BUCKLEY ACT REVIVED

Three senators no-show; next vote getters seated

By TIM CARTER
TM News Editor

Citing the Buckley Act and invasion of privacy, ASCC Vice President Julie Emerson refused to reveal the reasons why three senators were not seated at last week's senate meeting.

Asked if the student body didn't have a right to know why senators that were duly elected by the students were not seated, Emerson replied, "They have a right to know they weren't seated, but the reasons why are not their business."

The three senators, Carla Anderson, John Osuna, and Larry Castro were not present at Wednesday's senate meeting. Taking their places were Tim Richmond, Sam Bournan, and James Copeland, all members of the Cerritos College football team.

Senate advisor Richard Robinson said that two of the senators did not meet constitutional requirements and one had a job conflict.

Not meeting constitutional requirements could mean either the person had dropped below the required 10 units this semester or a grade point average of less than 2.0.

Student Body President Don Collins said that because of the Buckley Act, they can only reveal that senators didn't meet constitutional requirements, and can not be more specific, or identify which senator was disqualified for what reason, should there be more than one disqualified senator.

The Los Angeles County Counsel has interpreted the "Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974," (Buckley Act), as granting student government a cloak of secrecy concerning why a representative is disqualified from office.

This ruling resulted from a similar instance last year after both Robinson and Don Siriani, Dean of Student Personnel, acting on counsel advice, refused to divulge the names of senators who were disqualified from office.

Board of Trustees member (now president) Lou Banas at the time, called the counsel ruling a "crackerjack decision," and called for less secrecy, not more.

When Senator Buckley himself was reached at home in New York, and the situation was described to him by then Talon Marks editor Pat Kennedy, he said that this was not the intention of his bill.

The issue then got national attention in professional and college circles.

At last week's senate meeting, Debbie Bower was approved as senate clerk; Tara Layton, commissioner of records and information; Kim Goldsmith, commissioner of student services; Ron Regan, commissioner of athletics; Sandy Phillips, commissioner of activities; Cal Lindsey, commissioner of public relations; Marilyn Merritt, commissioner of inter-club council.

Mike Eames, commissioner of finance and budget; David George, commissioner of extended day operations and plan implementation; Jorge Landin, assistant commissioner of student financial aids; Tom Gray, assistant commissioner of public relations; Clay Anderson and Teri Mudge, justices to the ASCC Supreme Court, and Richard Goul as party whip fill the other posts.

Elected as senate officers were Harley Griffith, President Pro Temp; David Cordell, majority leader; Tim Richmond, minority leader, and Rick Carusa as sergeant of arms.

Emerson said of the first meeting of the year, which she presided over as chairman, "I was a little nervous, but I enjoyed it. The new senators generally seemed to be enthusiastic, and I'm pleased with that."

The senate meets today at 2 p.m. in BK 112.

The regular meeting of the Cerritos College Board of Trustees will be held Tuesday, Oct. 18 in the Board Room.

All meetings are open to students and the general public.

Cerritos co-ed raped enroute to early class

By MARTIAL WILLER
Editor-in-chief

A 20-year-old Cerritos coed was raped in the ladies restroom of the Technology Building adjoining parking lot C-8 October 10 just before 7 a.m.

The victim, a Lakewood resident, was walking to class when she was followed into the restroom and attacked, according to the Sheriff's office. The assailant reportedly left her without clothing until 8:30 a.m. when she was discovered.

This is the second rape reported on Cerritos campus within a six month period. Last semester's sexual attack occurred around 10:30 p.m. on Falcon Way behind the archery field.

College officials have reminded students that rape or assault, particularly in the early morning and late evening hours, is always a danger which female students should be aware of.

Brad Bates, Coordinator of Campus Police, reminds students that whenever they feel the need they should avail themselves of the escort service provided by the campus security.

Official withdrawal date changed; 12 week drop policy now in action

A new grading policy adopted by the Board of Trustees last spring included a change in the official withdrawal date.

An official withdrawal (W) may be initiated by either the student or the instructor up through the last day of the 12th week for a full semester course, or the last day of the week which represent two-thirds completion of the course for those courses less than a full semester, as in a 9-week session.

