

State budget cuts could bring fees to community colleges

By PAUL SIMON
TM Managing Editor

The initial concept of the community college was to help people further their educational skills at no cost. But due to recent state budget cuts, along with the lasting effects of Proposition 13, that concept is in serious danger.

Two weeks ago Sacramento informed all community colleges that "growth money," a vital part of all college budgets based on each school's ADA (average daily attendance), will no longer be available. Cerritos had an ADA increase of 3.8 percent this semester, but now will be funded for only a one percent increase, leaving the college responsible for making up the over $200,000 in lost revenues.

"At each of the last three legislative sessions somebody always brings up fees or tuition. The subject is stronger than ever now," said Cerritos President Dr. Wilfred Michael.

According to Cerritos Publications Director Paul Rubalcaba, the cutback leaves the college with an "uncertain financial future."

"We're going to have to dip into our reserves to make ends meet," stated

Rubalcaba. "The pressure is on the community colleges to charge a student fee."

Dr. Michael feels that the proposal goes back to the "father of tax cuts."

"After Proposition 13, income and revenues were supposed to go up, but that didn't happen," stated Michael. Rubalcaba also feels that Proposition 13 had a great deal to do with the recent state capitol cutback.

"Proposition 13 put the financial pressure on Sacramento and now Sacramento is putting the pressure back on the schools," he said.

Questions about tuition and/or fees recently arose at a forum held for Board of Trustees Candidates here at Cerritos. Out of the eight hopefuls, only one took a hard line stand against both. The others were all against tuition, but supported a modest fee only when it would be necessary to save classes from being cut out of the program.

When the tuition/fee idea has been discussed in the past, the estimated price is usually "$50 per semester," according to Michael.

When asked about the possible repercussions if a $50 fee were imposed Michael said, "we can only estimate, but it (enrollment) would probably drop at first."

Dr. Michael also used community colleges in the eastern United States as an example, saying that when they imposed a fee, enrollment dropped slightly at first, but then continued upward at a normal rate.

Also Michael feels that a fee "will hurt the middle income people more because people with low income can get financial aid."

When asked if recent figures showing a low number of transfers from community colleges to four year schools had anything to do with sudden talks of tuition, Michael said, "community colleges have many functions, one is to transfer students, another is to provide occupational education. So this is not one of the main reasons for a fee."

"Each year we're dropping back (financially) a little," Michael said. "We're going to have to come up with the money somewhere."

And again both Michael and Rubalcaba feel that a fee is the only answer.

"If you don't get it that way (fees), you'll have to get it from taxes or something, and today people are anti-tax," commented Michael.

New faces join Board December 2

By IRENE COELHO
TM Assoc. News Editor

Newcomers Bob Epple and Ada Steenhoek, and incumbent Hazel Scotto bested the field of eight candidates competing for the Cerritos College Board of Trustees election held Tues., Nov. 3.

Current seat holders Louise Hastings, board president, and eight year board member, and Chuck Fuentes of Cerritos did not seek re-election.

Scotto of Downey was the only incumbent seeking a second term. Scotto replaced Merl Doty when Doty resigned during his term last December.

The college district which covers the cities of Artesia, Bellflower, Cerritos, Downey, Hawaiian Gardens, La Mirada, Lakewood, Long Beach, Norwalk, and South Gate encompasses approximately 149,267 voters.

Seven percent of the voters, or 10,752, turned out for the election.

Five hours from the poll's closing time of 7:30 p.m., the final results reached the board room.

Top vote-getter receiving 4,991 votes was Epple, an attorney and tax consultant in Lakewood.

Epple previously ran for a board seat in the 1979 election but finished fourth.

Scotto, the incumbent, surfaced with a strong second capturing 4,779 votes.

Scotto was also former mayor of Downey in 1976 and served on the

KCEB radio back on Falcon airwaves

By KAREN daSILVA
TM Staff Writer

Beginning last Monday morning at 9:00 sharp, the sounds of music were once again heard drifting across the Falcon airwaves via the campus radio station, KCEB (Cerritos Educational Broadcasting).

The Cerritos College radio station that was discontinued last Spring because of "equipment problems," started a new life as it piped itself into the campus cafeteria, bookstore, cosmetology department, Student Activities and Student Center.

The format of KCEB's daily schedule, which will run 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Monday through Friday, is basically the same as before.

Music, news and interviews will continue throughout the day with the current popular hits broadcasted between the hours of 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. when most students will be in the area of one of the station's outlets.

The most significant change according to Station Manager Mrs. A.J. Bock will be the emphasis on campus news. "We hope to make it a more viable station to Cerritos College students."

The attempt to interest students in the radio station will include senate happenings, elections, sports, and others.

Another effort in reaching the students will be the possibility of transmitting KCEB anywhere on campus through transistor radios.

According to Bock, the system would have a frequency high enough for KCEB to come through on a designated station.

Go's Go's may go at Cerritos soon

Los Angeles' pop princesses, the Go-Go's, may be soon playing for the students of Cerritos College.

Negotiations presently are under way to bring the all-girl band to the Student Center for a night concert. Admission will be charged, but the amount has yet to be determined.

