unexpected sallies into uncharted territory. Ask things which have never been asked before, like "How tall was Nietzsche?" and "Did the Minotaur have ticks?" If so, were they immortal?" and "How often did Pitt the Elder shave?"

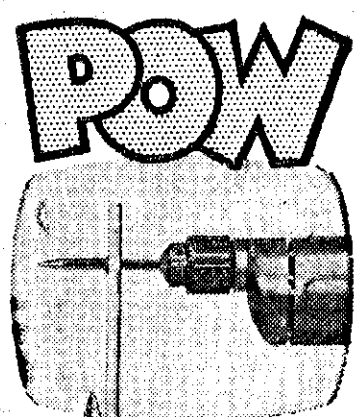

(Incidentally, you may never know the complete answer to Pitt the Elder's shaving habits, but of one thing you can be positive: no matter how often he shaved and no matter what blades he used, he never enjoyed the shaving comfort that you do. I am assuming, of course, that you use Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, a logical assumption to make when one is addressing college men—which is to say men of perspicacity, discrimination, wit, taste, cognizance, and shrewdness—for Personna is a blade to please the perspicacious, delight the discriminating, win the witty, tickle the tasteful, coddle the cognizer, and shave the shrewd.)

(I bring up Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades because the makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades pay me to write this column, and they are inclined to sulk if I omit to mention their product. I would not like to see them unhappy, the makers of Personna, for they are fine ruddy men, fond of Morris dancing and home brewed root beer, and they make a blade that shaves closely and cleanly, nickslessly and hacklessly, and is sharp and gleaming and durable and available both in double-edge style and Injector style.)

(And from these same bounteous blademarkers comes Burma-Shave, regular or menthol, a lather that out-lathers other lathers, brother. So if you'd rather lather better, and soak your whiskers wetter, Burma-Shave's your answer.)

But I digress. We have now solved the problem of maturity. In subsequent columns we'll take up other issues, equally burning. Since 1953 when this column first started running in your campus paper, we've tackled such thorny questions as "Can a student of 19 find happiness with an economics professor of 90?" and "Should capital punishment for pledges be abolished?" and "Are room-mates sanitary?" Be assured that in this, our 14th year, we will not be less bold.

The makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades (double-edge or Injector) and Burma-Shave (regular or menthol) are pleased (or apprehensive) to bring you another year of Max Shulman's uninhibited, uncensored column.

SPOOKS TO ROAM, BATMEN & DEVILS

Ghostly goblins, wicked witches, and sleeping spirits will rise again for their annual homecoming on Halloween eve.

Halloween, or holy evening was named for the holy day, All Saints Day, which it precedes. Even with its religious name, most of Halloween's customs stem from ancient pagan festivals; the autumn festival, Samhain of the Druids, and the Roman feast honoring Pomona, the goddess of fruits.

In ancient times the Celts, who practiced druidism, believed that on this night, the Lord of Death would allow the spirits of those who had died during the past year to spend some time in their homes. The Celts, however, were not stupid. They realized that if the Lord of Death released all the spirits, then bad as well as good spirits would return. So to prevent trouble from the evil spirits, the Druids built bonfires on top of the hills to discourage and frighten them away.

Also during this time it was believed that witches flew through the air on broomsticks. Witches were then believed to be wicked women who had sold their souls to the devil.

Thus, from these early heathen customs, some of our most cherished Halloween traditions were acquired. Even in this day and age we still find people who believe that Halloween is a night filled with evil spirits. And who, in their right mind, would let a black cat cross their path?

In the early days of our history, superstitious farmers put bells around the necks of their cows to protect them from the evil spirits. Another "sure protection" was crossed branches of ash and juniper at stable doors. Halloween has also been known as a time for fortune-telling and discovering one's future.

It was believed that if a young lady wanted a glimpse of her "intended," she could walk down a dark hall with a candle and a mirror in her hand. The face of her future husband would appear in the mirror.

A young man could discover his future by being blindfolded and allowed to choose one of three bowls.

Circle K Lends Hand at Hospital

Ten members of Circle K service club spent Saturday morning and afternoon at the Norwalk Metropolitan Hospital, lending a helping hand to the institution.

In their first community service project of the year, the club's members waxed floors and washed windows, inside and outside. While serving the community, the project also gave Circle K pledges a chance to earn some of the 200 activity points necessary for membership.

According to Ron Smith, chairman of the project members will again go to the hospital in late November.

Alvis Receives Letter From Igor

By Steve Alvis, Guest Columnist

Greetings and salutations of the day. I received a letter from my faithful servant, Igor. He's a personable fellow; 7 feet, one inch and 300 pounds, with the mind of a degenerate grape. He says he's in Japan learning how to destroy buildings with his bare hands. Previously, he's always worn gloves.