The deadline dates are first 9-week session, Friday, Oct. 21; Fall semester full session, Almost 10 years ago, Rockwell International came to Cerritos College for help. Their engineers needed to speak Russian so they could work with Soviet engineers on a space rendezvous. Cerritos met the challenge with a special program and their first off-campus classroom.

Today, just as space satellites reach out to provide man with knowledge, Satellite Campuses are reaching out to provide knowledge by offering about 200 courses at schools,

Friday, Dec. 2 and second 9-week session, Friday, Jan. 6, 1978.

After the deadline, an instructor may file a "Late Withdrawal From Class" form (Form AR-6) only in the event of personal or family illness, death in the family, student moving from the area or where there is a time conflict with the student's job.

If the late withdrawal procedure is not completed by the last day of instruction before finals, the student will be assigned a grade other than "W".

Curtain goes up in Burnight tonight for premiere of 'Equus'

Cerritos first college in nation to perform award-winning play

By COY STEWART
TM Associate Editor

When the curtain goes up in the Burnight Theatre for "Equus" tonight, this is not the only place where you can catch the award-winning psychological thriller—if you want to, there are still some good seats available to see it on Broadway.

But Cerritos is the first, and currently the only, college in the nation to be staging its own production of this fine drama.

And there "are only about seven other colleges" that Burt Peachy knows of that have been able to purchase the rights. The rights to perform the play were available for only a short time and were then withdrawn, according to Peachy, so it is no longer possible for other schools to procure them.

Peachy further says that most of the sets that are used for the Broadway production have been "re-created" in detail. He has said that "the only way" he would do it is if they handled the production in a professional manner and, according to Peachy, that's how it is being done.

The play, written by Peter Shaffer, has won the top two prizes for live theatre; both the "Tony" award and the New York Critics Circle Award (1975).

"Equus" is the tale of a young 17-year-old boy who, seemingly without reason, has violently blinded five horses. As he undergoes treatment by a concerned psychiatrist, the doctor methodically tears away the layers hiding a very bizarre truth.

Richard Rossi will portray the psychiatrist, Dr. Martin Dysart, and Charles Craig is the 17-year-old stableboy, Alan Strang.

The drama begins tonight and will run through Saturday, and again Oct. 20-22. Performances will be at 8 p.m.

Tickets are available at the box office; Students/faculty/Golden Key Card holders can see it for $1.50, all others $3. Reservations may be made by calling Ext. 357.

Satellite Campuses reach throughout district

churches, hospitals and industrial sites throughout the district.

Courses ranging from Narcotics and Vice Control to Supermarket Flower Design are attended by boxboys, grandmothers, security guards, secretaries, social workers and many others sharing the common bond of a desire for personal improvement.

With some 23 branches, Satellite Campuses are geared to meet the needs of both industry and the general population.

The Supermarket Management program utilizes courses such as Business Communications, Retail Display and Food Store Sanitation at locations provided by Alpha Beta, Safeway and Vons.

Although some courses have the same titles as those offered on campus, "they tend to emphasize vocabulary and specific problems related to the operation of a supermarket," said Dean Paige, Director of Extended Day.

Paige also pointed out that the program was first initiated for people already working in the field, but is open to all students. He said that anyone completing the program (a certificate or an A.A. degree in Supermarket Management) will be better prepared to fill management positions in the industry. The courses are taught by qualified teachers who are usually employed by one of the markets.

Classes at Bechtel Power Corporation and Rockwell International are also open to all students, but were set up primarily to meet the needs of employees of these companies. For example, Bechtel has many foreign-born engineers, so classes in oral English as a Second Language are offered at their facility.

However, Satellite Courses also have a variety of attractive features for people of any occupation. West Middle School, in Downey, is easily accessible to students living in the

Author Schlesinger at Student Center

Two-time Pulitzer Prize winner Arthur Schlesinger, whose latest book, "Cold War and Detente", is soon to be released, is scheduled to lecture on campus next Wednesday night in the Student Center.

Schlesinger won the 1946 Pulitzer Prize for history with "The Age of Jackson" and the 1966 prize for biography with "A Thousand Days: John F. Kennedy in the White House."

Homecoming court chosen; dunking booth planned today

By PHYLLIS DAVENPORT
TM Assoc. News Editor

The seven Cerritos coeds for homecoming court positions were elected from 15 candidates.