The negotiations are presently stalled while the parties discuss the amount of money to be paid to the band. According to officials at Student Activities, the odds are about 80-20 in favor of the band being on campus sometime this semester.

The Go-Go's started back in 1977 at the beginning of the Los Angeles

CC Board approves education revision

By IRENE COELHO
Assoc. News Editor

A preliminary list revising the General Education requirements for community colleges in conjunction with the California State University System was unanimously approved by the Board of Trustees at the Wednesday, Nov. 4 meeting.

The preliminary list of courses which the college believes will meet the CSU requirements was sent in Nov. 15 to the Chancellor's Office of CSU for approval.

Courses meeting the requirements have been reorganized into A through E areas rather than the previously known A through F areas. Also only 39 general education units rather than 40 units.

Areas are broken down to Communications which includes written and oral communications as well as critical thinking — Natural Sciences and Mathematical Concepts, Humanities and Fine Arts, Social Sciences, and Self Development courses.

New courses that may be required include Philosophy 5 or Speech 3 as Critical Thinking, Administration of Justice 1 under the Social Studies, and under the Self Development Area, Physical Education 30 (Fitness Academy).

These changes when finalized will apply to the Fall 1982 students who enroll either at a CSU campus or who plan to transfer to a California State University.

All 19 CSU campuses will be included in these requirements.

According to Olive Scott, Vice President of Instruction, the college is currently "negotiating our requirements."

The final list will be turned into the CSU Chancellor's office on or before April 1.

In other board comments, Katie Nordbak and Chuck Fuentes congratulated Phillip Westin on the classical concert series entitled "Music Odyssey." Westin was also highly acclaimed by other board members.

Bloomfield book published autograph party Dec. 1

By BRENDA DOYLE
TM Campus Editor

Cerritos College Assistant Dean of Academic Affairs Dr. Ed Bloomfield has completed his first book, "The Opposition To The English Separatists, 1570-1625" which was released to the public on Oct. 1.

"Several books have been written on every aspect of early Anglican and Puritan history and thought," stated Bloomfield, "but no-one has ever written a book in opposition to the Separatists."

The 191 page book which was published by University Press of America took a decade to write. Bloomfield said, "It began 10 years ago and has been a periodic thing until now." Research was done at Harvard, Claremont, Huntington Library and even the British Library in London. His most recent trips to London were in 1976 and 1977. Bloomfield commented, "It was really hard work using the library method of research to do it."

Dr. Bloomfield, a native of Southern California was a graduate of Excelsior High School in Norwalk. He went on to receive his B.A. from Whittier College in the fields of History, Philosophy, and Religion. From there he went on as a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Award winner to Harvard Divinity School, then to Claremont Graduate School to get his Masters in Philosophy. He also received his Ph.D. from Claremont.

When asked what inspired him to write a book Bloomfield answered, "I have always loved words. I feel writing is an exercise in thinking." He continued, "I have always been interested in English History and Philosophy as long as I can remember."

There are no plans as of yet for the book to be used as a classroom textbook but if it is it would be in "upperclass graduate work," says Bloomfield.

3 arrested on battery counts

College security officers treated for minor injuries

By KIMBERLY BEAUDRY
TM News Editor

Three men were arrested by the Norwalk Sheriff's Station on battery charges after a confrontation with three Cerritos College Campus Security Officers following Saturday night's football game.

According to Norwalk police officials, the suspects have been identified as Clifford Wayne Lewis, 23; Roy Sidney Lewis, 42; and Roy Sidney Lewis Jr., 19, all black males.

The official police report states the incident arose when the three suspects went on to the playing field before the game had ended. They were informed by Campus Security Officer Stephen Davenport to leave the field, or obtain a field pass.

The suspects reacted to Davenport's requests with profanity and physical threats, and then proceeded to leave. After radioing for assistance, Davenport pursued the men for questioning. Officers David Sossman and James Webb were dispatched to the scene.

By this time the game had ended, and the suspects disappeared into the crowd. Officer Sossman noticed the men getting into a car parked in the C-1 lot and approached them.

The report states Clifford Lewis challenged Sossman to fight. Sossman proceeded to "frisk" Clifford, but was approached by the two remaining suspects. When he turned around to confront the two men, Clifford knocked Sossman to his knees, and all three suspects allegedly began kicking and beating on him.

According to acting Campus Security Coordinator Rick Huebner, "reinforcements could not get through because of the crowd." (Huebner is currently filling the Coordinator post previously held by Don Ball. Ball has left Cerritos for a position as Security Manager at Print Ronix, a computer firm.)

The police report states approximately 200 people were gathered, watching the incident. "(Clifford) Lewis attempted to get the crowd incited," Norwalk police said.

"Initially there were three (suspects) fighting against one (officer)" commented Huebner.

Officers Webb and Davenport arrived at the scene where, the report states that Webb was assaulted by Roy Lewis.

CONSIDERS LAWSUIT

Georgianna flyers sent after election

By WAYNE WURZER
TM Editor In Chief

ASCC Student Body President Craig Georgianna, fresh off a losing battle against seven candidates in the college Board of Trustees election, may be in for a much tougher battle with a much more formidable opponent — the United States Federal Government.

