ASCC Senate bid

BY TIM LAHR
TM Assist. News Editor

It's a brand new Senate that holds its first meeting of the year today at 2 p.m. in the Board Room, following last week's four per cent turnout of 709 voters.

A total of 34 senators were elected from a slate of 54 hopefuls.

Most of the agenda is expected to center around appointments. Future meetings will deal with campus problems and activities. Considered of major importance is work on the election code in the ASCC constitution.

"We are going to change the election code," says Walt White, Vets Club president who was re-elected to the Senate.

"The first legislation I am going to introduce is for a recall article to be placed in the Constitution," he said.

He said that in future elections he wants to "avoid the kind of controversy that developed out of last spring's presidential election."

Ladd Eldredge, ASCC Vice-President and Senate chairman, says that there will be some change made in the election code. "Maybe changes in power blocs, so that students will not be able to run on the same slate together. Only independents will be placed on the ballot," he said.

But Eldredge noted with some surprise that a great many people ran as independents and won in last week's election, thus eliminating the power blocs.

"The independents did really well mostly the football team," he attributes this to good organization in the athletic department.

The Senatorial ballot contained 28 independents out of a total fifty-six candidates. Noticeable slates showed the LDS club with seven students running for office and Sigma Phi with five candidates on the ballot.

Six from the Vets Club were in contention, but according to White, they ran independent of each other. There were also four students from HSCC, a club for the handicapped.

Eldredge said, "I think a lot more people decided to run, to get things rolling in student government." He adds, that clubs helped by having more of a participation in the election.

Randy Means, member of the Vets club just elected to the Senate, comments, "There was better involvement this semester than last-not as much apathy. Last year's election hassles encouraged more students to get involved this year."

Board visits campus for chats

The first in a series of informal monthly meetings by members of the Board of Trustees will be held tomorrow at 11 a.m. in the Student Center.

The Trustees, at Board President Katie Nordbak's recommendation, voted unanimously to establish the sessions on campus to improve communication between the board and the college community.

To be held the first Thursday of every month at 11 a.m. in the Student Center, the meetings are designed to enable the student, staff, faculty and general public to interact with the board.

Mrs. Nordbak said she recommended the meetings in the hope that they would establish a free flow of information between the board and college community.

The open sessions provide a chance for everyone to supply input regarding the Trustees' decisions, she said.

The Trustees, by making themselves more accessible to the college community, hope to meet those concerned with the college on a one-to-one basis so each group may better understand the other.

Although the Board voted 7-0 in favor of holding the monthly sessions, some members may be absent from time to time due to other business or personal engagements.

However, the entire Board promised to make the meetings as open and successful as possible.

Sell-out campus crowd to hear controversial writer Atkins

BY PAULA BLAMEY
TM Assist. Campus Editor

A sold-out house is expected to be on hand tonight when controversial diet expert Dr. Robert C. Atkins, author of the best-selling book, "Diet Revolution," speaks at 8 in the Cerritos Student Center.

Dr. Atkins, whose book is said to have changed the eating habits of millions, will speak on "The New Nutrition and the Role of Required Carbohydrates."

"Most diets fail," Dr. Atkins says, "not only because they leave you hungry, but because they're boring." He described dieting as a lifelong venture, not a brief adventure.

Meals suggested in his new volume range from crabmeat balls to chocolate rum Charlotte, a far cry from the more traditional plans which emphasize abstinence and calorie counting.

The other three speakers scheduled for the fall semester include Dr. George Briggs, who will speak on "Causes of Malnutrition" on Oct. 16 at 8 p.m.

Dr. Briggs, a professor of nutrition at UC Berkeley, is the executive editor of the Journal of Nutrition Education. He is engaged in research on vitamins.

He co-authored the book "Nutrition and Physical Fitness," and he co-discovered Vitamin B-12.

Next speaker on the fall agenda will lecture on "Diet and Disease," Dr. Cherashin is the Department Chairman of Oral Medicine at the University of Alabama. He has co-authored such books as, "Diet and Disease," "Diet and the Periodontal Patient," and "Predictive Medicine, A Study in Strategy."

