

Talon Marks

Volume XXV, No. 9

Cerritos College • 11110 E. Alondra Blvd. • Norwalk, CA 90650

Wednesday, Dec. 9, 1981

CAMPUS SECURITY

A two-way street

Cerritos College Campus Security has experienced some "growing pains" in its attempt to mature into a more professional organization. Major revisions in the program took place over the summer to get rid of what the security coordinator termed a "kiddie kop image."

The college beefed up its security force from part time hourly employees to a staff of classified employees for more around the clock coverage of the campus. This year the officers are also assigned specific "beats."

Experienced dispatchers were also hired to replace the less experienced students used in the past.

Other personnel additions included parking attendants to handle the time consuming chore of writing tickets, freeing the security officers of that responsibility.

Two roving vehicles are also being employed this year to step up security.

While the added measures have given the program a higher profile and more professional image on campus, thus improving safety, the transition has not been a painless one.

A confrontation between security officers and three spectators after a recent college football game, was characteristic of the program's struggle to gain respect.

While TM recognizes the importance of a highly professional and respected security program on campus, an over zealous attitude must not be substituted for proper discretion in attempts to gain those goals.

The ability to use proper discretion in high pressured, potentially volatile situations goes with the territory.

It is also incumbent upon the security to respect the needs and circumstances of the public.

On the other hand, it's time that the campus security program and the authority and institution it represents be accorded the respect it merits.

Campus personnel and visitors should cooperate and accommodate the officers in their attempt to enforce college guidelines.

If mutual respect is exercised by both sides, incidents such as the recent confrontation will be avoided, and a foremost objective shared by both the people of the campus and the security program will be reached—a safe campus.

DA rejects battery case, cites no probable cause

By KIMBERLY BEAUDRY
TM News Editor

The Downey District Attorney's office has dismissed the charges against three men arrested here on battery counts after a confrontation with campus security officers following a Nov. 14 football game.

The men, Roy Lewis, 42; Clifford Lewis, 23; and Roy Lewis, Jr., 19, were arrested by Norwalk Sheriff deputies after reportedly assaulting Cerritos security officers Stephen Davenport, David Sossman, and James Webb.

According to Norwalk Deputy Sgt. William Graves of the Downey D.A.'s office who contributed to the case, the charges were dropped because "The D.A. believed there was no probable cause for security people to approach the Lewis family after the incident had apparently been resolved."

The Norwalk police report states the incident arose when Clifford Lewis tried to gain access to the football field before the game had ended.

When Officer Davenport instructed Clifford to leave the field, the report alleges Clifford verbally threatened him.

After calling for assistance, Davenport pursued Clifford who had disappeared into the departing crowd, to question him for "challenging a fight" with a security officer,

(Continued on Page 2)

TIS' THE SEASON — Basketball players Tim Kuyper (right) and Neil Anderson get some encouragement from walking billboards to show some holiday spirit.

Christmas dance highlights holiday food drive for needy

By KIMBERLY BEAUDRY
TM News Editor

Cerritos College will host a Christmas dance featuring the popular musical group Papa Do Run Run this Friday, Dec. 11, from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The dance is open to Cerritos students with a current student body card and all college faculty.

Admission will be $1 or a donation of two cans of food, to go towards the college's Christmas food drive which is being coordinated by Sandy Kleven, Inter Club Council Commissioner.

According to Student Body President Craig Georgianna, the food will be distributed among "orphanages, half-way houses, and needy families."

Donations of canned food only will be accepted until Friday, Dec. 18. Those wishing to help out can drop off contributions at either the Switchboard, Admissions, or the Students Activities office.

Georgianna says he urges students to "clean out their cupboards" and bring in food donations.

"If the students have stuff they don't want, why not bring it here?" he added.

(Continued on Page 2)

NAY, LIFE ISN'T EASY — Things are 'looking up' for 'Strider,' which premiered last Friday in Burnight Center. The play, a west coast debut, is an adaptation of Leo Tolstoy's short story, 'Kholmster: The Story of a Horse.' Tickets are still available for 'Strider,' through Saturday, Dec. 12.

Faculty group considers division split

By BRENDA DOYLE
TM Campus Editor

Two-thirds of the Humanities/Social Science division favor separating the two areas, as they were before the controversial management reorganization two years ago.

The trustees Wednesday night tabled discussion on the split 3-3.

Out of a possible 58 total responses there were 39 respondents equaling 67%. Of the present Humanities/Social Science division members, 62%, or 24 members were in favor of the split, 28%, or 11 members were not in favor and 10%, or 4 members stood on neutral ground. The former Social Science division showed 72% of the members in favor of the division. The former Humanities division tallied 55% for the split.