Georgianna is considering a law suit against the Downey Post Office on Lakewood Blvd. for delivering 7,000 election publicity flyers on Nov. 5 — two days after the election.

Georgianna claims he took the 7,000 flyers, all sorted into their respective zip codes and cities, to the Post Office on Oct. 27 with the understanding that they would be delivered within the next few days.

"I made sure they knew it was election material," commented Georgianna.

He previously had 7,000 flyers delivered the day after they were dropped off at the post office. Some 3500 flyers were delivered on Oct. 26 after being taken down to the office on Oct. 25. He received the same prompt service earlier in the month when another 3,500 flyers were delivered the day after they were turned in.

"I want my money back for the mailing cost of the 7,000 flyers. I feel like I've paid for a service that I didn't receive," said Georgianna.

The mailing cost of the flyers was 8.8 cents, a bulk rate. Each flyer cost 14 cents.

New Board shares common outlook

By IRENE COELHO
Assoc. News Editor

Top victor in the race for the board seats was tax consultant and attorney in Lakewood Robert Epple.

Epple previously ran for a seat in 1979 and was the fifth place winner for the four seat election.

As a neighbor, former student and former classified employee, Epple decided to run because "I feel the community college system is important because it helped me get where I am today."

"I want to give back a little of what I got," added Epple.

The newly elected board member stated he would like to avoid tuition. "In reality, we are going to have to work on some sort of fee. My goal is to see that it doesn't hurt the person who can't afford it or needs the education."

"There is a great desire by the district itself to have no tuition."

— Ada Steenhoek

The incumbent Hazel Scotto, a homemaker and former mayor of Downey, received the second highest votes.

She has served on many committees and organizations including such as the president of the League of Women Voters, Committee on Aging in Downey, League of California Cities, Southeast Animal Control Authority Commission, United Way Corporate Council, etc.

Perhaps the more important committees she has served on concerning Cerritos College were Civic Responsibility Committee which sponsored last year's Energy Fair, Chairman of Transportation, and Arts Council (killed by Proposition 13).

Scotto has worked closely with the Community Services prior to her appointment to the board last December.

Scotto was asked by last year's board president Kate Nordbak to serve on the body when member Merl Doty resigned last November. "Because I feel strongly about the importance of education, I decided to accept," said Scotto.

Asked why she ran for a second term, she answered that after she felt "I was needed, I ran."

"You never really know how an election turns out" but running a low cost campaign, she won the race.

Scotto would like to work more with business to supplement revenue and other avenues to find programs. She also added she would like to work with the faculty, community and people in finding answers for Cerritos College.

"I have strong feelings for all facades of academics" concluded Hazel Scotto.

Ada Steenhoek of Downey is a Special Education teacher in Bellflower and the winner of the third seat on the Board of Trustees.

With no political experience (excluding a run in 1976 for the Downey School Board), Steenhoek decided to run because of a concern that there wouldn't be any educators on the body.

Steenhoek has a son who graduated from Cerritos, and one son currently in attendance. She is currently working on her doctorate degree at the University of La Verne in Pomona.

"I realized the responsibility of the board a reality," said Steenhoek about her reaction on election night.

Steenhoek is against tuition for community colleges. But she added "If you can't keep the community college as it is today, a fee would be appropriate."

"There is a great desire by the district itself to have no tuition," noted the newly elected board member.

"If we use the right techniques, we could get more money. I would like to meet with other college boards so we could form a voting group."

'Aux Petits Delices' — New French restaurant on campus

By PAM MERGEN
Assoc. News Editor

Cerritos College Food Services students debated their own French restaurant - "Aux Petits Delices" on Nov. 12.

The restaurant features a variety of French delicacies such as, "Escargots Bourguignonne" (snails in garlic butter), "Boeuf Bourguignonne" (cubes of beef in a mushroom and wine sauce), "Bouillabaisse a la Marseillaise" (lobster, crab, shrimp, and scallops in a saffron court bouillon), and a number of other hors d'oeuvres, soups, salads, entrees, beverages and desserts.

The prices of the cuisine are low, ranging from 50¢ to $5.

According to Chef Tom Back, director of the Food Services program, the restaurant was completely constructed, organized and is operated by the students.

"At the beginning of the semester, the students formed committees to do specific preparations, such as putting together the menu and selecting an interior design for the restaurant that would give it a French atmosphere," states Back.

Chef Back has a great deal of experience in the cooking business, having worked as a chef in some of California's better restaurants and country clubs where he won several awards for his efforts.

He became a part of the Cerritos Food Services program 12 years ago when he "decided I wanted to do something different with my life."

Back oversaw last semester's "Falcon Flight" restaurant whose success provided the inspiration for "Aux Petits Delices."

The success of the "Falcon Flight" also provided the department with a $5,000 grant from the Vocational Education Act (VEA), to finance the French restaurant and allow for the reasonable menu prices.

Back feels that the food served at

"Aux Petits Delices" "is of better quality than 90% of the commercial French restaurants."

Students enrolled in chef-training classes do all the cooking and use "only the highest quality ingredients" in their recipes.

The desserts are prepared by Rudy Rosier, pastry chef and commercial baking student.