"Language, Thought, and Disease" will be the final lecture in the series. Dr. Wallace C. Ellerbroek, a surgeon general, psychiatrist, clinical instructor in psychiatry and human behavior in the College of Medicine at Irvine will speak.

The four-part series is being offered at the recommendation of the Citizens Advisory Committee of the Office of Community Services," said Nello Di Corpo, Dean of Community Services.

It is co-sponsored by Kaiser Foundation Hospital.

Continuing education credit will be given for the first time to physicians, dentists, and dental hygienists.

Dr. Foster Bens, La Mirada dentist, and chairman of the Professions Advisory Committee, will introduce the speaker.

"The true purpose of this program is for the entire community. I would like to urge the general public as well as Cerritos College students to attend all four lectures," Di Corpo said.

He emphasized that due to the anticipated popularity of the program, tickets should be picked up as soon as possible in the box office of the Student Lounge.

'Ear Bender' talks careers

Social Services will present the Tuesday, Oct. 10, program at 11 a.m. with "Social Service Careers and Educational Programs." Off-campus guest will be Michael Wellins of the Cal State Fullerton counseling office and Helpline Youth Counseling Center. Ted Spriggs of the Cerritos Community Services Division will be the campus representative.

"Ear Bender" features informal sessions with experts in various career fields. Programs are offered Tuesdays and Thursdays at 11 a.m.

Blood donors sought

Blood Drive sign-ups continue until October 11 in front of Student Center. Students can sign up from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The drive will be held October 14 and 16 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

New budget for 74-75 year

The final budget adopted by the Cerritos College Board of Trustees shows expenditures for the 1974-75 school year at $14,156,858 and an income of $14,029,330.

The deficit of only $127,528 would come from reserve money and still leave the college with an ending balance of $3.4 million dollars at the completion of the fiscal year.

Additionally, higher enrollment than anticipated and Senate Bill 1592 allowing higher state payments to offset inflationary trends will more than make up the deficit.

Enrollment is up some seven per cent over last year.

A report to the Board indicated that the official tax rate for 1974-75 set by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors is .7187 per $100 of assessed valuation. This is up from .7104 over last year.

Homecoming Queen

The Student Activities Office is currently accepting nominations for Homecoming Queen. Candidates must submit their applications no later than Oct. 7 by 12 noon.

Candidates must be female, be enrolled in at least 10 units, and hold a full-time membership in the ASCC.

Job placement offers new opportunities

One of the busiest offices on campus is the Job Placement Office, headed by Madge Coto.

"So many students are unaware of what we're doing here. But now, of course, with so many students being placed, we are getting more and more students in here," said Coto.

The Placement Office is open Monday through Thursday 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. and Friday 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Job applications are being accepted from full and part-time students. Recent graduates must bring documentation showing the date of graduation.

Applicants must meet employers requirements before a job referral is given. Grooming requirements are established by the employer, not by the college.

There is currently about 140 job opportunities for both men and women. Many new openings are expected in department stores and warehouses during the Christmas season.

"One reason we are so successful is that we have our own regular employers who work with us every year. Our regular employers are very pleased with our students because we pre-screen to their requirements," said Coto.

Applications received during 1973-74 totaled 4,289. Of the applications received 4,199 job referrals were given out and of these 3,120 students were placed. The figures represent an increase of five per cent over 1972-73.

Coto, a veteran of 15 years with the Placement Office foresees another rise in the number of students placed in jobs.

Senate elections

70 school year, 76 students ran for the senate. There was a lot of political activity on campus at the time, as well as in the country," he said.

"There are various reasons why students involved in student government," says Robinson. "This is their thing and they do it. Student government is for students who want to get involved in an extra curricular experience. Reasons for involvement also range from a notation on a transcript, to punch and cookies, and a parking sticker."

One elected Senator admits that "60 per cent" of his reason for candidacy was for that free parking space.

But he said he is also interested in the welfare of the student body.

Less than five per cent of the student body chose the thirty-four winners in the election.

"I did not think there was much campaigning going on," Eldredge said regarding the low voter turnout.

Although less than five per cent seems small, Robinson says that 25 to 30 per cent is the usual amount of full time students that vote.

"We get as good a turnout here as in city elections," adds Robinson. "Of the total percentage of students, many are part-time and attend the satellite campus."