Igor's main problem used to be bad breath. Then one day as he was rummaging through the chemistry lab, he decided to fix himself a drink. Whatever it was, it certainly cured his breath, although nowadays whenever he sniffs flowers, they have a tendency to wilt.

Some people consider Igor a little eccentric. But then, as I always tell Igor, "If there weren't any odd people, how would we know who's normal?"

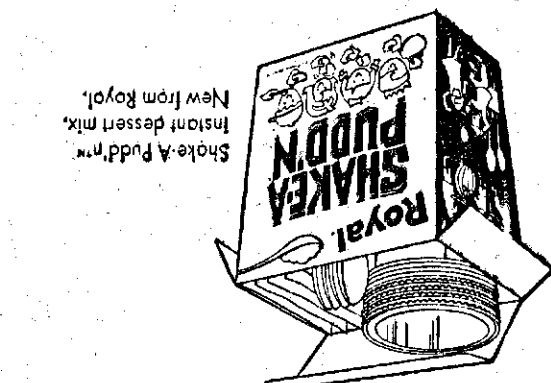

This week, my analyst, Smedley Jones, is on vacation. Funny, he left town right after his last session with me. He fled to his favorite resort, the Happy Valley Home for the Feeble-minded. He explained to me that he likes the intellectual stimulation after an hour session with me. Have a good time Smedley!

Veterans' Club Sweetheart for the month of November was selected at the Executive Council meeting held Oct. 28, according to Andy Bergen, secretary. Sweetheart Adele Cataldi is an English major and a member of the Homecoming Court.

Q:

What's a wild, new snack that takes 30 seconds to make, needs no refrigeration, comes complete with nothing to wash, and can be stored in a dormitory for 63 years?

You might even call it food for thought. It's 12 minding, right before a big chemistry final. Hide it away in your room until just the right moment. But the best thing about Shake-A-Pudd'n is that you can eat it anywhere. Everything is disposable. With four puddings, spoon, lid, and throwaway shakers. Each Shake-A-Pudd'n package comes complete in Chocolate, Vanilla, Butterscotch or Bonano. And you've got pudding. Snap the lid, shake for 30 seconds, let it set. Just put water and powder in the cup. Shake-A-Pudd'n. It's something else.

NEW— FIND SCHOLARSHIPS BY COMPUTER

Last year $30 million in college scholarships went unclaimed — because no qualified persons knew of them. Now ECS engineers and educators have programmed a high-speed computer with 700,000 items of scholastic aid, worth over $500 million, to permit students to easily and quickly locate scholarships for which they qualify. The student fills out a detailed, confidential questionnaire and returns it to ECS, with a one-time computer-processing fee of $19. In seconds the computer compares his qualifications against requirements of grants set up by foundations, business, civic, fraternal, religious, and government organizations, and prints a personalized report to the student telling him where and when to apply for grants for which he qualifies. Thousands of these do not depend on scholastic standing or financial need.

Team Pride Prevails In Pointless Brawl

by Harry Polgar

In the wake of a frustrating defeat for Cerritos Saturday night, some members of the Valley Monarchs football team showed their gross stupidity by starting a brawl in the middle of Falcon Field.