"Aux Petits Delices" is located in back of the Student Center and is open for lunch from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The restaurant has a 65-70 person occupancy and is decorated with hanging plants and wall murals painted by Mel Woods, Cerritos art instructor.

The restaurant was originally scheduled to be open only until Nov. 25, but because of its success, Back estimates its doors will be open until Christmas vacation.

Future plans for Oriental and Mexican restaurants are in the works to be opened next year.

COMMUNITY SERVICES

Official opening for new center

By BRENDA DOYLE
TM Campus Editor
Cerritos College Board of Trustees President Louise Hastings made it official.

Carrying a 5-foot long pair of scissors she cut the ribbon to the main entrance of the new Cerritos College Community Services Center to officially open the new facility to the public on Thursday, Nov. 5, 1981.

Nearly 200 guests attended the formal ribbon ceremony and luncheon. The new long needed building will serve more than 21,000 community residents during 1981-82.

The center is located between the Health Sciences and Auto Technology Buildings on the southwest corner of the campus. It was constructed on .93 acres of land and cost less than $800,000. The former center was located in the administrative quad.

The 9,000 square feet of facility house several offices, classrooms, conference rooms, multi-purpose rooms, full kitchen, storage, work rooms and restrooms. It also includes covered patios and landscaping.

Designed by Corwin & Way Architects of Covina, the new structure is the final result of a long wait. Proposed plans for a larger facility, which included an auditorium, were scrapped in the mid-seventies after Proposition 13 was passed. At this time the colleges Community Services program became self-supported and they began setting aside funds to construct the present center. Following a decade of planning, the new facility will be the permanent home of the program under the direction of Nello Di Corpo, Dean of Community Services.

The event, sponsored by the Cerritos College Foundation coincided with an earlier 25th Anniversary Time Capsule presentation. Rockwell International presented the college with a unique time capsule last year to be filled with memorabilia from Cerritos first 25 years. The capsule will be pressurized and sealed by Rockwell, and will be on display in the college library. It will remain there for at least 25 more years when it will be re-opened.

One of the items placed in the capsule was a videotape of the events commemorating the colleges 25th Anniversary Celebration. The college received a 400 pound bell from the U.S.S. Pelias on Dec. 7, 1980. The Pelias is the WWII submarine tender believed to be the only vessel at Pearl Harbor that did not take on enemy gunfire.

Also placed in the capsule was a tomkin from the U.S.S. Arizona, which was retrieved by the Pelias crew after the famous ship was sunk.

Other items include a model of the space shuttle Columbia, programs, newspapers and special publications honoring Cerritos 25th year, and a videotape of the space shuttle launch and landing that took place during Cerritos Silver Anniversary.

The Community Services Center offers classes to children, adults and professionals. This new facility is much more "convenient" due to its larger size.

... Board election

Former Director of Public Information and part-time instructor at Cerritos College, Jay Malinowski placed seventh with only 74 votes separating him from sixth place.

Trailing in the election was Leon Rubalcaba, a retired postal supervisor, receiving approximately 5% of the total votes bringing his total to 1375 votes.

Steenhoek is an elementary school teacher from Bellflower where she has taught for eight years.

Morris, a Paramount administrator and Downey commissioner, isolated his fourth place position from the third and fifth places with 3,441 votes casted in his favor.

Business management specialist, George Medina of Cerritos received fifth place, but was closely followed by the self-employed investor Craig Georgianna, current ASCC President.

Georgianna, a first-time candidate for a public elected office, received 2484 votes.

KCEB

This possibility which could be available by Spring semester will be confirmed in about two weeks.

Changes, however, are occurring within the station's management as well.

"Some students took advantage of the situation," revealed Bock who has voluntarily contributed her time to the Falcon radio station ever since its conception about eight years ago by her husband, Dr. Frank Bock.

"We needed to tighten things up," he commented.

One of the major changes is that KCEB is now separate from the Theatre 42 radio broadcasting class. Previously the two had coincided.

Students can still earn lab credit towards Theatre 42 by broadcasting on the campus station, but it is not an official part of the class.

Most of the 16 students who will be heard on the air across campus were involved with KCEB before its temporary shutdown.

of the Downey Firestone office was not familiar with the situation due to the fact that he did not work during that time period.

Brooks commented that if the material was mailed from a Downey post office to Downey residents, it should have been mailed out quickly, "especially if it was election material."

He added that if that was the case and Georgianna took the material to the office with enough time allowed before the election, he would probably be refunded his money.

According to Georgianna, a Downey post office official told him that nothing would be done regarding the late delivery.

He said he was also informed by a city official that if his election material went out late beyond his control, it technically could be grounds for voiding the election.

"I wasn't close enough for a re-election and it wouldn't be fair to the people who won; it's not their fault punk scene. Lead singer Belinda Carlisle and guitarist Jane Weiden started the band as a joke, but soon after became a favorite of the Los Angeles new music scene.

The band didn't stop. From there, they went on tour with English ska band, The Specials. They released their first single on England's Stiff records label.

The single "We Got The Beat" b/w "How Much More" sold tremendously well as an import.

The band began to take offers from American record companies and wound up on I.R.S., an affiliate of A&M.

They released a single, "Our Lips are Sealed," which is still rising in the single charts, and the album has done amazingly well for a group of girls and for a debut album on a small label.