Looking ahead in the year, there are many ideas planned to contribute to the students well being on campus.

"I think this year we will reach new ways to get revenue for the student body," says Eldredge. "The Commissioner of Activities, Coleman Mobley, is going great guns, and the ASCC is no longer in the hole because of dances."

He adds that things are running better with the new ASCC cabinet. "There will be more concerts with better performances," he said.

Means, said he hopes that the Senate will help out the Vets more on campus. "Two-thirds of the Vets are students in the evening. We can put bills through to help them."

Although the Senate plans more improvement this year, there is one faction on campus that for the first time will not be involved in student government.

Sigma Phi, the oldest club on campus was not able to put a candidate in the Senate. Sigma Phi is a social fraternity based on brotherhood. The Assistant Pledge Master says the results were a complete surprise and could see no reason for it.

Another change in the Senate structure has all four HSOC candidates winning seats. Also, the LDS club which usually saturates the Senate had only three out of seven candidates winning.

Senate seats are filled in the order in which a student receives votes. For instance, the student who received the most votes, will hold seat number one. The student with the second most votes gets seat number two. This goes on down the line to number thirty-four.

"There are no advantages of being placed in any one seat in the ranking system," says White. "Unless, your seat is thirty-four, then you sit near the door and you can be the first one out when the meeting is over."

In the case of this year's election, the one who will sit in the number one chair will be Mike Popovich, an independent who received 217 votes out of the 709 cast. Steve Norman, an independent, will warm seat two. The rest in order of seat are: Dave Davis, Ron Vander Sluis, Rod Sandquist, Mark Beckman, Glen Blanks, Nick Garnetti, Paul Martinez, Walt White, Randy Means, Daniel Almanza, Gary George, Richard T. Brown, Timothy Divine, Ed Carberry, Gary Witterman, Joe Reza, Dwain King, Nelson A. Brindle, Marcia Williams, Bob Lake, Linda Martin, George Beadell, E. Votaw, Mark Butcher, Matt Carnesi, Jose Morales, Deby Roberts, Spencer Call, Tracy Hannan, Donna O'Neill, Harry Gessler, and Harley N. Griffith, will sit near the door.

Vets fund used for slow checks

By FRED DICKINSON
TM Assoc. Editor

Working hard throughout the summer, the staff of the Cerritos Veterans Affairs Office was able to raise over $1,000 in funds for the Cerritos College Veterans Loan Fund.

The fund was established to assist vets whose benefit checks have been slow in arriving according to Robert Hille, Cerritos staff coordinator of Veterans Affairs.

"The fund is just getting started; we hope to really get a boost in November when the Southern California Sun donates a percentage of their ticket sales for their November 13 night game against the Florida Blazers at Anaheim Stadium to the Veterans Loan Fund."

The Sun is assisting 12 campus loan funds with this game, said Hille, and tickets at a discount rate are available at the ASCC box office and the Vets desk.

Citing pressure from individual vets, news stories, college coordinators, administrators and politicians, Hille said that the Veterans Administration has established a new program — "Vet Reps" — V.A. employees stationed on the various campuses charged with the responsibility of resolving problems related to benefit payments.

Mike Gross, one of three Vet Reps assigned to Cerritos, said that he feels the new program has potential.

"We have a new central computer with a list of all the pay records and the regional office sends us a pay list of those vets whose records have been worked on, periodically, so that we can tell the status of an individual vet's pay record quickly."

Another improvement in the V.A. regional benefit office noted by Hille is the grouping of records in modules according to the Vet's claim, or "C" number.

"All operations on an individual's pay records can now be completed within the module; a more efficient method eliminating time and possible record loss in transportation between floors."

"The enrollment paperwork for the 4,216 vets using benefits in most cases was filled out within 24 hours and hand carried to the Regional Office every few days," said Hille. "and of the approximately 2,000 vets certified in advance, about 80 per cent received their checks on time."

In addition to helping solve the benefit claim problems of vets already enrolled at Cerritos, the Veterans Affairs Office acting under the authority of Public Law 92-318, has established the Vets Refresher Program. This features college orientation, basic math and communication updates for vets who've been away from school for some time; finance courses on how to live on a benefit check; and counseling on such matters as how to get the most use from the V.A. benefits program and career and academic counseling.