Introduced at a Pep Rally held in the Student Center last Thursday were Becky Wellander, Sigma Phi; Lenora Peralut, Alpha Phi Beta; Cheryl Cota, Veterans Club; Kathy Bures, Tau Rho Beta; Linda Castillo, VICA; Cindy Homer, Football Team and Cheryl Flowers, Pep Club.

Elections to select the homecoming queen will be held Oct. 18 and 19 at the regular polling places.

Homecoming court activities continue today at 11 a.m. in the quad with the Dunking Booth, a very popular event. For 50¢, a person can have three tries to give their favorite candidate the "wet look."

A Box-Lunch Auction will take place tomorrow in the Student Center at 11 a.m. The money from this event will go to Financial Aids.

Each of the homecoming queen hopefuls will prepare a box lunch to feed six to eight people — the only hitch is that all of the boxes will look alike. Each lunch will be auctioned off to the highest bidder (or bidders) who will have the opportunity to share it with the candidate that prepared the meal.

This week's homecoming activities began Monday and Tuesday with a Mock Rally and a Relay Competition.

Jazz musician McCann to entertain at Burnight

By VICKI SPARKS
Associate Campus Editor

Les McCann, who in recent years has emerged as a leading jazz musician, will be performing in Burnight Theater, Saturday, Oct. 29. Tickets are now on sale for the concert which should prove to be one of the top attractions of the year.

McCann's music is hard to define. It ranges from free form instrumentals to hard-hitting political songs such as "Compared to What?" his 1969 smash hit.

Basically, he plays what he feels.

"My music is me. It's not either jazz or rock, pop or classical—it's music!"

And his music really is him. It gives the listener an idea of what an extraordinary man he is.

He writes most of his own music, but does perform other artists' work. Asked whose songs he likes to work with, McCann said, "I hear a song I like—I play it."

The Hollywood Reporter called him "perhaps the first musician to get complimentary and purely musical sounds from an ARP, Rhodes piano, and Clarinet."

"Having established that he sounds good, it's important to note that his playing is superlative, and so is that of his band."

His limitless imagination and enthusiasm for living give his music a joyous quality, and his love of people explain the ability to reach out to audiences. These qualities are what make Les McCann not just a leading jazzman—but a very inspirational human being.

And what is behind all this inspiration? People, he says. His music comes from impressions he receives from friends, acquaintances, and people he talks to at random. A walk-in closet in his home is filled (floor to ceiling) with taped conversations between Les and cabdrivers, hotel clerks, waitresses and others.

This sensitivity to people is very evident in one of his favorite pastimes—photography. He has had exhibits in Europe, Africa, and all over the United States. A special collection, entitled, "Faces of Jamaica" was shown in Jamaica and at the Jamaican Embassy in New York.

Leslie Colman McCann was born one of six children in Lexington, Kentucky, 42 years ago. His first introduction to music was the gospel songs from nearby Shiloh Baptist Church. The gospel sound is still very apparent in everything he plays.

Throughout his childhood, McCann sang in vocal groups, glee clubs, and various musical groups, mastering several instruments along the way.

Soon he started experimenting with piano, and performing as a comedian/singer. He won an appearance on the Ed Sullivan Show. This was followed by a tour across the country and Les discovered he loved nothing more than entertaining a roomful of people.

In the mid 1950's, McCann began playing jazz spots along Sunset Strip in Hollywood, becoming friendly with many musicians and earning a growing reputation on the L.A. music scene.

What followed was a career spanning 20 years and almost 40 albums. In the course of that career, McCann has earned a worldwide reputation. Jazz musicians have traditionally been detached from their audiences—afraid that popularity would interfere with quality. But McCann is different. His showmanship and rapport with audiences have made him very popular in the U.S. and even more so in Europe, which is his favorite place to play.

A London reviewer said, "It is remarkable that a musician such as Les McCann not only has the reputation and musical ability, but also has the magnetism and capacity to get an audience to react as they would to say, like and Tina Turner, or the late Otis Redding."

Les's most recent album, "Music Lets Me Be," is self-explanatory in its title. It was co-produced by Les and recorded on ABC/Impulse records.