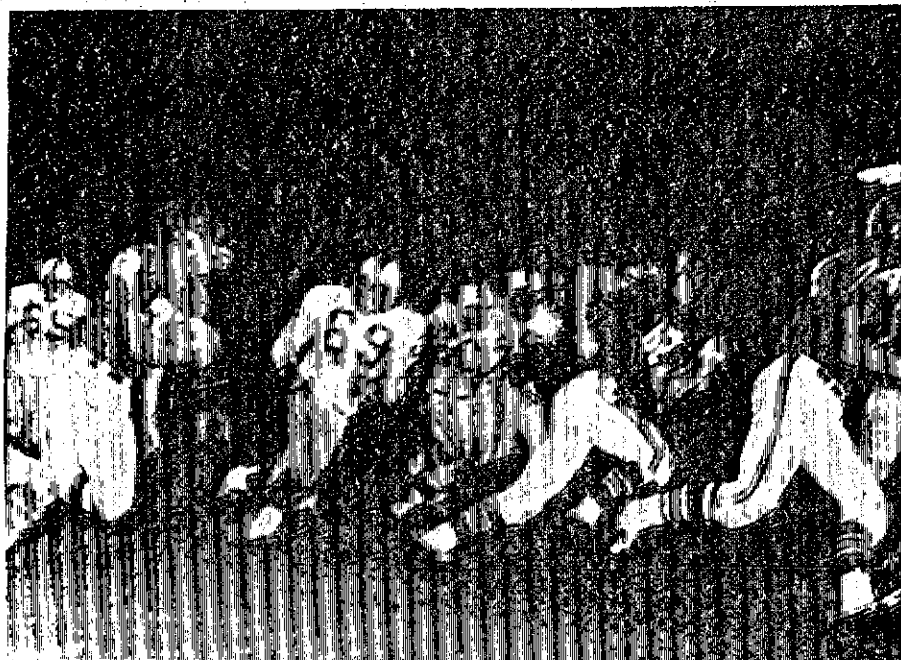

Defensive tackle, Arch McGill suffered a severe cut over his eye that required stitches. Head Coach Smokey Cates was shoved in the face by a Valley assistant coach, and when the Monarchs were finally persuaded to return to the field house, they bashed in a wall with their helmets.

There is no doubt that Valley is responsible for the fracas. According to a Norwalk Sheriff's deputy, it started when a Cerritos player was attacked after the final whistle blew. Teammates from both teams charged onto the field and the brawl began.

At first, Smokey was really angry about what happened. But by Wednesday, after he had received an apology from the Valley assistant coach who had shoved him in the face, Smokey had become somewhat pacified. "I could write letters and complain, but it is better to just forget it," he said. "these things happen."

These things may "just happen," but what they do to the image of JC football makes a mockery of the sport. Apologies are nice, but we cannot pretend that it didn't happen because an over-zealous assistant from Valley finally regained his "cool."

We are proud of the Cerritos team. We are glad that they are not responsible for the brawl, and we saw that they handled themselves well when it happened. We are by no means proud that there was a battle on our field after the game and we hope it doesn't happen again.

Interceptions, Rhubarb Mark Cerritos Loss To Valley 7-6

By Mike Bower

The Cerritos Football team made history last Saturday night in Cerritos Stadium, but it wasn't the type of record the Falcons were hoping to break.

It was the first time that a Smokey Cates team had gone down to defeat three times in succession as they dropped numero tres to the Monarchs of LA Valley College in a 7-6 heartbreaker.

It was a head-on battle between two of the best defenses in the nation. Cerritos had allowed just 51 points in four games with 27 coming from mighty Bakersfield. Valley had been even stingier, giving up only 38 in previous contests.

Valley held the edge on the Falcons on the ground as they rolled up 132 yards to the home team's 86, but were stopped in the air with only 58 yards as Cerritos picked up 154.

The Monarchs failed to stop the Falcons in the first half as QB Mike Olsen led his team 86 yards in nine plays with Gig Perez scoring his fifth touchdown of the year from two yards out.

Randy Wershing's conversion attempt was blocked and this turned out to be a very big play.

Though trailing at half time 6-0, Valley came out, fired up and scored with 2:47 left in the third quarter.

Monarch Craig Dowden swiped an Olsen pass on the Valley 45 and raced 47 yards before being brought down on the home nine yard line. Three plays later Monarch QB Tom Radford flipped a six yard pass to Bill Clifford for six points.

Valley had to attempt their conversion from 15 yards out as they were penalized, but the all-important kick was made and the score stood 7-6.

Several times in the fourth quarter it looked as though the Falcons would stage a come-from-behind rally.

With 1:20 left in the game Olsen connected for two long passes setting Cerritos up in scoring position. But alas the old interception turned up and fate left the Falcons footballless and winless.

The win can be attributed to Valley's fine stoppage of the Falcon ground game in the second half; holding them to 10 yards rushing.

Gig Perez did have a good night in the losing effort, as he lugged the ball 33 times for 105 yards. This gave the Falcons' answer to O. J. Simpson 101 carries for 351 yards and a fine 3.5 average for the season.