A special $50 allowance can be obtained from the V.A. to pay a college tutor.

Tutors offer to help

Chemistry, physics, psychology, HPER 7, economics, engineering, cosmetology, microbiology, all forms of mathematics and English subjects including mechanics, English for foreign students and how to write a term paper — are all subject areas in need of tutors, according to chemistry tutor Bill Vetter, one of five tutors working the tutorial desk in the library.

Tutors receive $2.87 per hour. A hard working tutor may work up to 10 hours per week, although Vetter, a tutor since 1972, says he has worked up to 20 hours per week in past semesters.

A student requesting tutoring services is given an informational sheet to fill out as to hours available and the subject desired. The instructor of the course can either be informed of the tutoring or not — as the pupil desires.

After the informational sheet is filled out and turned into the tutorial desk, a tutor will contact the student within three days of the application date.

All students are entitled to 10 hours of free tutoring per semester and students in either the Financial Aids or the E.O.P. programs are entitled to an extra 10 hours. The 10 hours covers one or all classes that a student may need help in.

Vet students receive a special $50 tutoring allowance from the V.A., not to exceed $450 per semester. They are supposed to pay their tutor in cash, since the college is not authorized, and will not pay tutors working with veteran students.

This system can present a problem if the bill is not kept current, according to Patrick Silva, a science, math and English tutor who says he lost five hours of pay last semester due to a delinquent client who transferred.

The tutorial desk phone number is 860-2451, extension 444. It is open between the hours of 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

With our staff of about 80 tutors we can usually fill most any subject request," said Vetter, "although last year we were unable to help two students; one wanted a skiing tutor and the other wanted handball instruction."

Employees get pay raise

On June 26 the Cerritos College Board of Trustees unanimously approved an across-the-board 10.4 per cent cost-of-living salary increase affecting about 800 full and part-time employees of the college.

The pay hike is reflective of U.S. Department of Labor cost-price index for the Los Angeles and Long Beach area which was 10.4 per cent from May 31, 1973 through May 31, 1974.

The Board also increased the salaries of the Cerritos three top administrators to $38,100 for the president, $33,000 for the vice president of instruction and $31,750 for the vice president for business services.

The increases will cost the district more than $987,000. Cerritos President Dr. Wilford Michael said the funds were available from a projected income in excess of expenditures as shown in the 1974 preliminary budget.

Prindles: Individuals in an identical world

By DEBBIE BOLTON
TM Managing Editor

Sitting in a semi-cluttered office, watching a traffic of people come and go like a sidewalk sale that only comes twice a year, I prepared myself for a lot of double talk.

When the rush died down, the office of the P.E. building was quiet and there sat Donna and Jeannine Prindle.

Donna and Jeannine are identical twins, both with almost identical ideas on their careers and life, although distinctly separate in their individuality.

The Prindles both attended Cerritos a few years ago, with their goal being to get a degree in physical education and eventually teach at the junior college level.

They then transferred to Long Beach State in 1971 and both received a Bachelor of Arts degree in P.E.

At the beginning of this semester, they started coaching the women's basketball team upon the request of the P.E. department, while working on a program to obtain a Masters degree at LB State.

After finally getting used to who was who, Donna and Jeannine said both of them have been interested in sports ever since grammar school, where they were involved in many team sports.

"Being a twin had its advantages," said Jeannine. "You always had someone to play with."

It was all uphill after that. Donna became president of GAA at Warren High School, playing intercity meets. Among their achievements were in high school and college were winning trophies in softball and basketball.

Other past accomplishments include Jeannine's playing on the Wilt Chamberlain volleyball team, and Donna's tour of the Orient with the Venture for Victory team, which selects certain people to play from all over the U.S.

They both played on the National volleyball team, winning their way to the Regional tournament held at Brigham Young University in Utah, competing against other U.S. collegians.

Since the twins have been together a lot, they have always competed against each other.

"Donna's more outgoing," said Jeannine. "But Jeannine's more intelligent, more serious," replied Donna to the compliment.

In their spare time, the Prindles like to go camping, backpacking, and play on outside basketball teams. Donna likes art, especially drawing and collecting stamps. Jeannine also plays the banjo.