The band recently finished an American tour and sold out the Greek Theatre three consecutive nights.

EL SALVADOR FILM

The Committee in Solidarity with the People of El Salvador will show a documentary on Tuesday, Nov. 24, in Lecture Hall 4 from 11 a.m. - 12 p.m.

The film, "Seeds of Liberty," is dedicated to the North American nuns and laymen who were brutally killed in El Salvador by government troops.

that the post office didn't deliver my mail on time," said Georgianna.

The 26-year-old business major finished sixth in Board race with 2,484 votes to his credit, to wind up behind the eventual winners Bob Epple (4,991), Hazel Scotto (4,779) and Ada Steenhoek (4,401).

Georgianna has written two certified letters to the postmaster in Washington to find out what can be done about the situation, but has yet to receive a reply.

"One of the letters has been signed for, so I know it's been received," he commented, ending speculation that the letters may have not been delivered yet.

"If I don't get a reply by the end of the week, I'll file a law suit, suing for the cost of the flyers and all court costs," he elaborated.

Any law suit against a branch of the US government must go directly to the federal courts where the case will be heard by a judge.

"I hope it can be resolved without going to court," concluded Georgianna.

Birds fall short in playoff drive

By DARREN HINSLEY
TM Staff Writer

The Cerritos team reaction was much the same as a child who was just told that there is no Santa Claus and there will be no Christmas. Well, yes Virginia there is a Santa Claus but there will be no South Coast Championship or even a playoff berth for the Cerritos soccer team in 1981.

The Fullerton Hornets saw to that with a physical 1-0 win over the Falcons in the regular season finale for both schools. Cerritos needed a win going into the contest to clinch a playoff spot, but fell short.

A playoff spot looked to be a sure thing two weeks ago when the Falcons were supporting 5-1-2 record and tied for first. But, then the breaks started going against Cerritos as the season entered its final stages.

Perhaps the worst break of them all was the one suffered by Gary Grow on his collar bone with four games remaining. In the final four games without Grow the Falcons failed to win a game, going 0-2-2. "Gary was a key to this team," said coach Mike Shimpoek, "he's an excellent player and was impossible to replace. The team wasn't able to replace him mentally or physically."

The Falcons suffered a number of injuries down the stretch which hampered their chances, but Shimpoek wasn't willing to use them as excuses. "Injuries are a part of the game and all teams have to deal with them. We should have been able to win despite them all, but we're young and we'll have a lot of players returning next year."

Alex Ha, Ricky Hernandez and Javier Gracian, three players who helped Cerritos jump out to a quick start played their last game in a Falcon uniform against Fullerton, a game Shimpoek and the Falcons thought they should have won.

Cerritos was successful in the first half, moving the ball at will against the Hornets. Mark Wiggins had a chance to get the Falcons out in front, on two different occasions but had one shot ring off the crossbar and another head shot go just over the bar, before Fullerton won it the second half on a penalty shot.

Despite all that there will be a Christmas in 1981. Unfortunately, the soccer team will be home in plenty of time for it.

Falcon runners move to State

First x-country team in CC history to earn State bid

By KAREN da SILVA

The Cerritos College women's cross-country team seemed to have been predestined to become the first in Falcon history to compete in the State Championships, after they narrowly escaped postseason elimination in Saturday's Southern California Finals.

Good graces smiled favorably on the women runners as they managed a fifth place finish despite their worst performance of the season and the last team spot to qualify for State competition this coming weekend.

Finishing ahead of the Birds to round out the top five teams to advance to State were in order: Orange Coast with 41 points, Grossmont with 47 points, El Camino with 55 points, and Santa Ana with 122 points.

The first three finishers were no surprise as Orange Coast, Grossmont, and El Camino maintained the dominance they have had in So. Cal competition over the past three years.

Santa Ana, however, remains a surprise in post-season races after two weeks ago pulling an upset over Fullerton and Mt. SAC to qualify for So. Cal, and Saturday nosing out the Falcons for the first time this year by nine points.

All four South Coast Conference x-country squads competing (Orange Coast, Grossmont, Santa Ana, and Cerritos) advanced to the State Championships.

Santa Ana's victory over Cerritos could have been even more bitter-sweet if sixth place L.A. Harbor's number three runner had shown as expected. This would have enabled Harbor at least a fifth place finish, possibly a fourth and the S.A. Dons would have edged out the Falcons for State.

But a watchful eye was kept on the Birds and they continue to run in post-season play going down in the Falcon history books as the first team to earn a place in the x-country State Championships.

How does Coach Gary Gaudet feel about the team?

"I thought we would make it this far after our first race," he claimed.

"I think that this team has come a long way considering there is only one real x-country runner," he said in reference to Penny Miller. "The rest of the team are half milers (Julie Tison and Denise Rodriguez), quarter milers (Cathy Ledesma and Loretta Jordan), a softball player (Tina Luque), and tennis player (Karen da Silva)," he continued.

Their chances at Fresno, the site of the State Championships?

"A realistic goal for us will be to place sixth or better." Ten teams will compete, five from Southern California and five from northern California. Gaudet also mentioned that he hopes to get revenge on Santa Ana.