When asked if he enjoyed playing at colleges, McCann replied, "very much so."

"American colleges are like European audiences. They know what they want to hear." They are also very responsive, and that is what really appeals to Les McCann.

Auto Tech Center helps shape individuals as well as mold the character of cars

By GARY EHRES
TM Staff Writer

The Auto Tech Dept. builds not only cars but individuals.

John Jackson has been with the Cerritos College Auto Tech Dept. for the last 20 years and along with Jerry Shopfner, a nine year instructor, they have come up with some very successful programs for their students.

Auto Tech not only deals with the basics of auto repair, but the development of all around individuals ranks as the highest priority.

According to Shopfner, "We urge the student to get involved in some of the academic classes on campus such as Speech, Political Science and History. This will enable the student to express communication of self-goal. After all, we are not mechanics all of the time."

Auto Tech offers an A.A. degree, but more importantly it offers the student an insight into today's world of technology. According to Shopfner, "Technology is the solving of problems as they come up. When technology can't solve those problems, then we're in trouble. People don't take into consideration the technological advances of tomorrow when they are dealing with problems."

"For instance, the Chicago manure problem. The manure problem developed from the use of horses in the city to provide services for the populous. Along came a technological advance called the automobile and the manure problem was solved. But with the solution came another problem — pollution. The concept of technology is to always be one step ahead of the problems."

On the subject of fuel shortage, Jackson related the problems of the "economic imperative" to change. "Where there's money, there's no incentive to change. There are plenty of alternative fuels such as garbage or alcohol, but there is more money in petroleum."

Jackson also sees a "parallel in professions. Successful shop personnel are as successful as any doctor or lawyer. The performance of the service is done with the hands. These tradesman all have a common bond."

"Not only do they work with their hands but their perception of the problem, what it takes to repair the problem, and finally repairing the problem are common among the parallel professions."

The Auto Tech Center is offering a Management Program that teaches basic management that can be used in all walks of life. Emphasis of the program is on Auto Body and Mechanics.

"The student is given responsibility in the shop and must handle that responsibility without any help" according to Jackson.

The Auto Tech Center gets more calls for management trainees than any other division of the center. According to Shopfner, "The student can become a good leader if he has the skills of both management and mechanic but one without the other won't work."

Most students are ready for work when they leave the Auto Tech. They have the knowledge and skills to start as journeymen in the auto repair field any where they go. Job demands that are sent to the school can't be met because of the low enrollment capabilities.

The new Auto Tech center should be able to change that. The facilities will be expanded to accommodate more students. The new Auto Tech was designed with the assistance of Shopfner and Jackson. This will provide the atmosphere that Jackson and Shopfner have required for their students but have never had.

northwest corner of the district. The majority of the courses offered here are in the fields of business and real estate.

"I've been a housewife for the last 13 years, and I finally decided to get out and do something different," said one real estate student. "I came here and registered on the first night of class. I was reluctant because I thought it would take me hours to enroll. But this is no trouble for me; I just live a couple of blocks from here."

A business student, who works as a truck driver, said: "I've taken classes at Cerritos, and I enjoyed them, but it was a big hassle because I don't get home from work until about 6 o'clock. I don't have any trouble making these classes because I live close and I can park about 50 feet from my classroom."

With Neff High School on the eastern edge, Mayfair on the south and West Middle on the northwest, Paige said all that's needed to have all corners covered is a location somewhere in Hawaiian Gardens or Artesia.

"Satellite Campuses work for the benefit of companies, Cerritos College, and many people who are unable to attend classes on campus. We're now working closely with adult schools, and hope to set up more programs for women and senior citizens," concluded Paige.

Poloists beat Mt. SAC 9-6 for first victory of season

By JOHN ALLISON
TM Staff Writer

Cerritos College's water polo team defeated Mount San Antonio College, 9-6, here yesterday afternoon.

"We're still not playing up to our abilities," said head coach Pat Tyne after his team's victory.

The Falcons had control of the entire game as they rolled up a 4-1 halftime lead. Mt. SAC returned in the second half more aggressive than the Falcons but could only match Cerritos' second period output of five goals.