According to division faculty members some of the reasons they want the split are:

1. The division is too large.
2. The division office is less accessible for Social Science faculty.
3. There is a feeling that the Social Science Division is absorbed into the Humanities Division.
4. There is an increase in the lines and levels of authority.

(Continued on Page 2)

1ST California staging of 'Strider' a winner

By C. CORI LOPEZ
Assist. Features Editor

"Strider," presented by the Cerritos College Theatre Department, under the direction of Fred Fate, plays through Saturday in Burnight Center.

The play, billed "From Broadway to Cerritos College," opened before a full house in its west coast premiere. Widely accepted in New York, the production has yet to be staged in California, with the exception of Cerritos College.

Adapted from the short story, "Kholmster: The Story of a Horse," by Leo Tolstoy, "Strider" deals with the idea that the assertive, artificial world of men contains less wisdom than the world of animals.

Set in 1863 Russia, "Strider" illustrates the hardships of a once great piebald horse, as seen through the eyes of "Strider." Described as "a fine horse in his day," the play depicts the all-too-familiar adage of growing old, growing ugly, and being alone.

In this production, the audience is seated on the stage and a huge canvas has been hung to conceal the rest of the theater. According to Fred Fate, "We wanted 'Strider' to be very intimate. We felt if the audience was on stage with the players, the atmosphere would be warmer."

And so it is, with a cast of twenty-two, the production primarily takes place within a Russian stable. The setting is very simple, but the fast-paced, some times funny entourage more than makes up for it.

Especially enjoyable to watch were characters Madame Mathieu, Count Bobrinsky and Strider, portrayed by Dana Anderson, Alex Patiño and Fred Boege. Each actor gave his and her character a definite personality that captured the audience at once, holding them throughout the play.

In an effort to gain full audience participation, each ticket-holder is lead to the stage through a stable.

(Continued on Page 2)

Last drop date

Students who need to drop classes for either personal or academic reasons must do so by Friday, Dec. 18.

Under a new state wide policy, classes cannot be dropped for any reason after the 12 week mark.

Failure to formally drop a class through the Admissions Office could result in a failing grade.

Business division gives awards to 'top bananas'

By BARBARA EKNOIAN
TM Staff Writer

The Cerritos College Business Division has created the "Top Banana" award and has cited 24 students for their outstanding performance.

Mrs. Lee Westerlin, administrative assistant of the Business Division, explained that they wanted to honor students from their six departments and choose the recipients from both day and extended day classes.

Teachers selected those successful students who they felt would persevere, participate and be conscientious in their endeavors, not necessarily choosing them for having a high G.P.A.

The only requirements were attendance during Spring and Fall 1981 classes, (the number of classes was irrelevant), and a 2.0 G.P.A.

CHRISTMAS BREAK

Christmas break for Cerritos College students begins Dec. 18.

Classes resume Jan. 4, not Jan. 14, as previously reported in TM.

Talon Marks will not be published next week due to the holidays.

"We wanted to select the top bunch of students," said Westerlin, "and thought of 'Top Banana.' Therefore, we chose 12 from the 'day bunch' and 12 from the 'night bunch.'"

Since there are some 11,000 students in the division, she pointed out that the 24 students should feel honored. Also, the qualities these students possessed are what employers are seeking.

Martin Wensman, Associate Dean of Business; Richard Whiteman, Dean of Vocational education, Westerlin presented certificates and a specially designed "Top Banana" pin to the students in their classes.

One of the students, Estella Valdez, expressed her surprise about receiving the award. "I was so shocked. I didn't believe it." She added, "My mother was so happy and my dad went around the neighborhood showing my certificate."

Poster signs listings the students and a drawing of the "Top Banana" pin are on display in the Business building, Liberal Arts Building and on the third floor of the Social Science Building.

The "day bunch" includes John Baker, John Bartkowiak, Dorothy

(Continued on Page 2)

Trustees top post to Banas

Epple becomes father as 2 new members seated

By IRENE COELHO
TM Assoc. News Editor

Serving his second term since 1977-78 as President is Louis Banas, Jr. of Norwalk who replaces retiring Louise Hastings of Bellflower.

Two of the three newly elected members, Ada Steenhoek and Hazel Scott, were given the oath of office at the Dec. 2 Board of Trustees meeting.

Steenhoek is an elementary teacher in Bellflower and Scott was the only incumbent in the election.

The third member and top vote-getter Bob Epple spent the evening at the hospital with his wife Cheryl awaiting the birth of Nicole Suzanne, their first child.

Epple will take the oath at the Dec. 18 meeting.

New officers were elected for the coming year at this session. Each officer serves for a one year period.

Two-year member Rich Goul of Cerritos will take the duties of Vice President, a position previously held by Banas.

Secretary of the body is veteran member Harold Tredway of Downey who has served for 16 years. He replaces Scott.