Excited about coaching basketball, they believe they have a good team. They are competing in a league with five other schools, and keeping up with the paperwork and dates is a handful. Women can still join the team but it's too late to take the course for credits.

Two teams will be set up from the enrollment of the class. Donna and Jeannine will each coach one team. Though disagreements in techniques occur, the twins usually agree after discussing the problem.

"Two people can see more mistakes than one," said Donna.

They would like for the women's sport program to be expanded at Cerritos as well as in the whole nation.

Realizing the impossibility of staying together throughout life, they plan to teach at separate schools, but know they will always be close.

Stereotyped Jackson twins, they are not. Maintaining your identity is hard as they've discovered through the years, but each is an individual reaching for her own goal.

similar ideas in coaching technique, their careers, and life in general. They do, though, manage to maintain separate individualities. —TM Photo by Debbie Bolton

Tyne unimpressed as poloists lose, 10-1

BY PAUL BRADLEY
TM Assoc. Sports Editor

The Falcon poloists travel to Grossmont today (Wednesday) at 3 p.m. for their final pre-conference match of the 74 season.

Even though the Falcons have not met with Grossmont for two years, their prospects look dim, as the Grossmont team is well known for defeating higher ranked teams than Cerritos.

Yesterday, with a pre-season record of 2-2, the Falcons met Palomar at Palomar. Results of the contest were not available at press time. However, Palomar has a similar reputation for winning as Grossmont does.

Last Friday afternoon, Cerritos encountered El Camino for the second time this season and was defeated by the Warriors for the second time.

After losing to El Camino 6-3 in the East Los Angeles Tournament, the Falcons suffered an embarrassing 10-1 defeat to the Warriors.

Cerritos held El Camino to only one goal in the first period, but was overwhelmed in the second and third. The Warriors unleashed a scoring attack that accumulated eight goals in two periods, and put the Falcons away for the rest of the game.

In the second period Cerritos scored their only goal of the game when Mark Montgomery placed the ball in the Warriors' net.

With one more point attributed to El Camino in the last period, the game ended 10-1.

Needless to say, coach Pat Tyne was not impressed with his team's performance.

"A team doesn't win — the other team makes mistakes. And whoever makes the most mistakes loses. We made a million of them," he said.

Tyne has been coaching water polo and swimming since 1948, when he helped train teams for AAU competition. In the late fifties he began coaching and teaching at Downey High School.

In 1963, he came to Cerritos and began compiling a very impressive record.

In his first year here, he won 27 games. The following two years, '64 and '65, his teams took the Southern California Championship. In '66 they were the California State Champions.

In 1968 his poloists were the runner up in the Southern California Championships, and placed third in the state. Two years later they were runner up in Southern California again, and this time took consolation in state.

That same year, 1970, they won their first and only South Coast Conference Championship.

Overall Pat Tyne has a 195-81 record at Cerritos.

Cerritos loses in first dual meet

BY BILL SCHANIEL
TM Assist. Sports Editor

The Cerritos College Cross Country team was soundly beaten last Friday by a strong Orange Coast team, 42-15.

Orange Coast had the top five finishers in the meet, which means the Falcon's best time was only good enough for a sixth place finish.

Coach Dave Kamanski is still waiting for last year's top runner, Jeff English, to come around and for Ernie Martinez to recover from a leg injury. These two runners can be the key to the Falcons South Coast Conference finish.

Against Orange Coast, English placed a disappointing ninth at 23:15 and Martinez didn't run.

"I was very impressed with Orange Coast," said Kamanski, who feels they will certainly challenge South Coast favorite Fullerton.

If there was anything to smile about after the defeat to Orange Coast, it was Davy Crockett's sixth place finish in the meet. Crockett led all Falcon runners with a 22:18 time for the four-mile course. Carlos Ponce finished seventh with a 22:22 time, while freshman Jesse Quesada placed eighth at 22:32.

The Falcons next opponent is Santa Ana, a team that is off a 15-45 thumping by Fullerton. Kamanski feels Santa Ana will be tough and his team must continue their good attitude and high moral to be competitive against Santa Ana.