Fullerton floors Falcon runners Friday, 15-50

Cross country, which lost to the Fullerton College Hornets 15-50 last Friday (Oct. 7), will continue their South Coast Conference action in a tri-meet with San Diego Mesa and Santa Ana College this Friday (Oct. 14) at La Mirada Park, their home course.

"It seems like everybody we play is the toughest in the state," explained Falcon head coach Dave Kamanski whose team competes against the likes of Grossmont, Fullerton, Santa Ana and Mount San Antonio in the SCC. "They're four of the finest teams in California," he said.

Fullerton's Jim Branson, Tom Becker, Steve Boaz and Scott Allison all crossed the finish line at 21:16 for a four way tie for first-place as the Hornets placed nine men in front of the Falcon's top qualifier on FC's rugged, four-mile course.

Juan Hernandez (Downey) finished 10th for Cerritos at 22:30. Roland Gonzales (Artesia) experienced minor foot problems as he coasted in at 22:56 for 11th, Barry Hayworth was 14th at 23:40, Tim Nichols was 15th at 23:49 and Rick Williams was 16th at 24:21.

Cerritos' water polo team was soundly beaten by Fullerton College, 12-4, last Friday after losing a close non-conference match at Saddleback College last Tuesday.

The team continues their 1977 South Coast Conference action (in which they are 1-2) as they now travel to San Diego Mesa College for a Friday afternoon match.

Calling the Fullerton Hornets a "bunch of animals," head coach Pat Tyne admitted that his team was "just over-powered" in a game which saw only two scorers for Cerritos. Sophomore Guy Haarlammert made three goals on eight attempts and Kim Bushong (both returning lettermen) was perfect with one goal on one attempt.

In their non-league defeat Tuesday Oct. 5, the Falcons were beaten by Saddleback, 4-3.

Coach Tyne attributed their defeat to "clumsiness and stupidity" as Cerritos managed to outshoot Saddleback 26-18, but connected too infrequently—losing in the outcome.

In this game, team captain and top scorer Haarlammert was only able to score once on ten tries and the Falcons soon had another defeat.

Women netters open '77 season with two losses

Women's volleyball team will be on the road this week, visiting Santa Ana College today and San Diego Mesa College Friday as they continue their first season in the South Coast Conference.

The ladies dropped their first two SCC matches last week, to Grossmont College, 0-3 (11-15, 6-15 and 10-15), last Wednesday (Oct. 5) and to Orange Coast College, 1-3 (16-14, 6-15, 13-15 and 7-15), Friday (Oct. 7).

"We played a lot better on Friday than we did against Grossmont," said Prindle. "We made them (Orange Coast) earn their victory."

Shelley Stewart (La Mirada) lead the Falcons in the first game Friday by serving six straight points and Robin Swichard was lauded by Prindle for her "good defensive performance."

"We played hard during the side-outs," Prindle explained, "but once we got the serve, the girls relaxed and made many mistakes, like being aced on the serve and letting balls drop in."

The Falcons are 0-2 in SCC competition and 1-3 overall.

Hamilton, McCredie 'players of the week'

Sophomore quarterback Kevin Hamilton and freshman defensive back Gary McCredie were named the Cerritos College "Offensive and Defensive Players of the Week" by the Falcon football coaching staff.

Hamilton completed 12-of-26 passes for 100 yards and lead all Cerritos rushers with 44 yards on 11 carries for a touchdown. Hamilton was under pressure all night by the fierce Pasadena pass rush.

McCredie played briefly in the 37-17 Falcon loss but impressed the Falcon staff in the secondary. He made some key tackles in the second half and helped limit PCC quarterback Sheldon Paris to 11 completions in 20 tries.

Each player is awarded complimentary tickets to the 1977 Junior Rose Bowl Game on Dec. 10 by the Cerritos College Bench Club.

Falcons fall 37-17, tackle Griff's next

By STEVE EAMES
TM Sports Editor

Cerritos ended its 1977 pre-season football schedule on a sour note Saturday night as they succumbed to the awesome Pasadena City College Lancers, 37-17, in Falcon Stadium.

The Falcons (1-3) will open their South Coast Conference competition this coming Saturday when they host the Grossmont College Griffins, who were trounced by Pasadena a week earlier, 55-0.