The entire field in the So. Cal Championships consisting of ten teams and 61 women ran a relatively slow pace on the 3.1 mile course at Bonelli Park.

Freshman Penny Miller was again the first finisher for the Birds. Miller ran her slowest race of the year in the

Falcons gun down GW Rustlers, 20-12

By KEITH SHARON
TM Assoc. Editor

Saturday the Cerritos Falcons played the role of a sheriff in the old west and lassoed the Golden West Rustlers 20-12, moving one step closer to a post season bid in the newly named (formerly Avacado) Pony Bowl.

The win: — Gives Cerritos a 4-1 mark in the South Coast Conference and an 8-1 overall record.

— Keeps the Falcons in a three-way deadlock with Fullerton and San Diego Mesa for the top spot in the SCC.

— Sets up a conference title showdown with long time SCC rival Fullerton on the final night of the regular season (Saturday Nov. 28 at 7:30).

— Assures Cerritos an inside track to the Pony Bowl. A win over Fullerton puts the Birds in the post season classic against the Mission Conference champion at Falcon Field.

COME FROM BEHIND
Last Saturday night the Southland's third rated Falcons suffered through a poor showing in the first half and came from behind, for the fifth time this season, with a strong second half performance.

"You have to take a few chances early," said Falcon head coach Frank Mazzotta, "and we took a few chances and didn't hit on them. From there we couldn't get the ball back, so the chances that we took hurt us."

Early on, it was all Rustlers as Golden West passed on nearly every down. Quarterback Sam Aiello tore apart the Falcon secondary for 33 of 57 attempts and 345 yards (189 in the first half). The Rustlers used the same pass play in passing situations the entire night, taking advantage of the Cerritos linebackers and defensive backs in the middle of their zone defense.

"They run a little read pass," Mazzotta explained, "they slant inside, fake a run at the linebacker to hold him. The minute he goes to cover the slant they dump the ball underneath. Our linebackers were kind of damned if they did and damned if they didn't."

SCORELESS FIRST QUARTER
After a scoreless first quarter, Golden West got on the board first early in the second quarter. Aiello completed four of four for 53 yards moving his squad deftly from their own 30 and teamed up with running back Todd Elliot for a four yard scoring toss. The PAT was wide right making the score 6-0.

The Rustlers made it 12-0 when linebacker John Alvarez stepped in front of a Mickey Corwin pass and raced 55 yards down the right sideline for what would be Golden West's final touchdown.

The Rustlers failed to capitalize on scoring opportunities throughout the game. This factor allowed Cerritos to stay close and gave the Falcon offense time to get untracked.

Cerritos safety Fick Rabune put a stop to two Golden West drives with interceptions in the Falcon end zone. And referees nullified two Rustler touchdowns, one a 37 yard pass play and the other a four yard run.

"They're known for holding and stuff like that," said Mazzotta. "I thought it was a well-called ball game. That kind of play is typical of those guys."

WELCH SPARKS RALLY
Kick-off return specialist Herb Welch threw a spark into the Falcons, when he took a kick with 1:03 remaining in the first half and rambled 56 yards. With the ball at the 40 Corwin hit on his next three passes in a row and found split end Bill Fickinger open in the endzone for a six yard TD pass.

The game winning touchdown came early in the third quarter. Falcon strong safety Bobby Blandino had just busted up a fourth and one Golden West sweep giving the Birds a tremendous boost.

BIRDS CAPITALIZE

The momentum never had a chance to die as five plays later tailback Steve Johnson broke loose on a draw play and scooted 20 yards untouched to pay dirt.

Cerritos capped the scoring late in the third period when Corwin lifted a beautiful alley-oop spiral to wide-receiver Ron Hill who made an over-the-shoulder diving catch in the corner of the end zone. The big play of the drive came when Corwin found tightend Bill Bergiadis down the middle for 30 yards and a first down.

With the score 20-12 the Cerritos defense had only to hang on, which they did.

Spikers lose to champs; battle for a playoff spot

By JEFF MARIFIAN
TM Staff Writer

With Cerritos holding a slim one game lead and only two weeks left in the regular season, the Falcon spikers ran into some bad luck and a red hot defending state champion Orange Coast team while dropping a match played at Coast.

The loss, played on "Friday the 13th," was the first conference defeat of the year suffered by the Birds. This leaves the Falcons tied for first with O.C.C. with only two games left. The Falcons host Mt. Sac. tonight at 7 o'clock and wind up the season at Grossmont Friday night. The Birds now sport a 13-3 overall mark, while 9-1 in league.

Cerritos had run their record to 9-0 with victories over Saddleback and Santa Ana the week previous to the showdown with the Pirates.

The victory over Saddleback (6-15, 15-9, 15-5, 15-3), saw the Birds battle back after dropping the first game to win the next three by a combined 45-17 score.

"We got stronger as the match progressed as Lori Robarge and Alecia Bremer sparked the offense," said coach Jeanine Prindle. At one point in the fourth game Nancy Welliver and Gigi Alpenia combined to serve for 13 straight points.