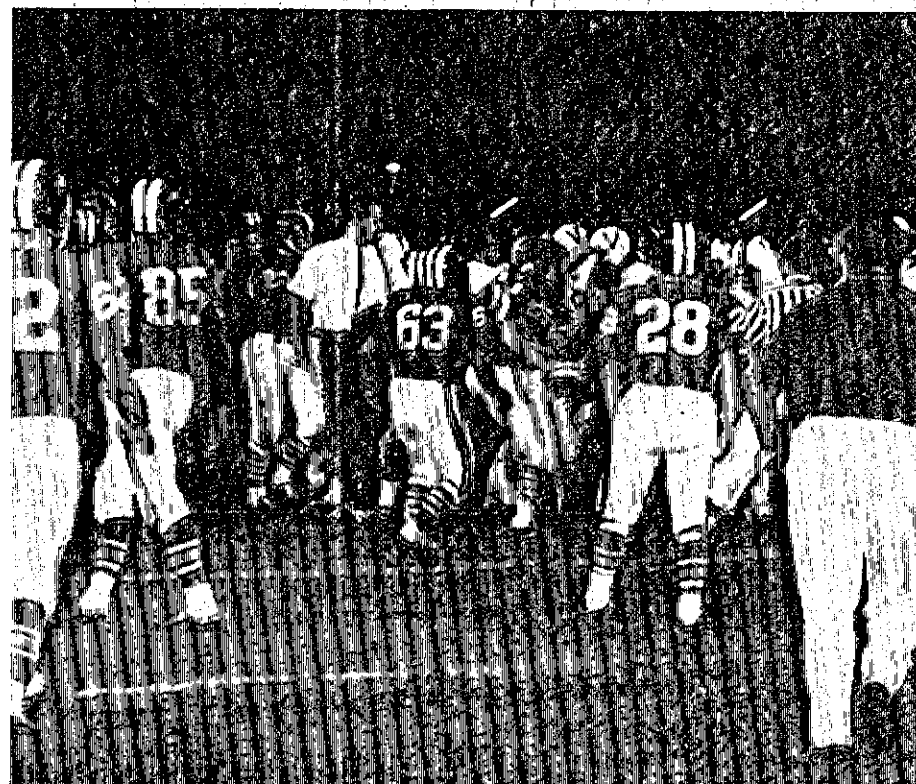

The horizon doesn't look any brighter for the Cerritos squad as they face El Camino tomorrow night and Rio Hondo the following week.

The El Camino Warriors will host the faltering Falcons hoping to gain their sixth victory in their attempt to nab the Metro title, by scalping Cerritos.

The Warriors are ranked high along with Bakersfield in the national rankings, and are on the warpath with halfback Tom Reynolds leading the conference in scoring with 66 points and quarterback Dana Clyde leading in touchdown passes (12), yards gained passing (1,094), and completing 71 of 131 passes.

Violence broke out as the final gun sounded ending Cerritos' 7-6 loss to Valley last Saturday night. The fight erupted when a Valley player allegedly kicked a Falcon griddier. Both benches emptied and several were injured before peace could be restored. (Photo by Tom Shadore)

Poloists Dunk Corsairs 13-7

Santa Monica became the second victim of the Falcon water polo squad in their quest for the Metro Conference title as Cerritos defeated the Corsairs last Tuesday, by a score of 13-7. Their record now stands at 2-0 in league play, with 4 conference games left on the schedule.

The Falcons were on the road last weekend as they played 3 games in the north. Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, a 4-year school, fell to the Falcons by a score of 8-6 last Thursday.

Santa Clara was the site of an encounter with West Valley College as the Falcons continued their winning ways by defeating West Valley, 15-11.

Foothill Junior College finally had their opportunity for revenge last week as they set the Falcons back, 12-8, in 2 overtime periods.

This was the first meeting between the two teams since last fall when Cerritos defeated Foothill in the finals of the state playoffs to become the California State Water Polo Champions.

As could be expected, Foothill was out for revenge in a game that saw Cerritos fall behind, 6-4 at half-time. Still down by 2 goals at the end of the third quarter, the Falcons rallied to tie the score at 8-8 at the end of regulation play. Then the dam burst, as Foothill scored 4 quick goals in the first overtime period and was never in trouble throughout the balance of the game.

Harriers Sweep In Triangular

Coming off two impressive victories, the Cerritos Cross Country team takes a break from conference play as they travel to the Mt. San Antonio College Invationals today.

The Falcon distance-men sped past both El Camino and East LA in a triangular meet on the Warrior home course last Friday.

Cerritos dumped both schools by 17 point margins, El Camino 22-39 and East LA 19-36.

The El Camino Warriors had been figured as a potential title threat in Metro pre-season analysis, but they were outclassed by the Cerritos runners.

Dick Ring again led the Falcons' impressive performance, placing second overall; timed in 19:26 over the 3.75 mile course.

SONG AND DANCE MAN—What appears to be a new version of the old song and dance routine is really Cerritos College Defensive Football Coach Wayne "Tank" Harris. Harris was caught by the candid photographer during several recent Cerritos games, giving defensive signals to members of the Cerritos squad. A 1967 revision of junior college football rules now allow signals from the sidelines. Many Falcon fans seem to be having more fun watching Coach Harris give his calls than the actual game. The Falcons hold a 2-3 overall record and an 0-3 conference standing.