The meet with Santa Ana will take place at La Mirada Park at 3:30 p.m. this Friday. It will be a meet that could essentially make or break the Falcons in South Coast competition, especially with conference favorite Fullerton and powerful Mt. San Antonio yet to be played.

Falcons run past Vikings

Following last week's loss to Bakersfield, Cerritos head football coach Ernie Johnson assumed full responsibility for the 28-7 fiasco. Naturally, one would likewise expect Johnson to take a certain amount of credit for last Saturday night's 28-15 victory over Long Beach City.

Such was not the case, as Johnson made perfectly clear when discussing the win.

"When they play well, I want to give full credit to the players," Johnson pointed out. "I really don't believe that the turn-around was due to me. We didn't change a play."

"All I asked them to do was play like men, and they did. Oh, we made some mistakes, but they were aggressive mistakes that are made when you're firing out hard," Johnson said.

Johnson hopes to eliminate even the minor mistakes this Saturday night as his Falcons will host East Los Angeles College Saturday night in Falcon Stadium. Kickoff is set for 7:30.

The Falcon defense will have to extend itself against East L.A., as the Huskies are a much improved football team over last year. They upset Fresno State in their opener up in Fresno, and played L.A. Valley to a 14-14 tie last Saturday.

"They have two fine, mobile running backs, and a good quarterback," Johnson said about East L.A. "They have a very fine running back."

In the win over Long Beach, Cerritos snapped a five-game home losing streak and three-game winless streak at the hands of the Vikings. It was Johnson's first victory ever over Long Beach.

Keying the Cerritos victory was a ground attack that moved the ball for 390 yards in 67 attempts.

Like Attila used to do with his Huns, an exploding club that was rated No. 1 for awhile in the Barbarian League, Johnson had his Falcons swarming all over the opposition.

A trio of Cerritos running backs continually applied the pressure to the Long Beach defense. Glen Ford led the Falcon rushers with 161 yards on 22 carries for a 7.3 average. He was followed by Jeff Handy (93 yards, 16 carries, 5.8 avg.) and Jim Emmerling (87 yards, 13 carries, 6.7 avg.).

You may be wondering how a team that ran for only 23 yards in one week, as Cerritos did against Bakersfield, can come on like Mack trucks the following week.

"We didn't put in anything new," Johnson reiterated. "I think that Long Beach is relatively young defensively and they weren't as big or experienced as Bakersfield."

The difference could have been in the opposition, but I feel that we also gave Long Beach a much better all-around effort than we did Bakersfield. Also, we didn't fumble," Johnson said.

Ford's 161 rushing yards was his most productive day as a Falcon, but not necessarily the best game of his entire career. He ran for 200 yards once for Neff in a 1972 CIF playoff game against Walnut.

The 6-0, 206-pound sophomore was quick, though, in giving credit where it was due for his Saturday night performance.

"The holes were there," Ford said. "The line did a great job."

"We had a real good week of practice. After looking at the films of the Bakersfield game, we realized that we did a lot of things wrong. We knew that we had a better team than we showed against them," Ford said.

The films of the Bakersfield game must have surprised Long Beach. They came into the game looking for Falcon quarterback Duane Matthews to be throwing the ball, since he threw for 222 yards against the Renegades. Matthews "crossed them" up, however, throwing only 10 times in the game, completing six of them for 105 yards and two touchdowns to Gary Witteman and Jeff Handy respectively. He also scored Cerritos' other two touchdowns on one-yard dives.

"A balanced offense is always a good thing because it takes the pressure off both the running and the passing games," Matthews said.

"Personally, I like it a lot better when you can run the ball well. It increases the safety in the percentage of your passes. When they have to be concerned with the run, it's easier to throw," Johnson explained.

"And Duane throws a nice pass. He can throw it a lot better when he doesn't have to throw it all the time."

Cerritos' balanced running and passing games combined for 495 yards total offense, compared to Long Beach's 374. The Falcons out-first downed the Vikings, 25-15, with 20 of the first downs coming on the ground.

4 TALON MARKS

Wednesday, Oct. 2, 1974

Plain talking

Talon Marks lauds the Cerritos College Board of Trustees on their unanimous decision to establish informal monthly meetings in the Student Center.