Pasadena, the third-ranked southland football squad behind top-ranked Fullerton (Cerritos' Oct. 22 Homecoming opponent) and Long Beach City College, was favored to win Saturday's contest hands-down.

They did not necessarily win in that fashion, however, as the Lancers, averaging 473 yards offense per game this year, were limited to 385 yards — 251 rushing and 113 passing — by a steadfast Falcon defense.

With the odds against them in this game, Falcon head coach Ernie Johnson shelved his team's conservative (but very productive) rushing offense and opted for a bold, big-play aerial attack.

Sophomore quarterback Kevin Hamilton (12-of-26 passes for 100 yards) came out throwing on Cerritos' first play from scrimmage and six of their next ten first-down situations in the first half, but connected on only one.

Hamilton, pressured by the Lancer's relentless front four, was injured on the first play but with reserve quarterback DuWayne Decker out with an ankle injury, Hamilton had to remain in the game. He completed just 4-of-13 passes in the first quarter.

Once again, as in last week's 27-7 victory over Cypress, Cerritos' performance was plagued by careless ballhandling and costly penalties.

The Falcons lost three fumbles to the Lancers and were penalized 102 yards on eight infractions. Against Cypress, the Falcons lost three fumbles in addition to 9 penalties for 106 yards.

After a scoreless first quarter in which each team displayed their impenetrable defensive coordination, Cerritos' frequent errors put the Lancers in an advantageous position which they quickly took advantage of.

During Pasadena's first possession of the second period, the Falcons were cited for two pass interference penalties. The first one took the Lancers from their 7 to the 49 and four plays later they received another "gift", good for 16 yards to the CCT. They converted this first-and-goal to seven points with a pitch to runningback James DeCuir for three yards and a touchdown. DeCuir gained 86 yards on 15 carries and three touchdowns for Pasadena.

On their next series, the Lancers were quickly forced into a punting situation, but a roughing-the-kicker penalty against the Falcons gave the Lancers a new lease on life and five plays later, a 14-0 lead, on Pasadena quarterback Sheldon Paris' one-yard keeper.

Cerritos narrowed the score to 14-3 on their next drive with a 34-yard field-goal by place-kicker Tom Martin. However, Pasadena countered immediately with a 23-yard field goal of their own for a 17-3 halftime lead.

Two Pasadena touchdowns early in the third quarter put the game out of the Falcon's reach, 31-3.

The Falcons, not about to be embarrassed by Pasadena like Grossmont was a week ago, saved face with touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters.

Their first TD came on runningback Ken Mardis' burst two yards up the middle after a 12-play, 72-yard drive and the second came with 34 seconds left in the game as Hamilton scored from 7 yards out on a bootleg for a final score of 37-17.

The Falcons showed superiority over their visitors from the moment the referee's whistle opened the game. The LACC defensive backs had their hands full attempting to stop the Falcon forward.

The domain the Falcons were enjoying was not reflected on the scoreboard until late in the first half when forward Bobby Rios surprised Los Angeles' goalie with a well aimed shot which put them ahead 1-0. Cerritos' goalie, Sergio Marquez sent a long shot into LACC territory to set up the play.

Three minutes after the Falcon's first goal, Rios missed a chance to score again when the LACC goalie deflected his shot to a corner kick.

This incident characterized the first half of the game for Cerritos who had countless opportunities to score against a submissive LACC defense but could capitalize on only one.

"We should've had three or four points by now," said second-year head coach DeJong a few minutes before the half.

After receiving added inspiration from DeJong during half-time, the Falcons returned to the field more confident of their superiority over LACC.

With the Falcon's obvious advantage, DeJong made quite a few substitutions in the second half.

"I wanted to see everybody play so I can know their capabilities on the field," said DeJong, "and also to be able to select the best players for the upcoming season."

The second half was characterized by the alternating domain of both teams. Cerritos was able to obtain another goal, however, when George Vellano scored with a shot that passed through the legs of LACC's goalie—increasing the Falcons lead to 2-0.

A few minutes before Cerritos' final goal, their substitute goalie, Victor Ulloa stopped an LACC penalty kick to protect their shut out. This was the second time this year that Ulloa has stopped a penalty kick. His first came against L.A. Harbor on Sept. 13.