Holding the position of Representative for "electing Member of the County Committee on School District Organization" is Scott. The representative attends an annual conference and is entitled to one vote in representation of the entire board concerning organization of school districts. The position was previously maintained by Goul.

Another change approved by the board was moving the meeting dates to the second and fourth Mondays beginning in January. This is the second change of meeting times in the past four months.

A possible split of the Humanities/Social Sciences Division was the major order of business for the new body.

The division which consists of 58 faculty members both part time and full time is the largest on campus, and was once two separate divisions.

(Continued on Page 2)

LMC associate dean Zinser joins Cerritos

By C. CORI LOPEZ
Assist. Features Editor

Terry Zinser, the newly appointed Associate Dean of the Learning Materials Center, left Mount Shasta because he was tired of shoveling snow.

He comes to Cerritos College after eight and a half years at College of the Siskiyous in Weed, where he held the position of Head Librarian as well as Director of Learning Resources.

"I'm originally from Southern California, so it was nice to go up North for a change of scenery. But it's nice to be back — besides, I was getting tired of shoveling snow," explains the new Associate Dean.

Born and raised in North Hollywood, Zinser graduated from the University of Southern California and took a job at Los Angeles Pierce College.

After three years at Pierce, Zinser was offered a promotion at College of the Siskiyous, where he'd been since 1973.

"Siskiyous was a promotion from Pierce, and my transfer to Cerritos College is an even bigger promotion. I'm very glad to be here, except I miss my family."

Zinser's wife, Donna and sons, Nicholas and David are still up in Mount Shasta, awaiting their move to Southern California.

He says Cerritos College is very warm, for being such a big school. "Everyone has made me feel very

Foerster shows the way

Coach points to talent

By KEITH SHARON
TM Assoc. Editor

As far as coaches go, Cerritos' Bob Foerster has won just about every award imaginable. He has been chosen coach of the year four times and has won three South Coast Conference championships.

But in his nine year tenure here at Cerritos he has never won a state title.

"This year's team has the talent and ability to take themselves as far as they want to go," said Foerster of his 1982 squad.

The Falcons return two starters off of last year's team that logged a 21-8 record and tied for second in the South Coast Conference. And a fine off-season of recruiting can only enhance Foerster's chances of attaining that elusive championship.

"We're not super quick or extremely physical," Foerster said, "but we're not deficient in any of these areas either. This group is more patient than squads we've had in the past."

"We'll play a more controlled game this season and spend a lot of time looking for the good, high percentage shot."

Foerster and assistant Jack Bogdanovich should be pleased with the abundance of talent that they obviously possess.

Leading the Birds will be returning all-conference forward Tim Kuyper. Kuyper, a 6'-7" shooter from Mayfair High, figures to be Cerritos' number one offensive threat. But the threat doesn't stop there.

"Naturally we're expecting big things from Tim again this year," said Foerster. "Tim's been working on his defense and rebounding during the off-season and he has improved steadily."

Returning at guard is sharp shooting Kevin Hobbensiefken whose ball handling will be a big asset in the back court.

"Kevin's outside shooting is excellent and his defensive skills have improved to the point where he is an outstanding all-around player."

Joining Hobbensiefken at guard is former all-CIFer George Yezbak. The Cerritos High grad is a transfer from Pitzer College where he earned all-conference honors as a freshman a year ago. Yezbak is a fine outside shooter and will run the Cerritos offense from his point guard position.

Bob Silvas, Paul Lampe, John Carmagnolle, and Kirk Iwami provide valuable as well as very capable depth at the guard spots.

Hard working Neil Anderson will be Kuyper's running mate at the forward spot. Anderson is a hard nosed rebounder that should compliment the Cerritos offense.

Rusty Campbell will see a lot of playing time and his quickness should come in handy on the fast break. Campbell filled in well in limited duty last year and is one of the more experienced players on the squad.

Roger Coleman was the Southeast Co-Player of the Year in his senior year at Bell High and will come off the bench in '82.

In the post position John Martin and Wayne Ricks will battle for the starting spot. Martin, a 6'-6" leaper from Lynwood High, is a master of

THIS WAY — Cerritos coach Bob Foerster points his team in the direction of a possible league or even a state crown, a title that has eluded him in his nine years as Falcon mentor.
— TM Photo by DAVE MEADORS

blocking shots and should be able to hold his own against the big centers around the league.

Ricks is more the offensive minded of the two post men. He is a smart center and his ability to get in position make his inside game much stronger.

Offensively Cerritos will try and take advantage of their impressive group of outside shooters. But still will move the ball quickly to try and set up the highest percentage shot.

Defensively coach Bogdanovich will mix pressure on the ball with the man on man, the zone, and the full-court press. Martin is an intimidating factor inside and all the guards can come up with the big steal out in front.