Santa Ana didn't prove to be much of a match either as the Birds "put it all together" in trouncing the Dons 15-3, 15-8, and 15-5. Prindle was very pleased with the offense noting several players. "We passed very well especially Lori Robarge. Gigi Alpenia and Evelyn Kim did an excellent job running the offense, and Alecia Brener and Nancy Vanderpool were the top hitters for the night," she added.

The Falcons then took on the number one ranked team in Southern California, Golden West in a non-conference match. In this contest it was the Falcon defense which had problems getting untracked allowing West to get away with a four game win. The scores were 9-15, 16-14, 8-15, and 6-15.

The Birds traveled to Orange Coast in what was to be a showdown for the title. After starting out in the hole down 6-0 in the first game it was all downhill for Cerritos as they took it on the chin three straight games.

"We started the match very tentative and fell behind in the first game. We just never regained our composure and struggled trying to play consistent," said the coach following the 15-3, 15-8, 15-8 loss. Had Cerritos won the match they would have been all alone in first, but now have to win these two games this week to force a playoff with Orange Coast which would be played at a neutral site.

Prindle summed it up saying "Orange Coast played well but we played an all-around poor match-passing, setting, hitting, and blocking. Unfortunately, this was our worst performance all year." And it had to come on Friday the 13th.

Matmen open play with El Camino win

By GARY WALKER
TM Staff Writer

Friday the 13th was up to its old tricks again.

What started out as an easy night for the Falcon wrestlers nearly became a nightmare in their opening pre-game meet of the year.

Bob Clark started things off with an exciting last second win in the 121 lb. class.

Sophomore Ron Anaya followed with a convincing 23-12 decision over Jeff Blackshear.

Suddenly things went bad for Cerritos.

The visiting El Camino Warriors rebounded to win the next four matches to take a 13-7 team lead.

Enter Ken Battle and Phil Dunford.

Battle got things going again by pinning his foe in the first round, a mere 1:45 after the opening whistle.

Not to be outdone, Dunford duplicated the feat, this time only 1:08 into the round.

Pat Burns followed with a decision and after El Camino forfeited the heavyweight class, Cerritos had a 28-13 victory.

The Falcon matmen will try to up their record to 2-0 November 19th in the Cerritos Gym against Rio Hondo.

The Cerritos x-country squad, who finished fifth on the day, was the first ever to advance to the State Championships.

Unsung 'Lurking'

It is time to pay homage to an unsung hero at the first Thanksgiving. While Indians and Pilgrims were making plans for the feast, one brave warrior was chosen to hunt the meat for the table.

He ventured into the dense forest, thinking of the fine deer or wild pig he would take back to the village.

A movement to his right! He listened, waited. His keen eyes searching the brush.

Another movement! Low to the ground—surely a wild pig. He drew an arrow from his quill and readied his bow.

He let go his arrow, straight and true.

He had it! He ran swiftly to retrieve his catch.

A turkey! He couldn't return with such a lowly catch. Even the squaws would laugh at his getting such a stupid bird.

The forest was full of game. He left the turkey and went on.

He searched for hours. To no avail. Not even a tiny rabbit could he find.

"I must bring back something," he thought. To return empty-handed would be worse shame than to return with a turkey.

Dejected, he slung the bird over his shoulder and walked slowly back to the village.

Everyone came to meet him. To the bewilderment of the Pilgrims, the Indians began to laugh and point.

It was then the phrase, "You turkey!" was first heard.

The tribe began to dance around him. The Pilgrims asked what type of dance this was. The "Turkey Trot"—later to be made famous in Busby Berkeley movies.

As we gather around our Thanksgiving dinners this year, give a silent thought to this young brave known as "Turkey Lurking."

Or, as Henny Penny called him, "Turkey Lurkey."

You might want to sample some of that long-ago hunter's game in the Cafeteria Tuesday and Wednesday at noon next week.

Clapp ends abrupt two day 'retirement'

By WAYNE WURZER
TM Editor in Chief

After shocking the Student Activities office with his resignation on Thursday, Ken Clapp is back on the job as Commissioner of Extended Day.

"Ken Clapp will be kicked around for awhile still," reported Clapp Monday after meeting with ASCC Student Body President Craig Georgianna.

"I didn't think the people were responding (campus clubs and organizations) to what we were doing," commented Clapp when asked why he resigned.

Asked why he suddenly changed his mind and returned Clapp said, "Craig Georgianna."

"Craig assured me I was doing a good job, which helped," explained the second year Executive Cabinet member.

"His resignation blew us away," commented Georgianna on Friday.

"I don't even have the foggiest idea why," he went on to say.

The news of the resignation came Thursday when Clapp handed in a formal letter to Georgianna that read: "Thank you for the privilege of servicing the night students, but due to my personal schedule, I am unable to serve as of Nov. 12. I resign my post as Commissioner of Extended Day."

Clapp has been instrumental in bringing activities to the night students of Cerritos College.

Rap night, club booth night and night pep rallies are some of the projects that he has orchestrated over the last two and a half semesters.

Beetles not camper's bag

By KIMBERLY BEAUDRY

The word "camping" will always bring back certain memories to me. I remember the first time I ever tackled the wilderness. I was 14.

My family was never really "into" camping. We all enjoyed something a little more "civilized," like a weekend up in the mountains in a nice, spacious cabin.