At Board President Katie Norbaks recommendation, the board will be on campus the first Thursday of each month to provide an opportunity for students, staff, faculty, and the general public to exchange ideas.

The idea of improving communication is a good and necessary one. Talon Marks finds it refreshing that the board has extended its hand while things are going smoothly rather than wait until conflicts occur.

We strongly urge the college community to take advantage of the lunch time meetings which are a giant step in the direction of improved community-board communications.

If you have a question or comment, the first meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 3, at 11 a.m.

Press perspective

It was no less than one Thomas Jefferson who mentioned that if he had a choice between government without newspapers and newspapers without government, he would prefer the latter.

The responsible newspaper in a democracy has historically been recognized and looked to as a vital and dynamic instrument which contributes significantly to the above-board administration of the public good.

This does not suggest that all those in politics are inherently and automatically crooks and manipulators out for personal gain and self-serving purposes — Watergate notwithstanding.

It does, however, recognize and emphasize that for the protection of those who serve and those who are served, the free press system of checks and balances is essential — and generally considered the best in the world.

Will Rogers said, "All I know is just what I read in the papers." He added, "I bet you many a public man wishes there was a law to burn old records."

The Talon Marks feels its responsibility very keenly. It also recognizes its power and influence — as obviously does anyone who might seek to intimidate and coerce with legislation and budget threat. (It's been done ... probably will be tried again.)

We are here neither to condemn nor praise ... burn old records nor resurrect them. Rather, we hope to serve the presently enrolled student body, the elected and appointed student government, and the entire college community.

Within our space limitations, we will cover as much for as many as we can. We must, however, meet high academic and professional — yes, professional — standards. (We can be sued for libel the same as any other paper.)

Our academic obligation, which demands professional quality, is based in part on the fact that the college instructional budget and the "administration" pay for more than half the actual cost of the finished product. The ASCC only provides funds for the actual printing.

Thus the TM, in reality, has co-publishers, each which has a right to expect that his particular needs be met — within the fairly definitive framework of the medium.

Need some $$$$$$?

Last semester 1500 students took advantage of scholarships, grants, and loans totaling $400,000, according to Mrs. Fran Newman, Dean of Student Affairs. This money is available for books and supplies.

The Office of Student Affairs handles four basic programs of financial aid: scholarships, grants, loans and work-study.

Scholarships which provide $25 to $100 for books and supplies are furnished by various local clubs and organizations and need not be repaid.

Grants are available to students who qualify, for up to $800. Grants need not be repaid.

Also available from the college are short-term, no interest loans for books and supplies from the campus bookstore. For larger amounts there are other low interest loans insured by the United States government.

There are vocational and college work-study programs for students who want to work. Beginning pay rate is set at $1.88 per hour.

Details about financial aid is available in the Office of Student Affairs. The office is located across from the student lounge. Telephone 860-2451, Ext. 246.

Penny pinchers

A new crisis - senseless plight

One of the most "senseless" shortages around these days is the missing pennies problem.

Estimates are that there are 30 billion pennies out of circulation—stored away in everything from piggy banks to catch-all containers in every house throughout the country.

Ironically, this penny packratting or penny-pinching thing has no monetary promise, other than perhaps under the old Ben Franklin "A penny saved..." bit.

There are simply so many pennies around that they'll never become valuable enough to make storage or hoarding worthwhile.

Stores and businesses are asking people to use pennies. Reportedly, some retail outlets are increasing prices to the nearest nickel—certainly not below—to solve the penny change problem. This makes the cost of living go up—and what with the current state of the economy, that certainly doesn't make good "cents"....

The San Francisco Mint supposedly has to produce 55 million pennies to keep up with the demand.

If you've got more pennies than you really need, why not cart them to the bank and exchange them for green folding stuff. It's easier to carry—and maybe even more fun to spend.

As Ben Franklin might say, "A penny saved is a penny needed."

EARTH BLOOD

The Earth Day spirit

By AL BENTON
J.M. Assoc. Feature Editor

The great energy crunch of the winter of '74 has endangered the environmental progress accomplished during the earth awareness of the first part of this decade.

With resignations, pardons, amnesty and inflation, it is difficult to think about ecology. With the current quest for new energy, we must think conservation.