"This was a good team effort," DeJong said after the victory, "but we're still trying to put all the pieces together to have a better team."

TALON MARKS Wednesday, Oct. 12, 1977 Page 6

Through the haze—clearly?

The state hazing code that potential fraternity and sorority members signed this week is quite specific in some areas, while not so explicit in others.

The code states, "Hazing includes any method of initiation into a student organization or any pastime or amusement engaged in with respect to such an organization which causes, or is likely to cause, bodily danger or physical harm to any student or other person attending any school, college, university or other educational institution in this State; but the term 'Hazing' does not include customary athletic events or other similar contests or competitions."

Apparently many fraternities and sororities on campus are taking a very broad interpretation of the latter part of that statement.

While the code does not specifically mention verbal or mental abuse, this is included in the definition of hazing.

Any group that violates the hazing code is open to prosecution by the state attorney general's office and possible expulsion of the club from the Cerritos campus.

Reports of several examples of "alleged violations" by organizations have drifted into the Talon Marks office.

All violations—or potential violations—are unnecessary and possibly dangerous. There is a definite possibility of exposure if violations occur ... or if some seeming violations continue.

The TM editorial board urges all club advisors and sponsors in charge of the various organizations to keep a closer eye on their various pledging activities held on and off the Cerritos campus.

If possible it is probably "advisable" to be around at night, when the questionable activities might take place.

The code goes on to mention that "any person who participates in the hazing of another, or any cooperation or association which knowingly permits hazing to be conducted by its members or by others subject to its direction or control, shall forfeit any entitlement to public funds, scholarships or awards which are enjoyed by him or by it and shall be deprived of any sanction or approval granted by any public educational institution or agency."

If you, or someone you know are aware of hazing code violations, better pass the word along to cool it ... before it gets back or somewhere else.

While fun and safe pledging activities are a part of the general campus life, hazing and other violations should not be tolerated.

They are an insult to the integrity of the campus.

By Robert W. Kastenmeier, M.C. (Wis.)

It was James Madison who said that "knowledge will forever govern ignorance. And a people who mean to be their own governors must arm themselves with the power that knowledge gives. A popular government without popular information, or the means of acquiring it, is but a prologue to a farce or a tragedy."

The framers of our Constitution saw an unfettered, vigorous press as essential to democracy. They recognized that if people are to delegate power to elected representatives, it is imperative that they have full confidence in those representatives. That confidence derives from knowledge, and that knowledge comes from the efforts of a press that should be beholden to no one but its public.

Thus, freedom of the press is inseparable from the right of the people to be told the truth, and if press freedom is allowed to weaken, the public and our democracy will be the victims. Although the function of providing a free flowing of information to the public is so vital that the Constitution protects it absolutely, it, perhaps, is not surprising that the most frequent obstacle to transmitting knowledge to the public has come from government. Fortunately, throughout our history, up to and including the most recent times, our system has rejected these threats.

The theme for this year's National Newspaper Week, "Freedom In Our Hands," is a most appropriate recognition of the solemn obligation which rests with the press, and, notwithstanding regular and often disquieting challenges to press freedom, the Founding Fathers, today would find the press, as they envisioned it, unfettered, vigorous and essential to democracy.

MIRRORING 10 YEARS AGO

Reflections on the way we are today

- Figures from the office of Admissions and Records revealed that 10,321 students enrolled in classes for the 1967-68 school year. The 8,100 part-time students and 4,221 full-time students represented a two per cent increase over the enrollment of 1966.

- Dr. Jack Mears was beginning his sixth year as president of Cerritos.

- The 1967 Leadership Conference was held at Erawan Garden Hotel in Palm Desert. Seventy-three students attended. The theme chosen for the year was "Year of the Falcon."

- The three-story classroom facility now known as the Social Science (SS) building was under construction and due for completion in Feb. 1968.

- History was recorded on Tuesday, Oct. 10, when a faculty member and a student were seated for the first time on the Board of Trustees.

- Credit by exam—receiving college credit in a course simply by passing an in-depth examination on the subject—was being considered.