I definitely had nothing against camping; I just didn't relish the idea of being anywhere without hot water or a blow dryer. But one day, out of

Bio prof Boyle — Man on the run

By ROBIN NELSON
and JEANNETTE NOCEDA

He looks like a young man on the run.

The fact is, Biology Department Chairman John Boyle does run a lot, and it makes him look a lot younger than his 38 years.

Boyle, who runs 10 miles a day while in training and seven on a regular basis, is now preparing for his 30th marathon. "I finish them, but they finish me too," he joked.

The 26.2 mile event, in which he will be a participant, is scheduled to be held in Newport Beach next month.

Boyle took up running some years ago, and has made it an integral part of his life.

When he first started he says, "I made the same mistakes a lot of people make their first time out."

"I started out too fast."

"Start out slowly, be patient, and stay in top shape," is what the biology professor suggests to beginning runners.

Boyle has yet to place highly in any of his previous marathons, but he says he feels he has a "good chance" to place in the Newport run.

Besides running, Boyle also enjoys camping and backpacking.

The Sierra Mountains and Catalina Island are his two favorite areas to go.

On a recent hike on Catalina, Boyle, along with his daughter

Jamie (who was 10 at the time) and a friend of theirs, had quite a "frightening experience." It seems because of the topography of the island, they found themselves walking through the middle of a wild buffalo herd.

"It was nerve wracking" he recalled.

Boyle joined the staff in 1973-74 and says he feels there is "an excellent atmosphere for teaching here."

His interest in biology came after he had a bio class with an "excellent teacher" who inspired him to continue his education in the field.

He met the instructor at Pasadena which was where he went his first two years of college. He then moved on to the University of Santa Barbara where he finished his degree and received his masters.

He has been married for 14 years and has two children, a daughter Jamie, 11 and a son Kelly, 5.

Boyle, has also done some coaching in football. He began his coaching career at a high school in San Diego, then went on to the freshman team at UCSB. He also coached four seasons at an Arcadia high school.

Boyle stays in shape for his coaching by running with a special group of approximately 30 members of the Long Beach YMCA.

He says they all run "different distances," according to their ability. As far as being an instructor goes,

Boyle says, "I enjoy teaching very much" and says he feels "the students faculty, and Board of Trustees relationships at Cerritos College are all very good."

And that's no run-around.

Taylor's draft club seeking members

By KAREN daSILVA
TM Sports Editor

About three weeks ago, Philosophy teacher Robert "Zack" Taylor issued an appeal to Cerritos College students to form a club offering information for alternatives to the draft.

Taylor has confirmed that his appeal has reached enough students and will become a campus organization some time this year.

Currently the tedious process of paper work is under way to officialize the club which is yet to be named.

The organization will not be limited to the anti-draft issue alone.

Taylor's purpose behind the club in general is to stimulate the minds of students into thinking about current events that involve themselves and to not just sit back and ignore them.

Thus far, more women have shown interest in the club, suggesting their concern over the possibility of being drafted.

The professor continues to encourage students to join the club. Further information can be obtained by contacting Taylor at his office in the Social Science Building #131 or his Ext. #355.

The only qualifications for membership is the required 10 units enrollment for any Cerritos College organization.

... Book

"The hardest part of writing the book was the final draft," commented Bloomfield, "gathering the facts wasn't as tough, it was the drudgery of actually doing the work."

Dr. Bloomfield will co-host an autograph party on Dec. 1 in the college bookstore to promote "The Opposition To The English Separatists, 1570-1625."

'Soap' addict cleans up act

By JEANNETTE NOCEDA
TM Features Editor

I'm a "soap opera" addict. I confess I fell victim to their trap about three years ago.

Last week when we had Veteran's Day off, most of my friends got up early, did errands of importance, and had the rest of the afternoon to just lounge around.

But at 11:30 a.m., I sat down in front of the TV, and didn't remove my eyes from the set until 3 p.m.

I first was entranced with Joe Novack on "Ryan's Hope," then became ecstatic with the release of Cliff Warner on "All My Children," which followed onto the disappearance of Olympia Buchanon on "One Life to Live," and concluded the day with the robbery of Laura's divorce decree on "General Hospital."

I did get up one time — I had forgotten all about my slice of bacon. My biology teacher always stressed that pork should be thoroughly cooked.

I wasn't always an addict. There was a time when I could pass a soap opera up with no hesitation, but now if I don't watch at least half hour of "GH," I get despondent and head into deep depression.

Weekends are terrible because there are no soaps on.

Mondays are also the pits because I have a class which lasts until 3 p.m.

It isn't until Tuesday that I get that chance to watch my half hour.

Needless to say that from Saturdays until Tuesdays, I am a nervous wreck.

My addiction began when I went to spend a few days with a good friend of mine. She only watched "One Life to Live" and "General Hospital," and I only watched "All My Children." Between the two of us, we sat in front of the set, all three days I was there, for the full three hours.

My addiction grew little by little, but my friend became a "soap opera junkie" right away. She is now recuperating from a (terrible withdrawal of not being able to see her soaps for the two months she was in New York.

The doctors say that with special training she might get over her addiction.

As for me, I only hope the Schick Center comes up soon with a rescue program.