Ecology is more than a group of little old ladies trying to save the last of the Yellow-bellied Four-flushers. The true role of contemporary environmentalism is that of watchdog, protecting and questioning every use of the natural scene.

In the past five years this country has made improvements in the quality and control of our environment. However small these gains may be, they are improvements.

To relinquish these gains in land use, air quality and water quality will be to set a dangerous precedent for the future based upon a faulty premise of immediate needs.

It is true that this country will need oil now and in the future, but we must question our true needs, our methods, our motives, and above all, the future implications of our acts.

Help to bring back the spirit of Earth Day—get involved.

GAP launches big Breadhunt drive

This year's GAP opened Oct. 1.

Over $2,500 was raised last spring for the ASCC Breadhunt Scholarship fund by collecting glass, paper, and aluminum cans, according to Keith Adams, director of financial aid.

Eleven clubs on campus competed in the annual GAP project last spring, collecting 16,003 lbs. of glass, 13,803 cans and 11,615 inches of paper. The total for the year of 1973 was 25,971 lbs. of glass, 28,347 aluminum cans and 19,344 inches of newspaper.

Phi Beta Lambda was declared the winner of the GAP project competition last spring. New records were set last year for the project by Phi Beta Lambda for glass with 9,245 lbs. Vets Club for cans, with 6,500 cans and Circle K for paper with 5,029 inches.

The money raised by GAP goes into the ASCC Breadhunt account which helps students of Cerritos with scholarships and short term loans.

The reclamation center located behind the cafeteria will be open Monday from 9 to 1 p.m.; Tuesday 9-11 a.m. and 1-3 p.m.; Wednesday 9-11 a.m.; Thursday from 9-11 a.m. and 1-3 p.m.; and Friday from 9-11 a.m. and 2-3 p.m.

Three special GAP days have been set aside this semester including October 12, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.; November 16, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.; and the last chance for the semester —

December 14, from 9 to 12 noon.

Clubs are asked to box or bag their glass, count their cans and tie their papers before bringing them in, thus speeding up the timely process at the center," said Adams.

"There are other Breadhunt activities throughout the year to raise money for you, the student of Cerritos. Thus, I am asking clubs to send in names of people to serve on our Breadhunt committee and Scholarship committees as soon as possible," said Adams.

Services are available in library office

By GEORGE THOMPSON
TM Staff Writer

"If you are looking for help with your term paper or any class work, you are urged to use the Cerritos College Library," said Cecil Roberts, head librarian.

"We have a lot of services such as vocational view cards, 52,000 books, microfilm on all subjects, 470 monthly magazines, slide tape programs in many subjects, and a display case," said Roberts.

New books at the library come in at a rate of 150 per month. A list of these books is available upon request.

"This new encyclopedia represents a revolutionary approach to the making of encyclopedias. One section (the Micropaedia) is a ten-volume, alphabetical compendium of facts with 102,000 entries of no more than 750 words the second (the Macropaedia) is a 19 volume collection of scholarly essays averaging over 7,500 words and covering some 4,000 topics," said Betty Jones, reference librarian.

"The Micropaedia aims to educate by drawing together an international cast of authorities on subjects as diverse as Nabokov's novels and atomic particles displaying their wares for the intelligent layman," said Jones.

The two sets are not isolated; the micropaedia makes references to the more comprehensive articles in the Macropaedia. The 30th volume of the 15th edition of the Britannica 3 (The propaedia) is an elaborate table of contents listed by topics that are in the 19 volume Macropaedia.

The library also has slide tape programs on how to use the library, available in the learning center.

"We would like to ask all instructors to make use of these tapes. A private tour of the library is available by going to the circulation desk and asking for a small tape recorder which you carry around and it tells you in 15 minutes what your library has to serve you," Roberts pointed out.

Vocational view cards are available to students to find out if they are suited for a certain vocation or not. Two photocopies are available for use at five cents a copy. Free typewriters are available for your typing needs. New higher desks are now available for the handicapped student, as well as a special door into the book stacks.

"We urge the student to make suggestions on how we can improve the library," said Roberts. "We do not know what the students needs are if they do not tell us, so please talk to our librarians and we will try to make our library fit your needs," the head librarian said.