- Art instructor Rudolph Aguirre displayed a collection of drawings he prepared while on sabbatical in Spain. Aguirre currently has drawings and watercolors on display in the Art Gallery that he again created while in Spain this summer. The exhibition is free of charge.

- The Falcon statue in the center of the quad was designed by then Art instructor Mel Woods and constructed by Welding instructor Oscar Hart. The structure, built as a memorial to the Financial Aid's ADAMS

Money matters minded by amiable Keith Adams

By PHYLLIS DAVENPORT
TM Assoc. News Editor

There were five of them in the Student Affairs office that afternoon between 3:05 and 3:10. Each had a confused look on their face, and a question on the tip of their tongue about financial aid.

A smiling man came from his office with a sense of composure that appeared to put everyone at ease.

"I don't see how he keeps from pulling his hair out," said a student sitting in the office, "but he is so patient with everybody."

Keith Adams, Coordinator of Financial Aids, answered each of the student's questions, took care of some business with his secretary and, still smiling, asked, "Where's the gal from 'Talon Marks'?"

Adams came to Cerritos six years ago. "It is the best move I ever made in my life," he said. Adams stated that the department started with $40,000 five years ago and has disbursed nearly one million dollars since then.

"I anticipate growth at about 10 per cent per year," he related. He attributes this growth to the increase of minority groups in the district and their need for financial help.

Born in Fort Wayne, Indiana, Adams came to California when he was 18 years old to play basketball for the College of the Sequoias in Visalia. Although he admitted that he sat on the bench most of the season, he was thrilled when his team became the state junior college champions.

After completing two years at the College of the Sequoias, he transferred to Fresno State where he acquired a bachelor of arts degree in industrial arts.

Adams, a man who believes people can always better themselves, earned a masters degree in industrial arts from Cal State Los Angeles. He also has counseling credentials from Pepperdine and secondary administration credentials from Whittier College.

Adams taught industrial arts for five years in Tulare and nine years at El Rancho High School in Pico Rivera. He also did some administrative work at El Rancho.

He is now working towards a doctorate in college.

"Most difficult for me is not the study, but the research projects called practicum," he said. These projects are formulated on the concept that the persons taking the course find ways to improve the institution they are connected with.

Already, one of his projects has helped people receive their financial aid payment on time. Another has shown peer counseling to be a very effective help for students.

Adams has been married for 23 years. He has a son who will be attending Cal State Los Angeles and a daughter who is a Cerritos freshman.

Although his schooling takes up a lot of his time, he enjoys skiing, going to Cerritos College home football games and family and camping.

Adams also finds the time to instruct a class here at Cerritos in the art of working with wood. "I enjoy working with my hands, and it gives me a change of pace," he remarked.

Adams finds his position as coordinator of financial aids "very exciting and challenging—no time to grow old."

He connects the department's success with the dedication of the people working outside his office. "They drive the whole thing," he said. "It is most gratifying to see people come to Cerritos who never would if it wasn't for the school's support of the Financial Aids program."

Names assigned to committee

An ad-hoc committee of 13 members to study counseling services at Cerritos has been appointed.

The committee includes faculty members Wendell Hanks and Jerry Shopfner; Counselors Bedal Diaz and Wayne Rew, counseling department; and Board of Trustees members Merl Doty, Leslie Nottingham and Kate Nordbak.

Administrators appointed were Dr. Robert Bos, Chairman of Counseling, Dean Paige, Director of Extended Day and Dr. Louis Wilson Division Chairman/Science, Engineering and Mathematics.

Students will be represented by Don Collins, Associated Students of Cerritos College (ASCC) president; Richard Goul, ASCC senator; and Mike Reed, president of Prosthetics and Orthotics Club.

The committee will meet Thursday, 7:30 p.m. in the office of Dr. Wilford Michael, President/Supervisor.

German films viewed

The "Confessions Of Felix Krull" and "Hokus-pocus," two German films, will be shown in the Board Room at 7 p.m. Friday.

"Hokus-pocus," starring Heinz Ruhman and Lil Pulver, a color film with ultra modern sets, is a murder mystery with intrigue and romance.

"Confessions" stars Horst Bucholtz and Lilo Pulver in a film adaptation of Thomas Mann's novel of suspense and humor.

Both films have English subtitles and are free to all ASCC members and faculty.