REBOUND — Falcon forwards Neil Anderson (45) and Tim Kuyper go up for rebound against Long Beach City. Cerritos bounced back from three early season losses to win Cypress Tournament.
— TM Photo by DAVE MEADORS

All-American tag awarded to Harvey

By DARREN HINSLEY
TM Staff Writer

Falcon poloist Scott Harvey was named Thursday to the prestigious All-American water polo team.

Harvey, a sophomore, qualified for the award by being selected to the first team All-Conference and then to the Southern California first team.

"I was really surprised to be selected," said Harvey, especially since we lost our first two games in the Southern California tournament."

Harvey's coach Pat Tyne was not surprised at his being named All-American, calling Scott one of the better players in the state. "He is a good player both offensively and defensively. He understands the game very well and was a big contributor for us this year."

Harvey contributed more than 60 goals in the year, to lead the Falcons in scoring, and attributed alot of his scoring success to his being left-handed.

"I was able to get off alot of quick shots simply because the defenders would always be used to guarding the right hand," Harvey recalled. "I'd say that about 50% of my goals were because I was left-handed."

The southpaw was selected as the Most Valuable Player on his high school water polo team at Esperanza, and was given an Honorable Mention on the Southern California team last year.

Harvey hopes to continue play at San Luis Obispo, but rumors of their water polo program folding has the 19-year-old considering U.C.L.A.

"Depending on how well I do my three years on the university level will decide on whether or not I can try and make the U.S. Olympic team in 1984 and play for Ken Lindgren." Lindgren has been granted a leave from Cerritos College to coach the '84 Olympic water polo team.

When Harvey is not in the pool, he can usually be found in the Students Activities office where he has been politically involved since his freshman year. He was elected to the senate in the fall of '80 and re-elected in the spring of '81. Halfway through his second term, Harvey was appointed to the ASCC Supreme Court where he is currently serving.

"I really enjoy attending Cerritos College," Harvey stated. "It has been good for me both academically and sports wise." And likewise, Scott Harvey has been good for Cerritos College.

AN ALL-AMERICAN FACE — Sophomore water poloist Scott Harvey can't find anything to be happy about after being injured in a recent polo match. Harvey is all smiles lately after being tabbed to the JC All-American team.

TM Photo by DAVE MEADORS

A shining Dunford leads matmen wins

By GARY WALKER
TM Staff Writer

Despite the fact that it is still the pre-season, Coach Jeff Smith feels that when the ratings come out next week, Phil Dunford will be the state's number one wrestler.

Dunford, competing in the 180 lb. class, led his teammates on a romp over Imperial Valley, and impressive tournament victories in Santa Ana and Cuesta.

The Falcons will host Golden West tonight at 7:30 and then enter the Fullerton tournament on Dec. 11.

The conference season will then begin on Dec. 16 with Cerritos hosting Santa Ana College.

Trying to make up for a dismal showing in the Bakersfield tournament two weeks ago, the Falcon matmen destroyed Imperial Valley, 54-0. Imperial was a replacement for Porterville who had to cancel its trip to Cerritos.

Imperial's luck went from bad to worse when they showed up for the Santa Ana tournament a week later. The first match for them was against Cerritos.

This time Cerritos took it one step further by routing Valley, 57-0.

The next team to face the high flying Falcons was Ventura. They did not fare much better and were dispatched by the Falcons 41-3. That victory put Cerritos in the title match against Moorpark.

Dunford and company came home champions of the tournament after a 37-2 thumping of Moorpark.

The Falcons were not through yet. Two days off and they found themselves in the Cuesta tournament. This time the wrestlers competed individually instead of as a team.

It made very little difference as the Falcons carried home three of the top five titles.

Sophomore Steve Catalfamo took fourth place with Pat Burns one step ahead in third. Big Phil Dunford finished first.

The only bullet the Falcons could not dodge was the one labeled controversy.

When the clock read five seconds left in the match, both Smith and the official scorer had the match tied at five points each.

Suddenly the referee gave a point to the other wrestler for an earlier escape that he (the referee) claimed was never awarded. So instead of a possible overtime the match was lost 6-5.

Falcons bounce to tourney win

By KEITH SHARON
TM Assoc. Editor

The Cerritos Falcon hoopsters finally broke out of an early season slump, put together two wins, and captured the "Cypress College Charger Classic" with a 53-46 win over non-conference rival Cypress in Cypress' Jim Thorpe Gymnasium.

The tournament was more of a "Mini Classic" as four teams dropped out before play began. The two Falcon wins brought their record to 2-3.

Last night the Birds traveled to Azusa Pacific to take on the Azusa J.V. squad (results were unavailable at press time). And Saturday, Cerritos travels to L.A. Harbor for a 7:30 game.

Sophomore point guard George Yezbak was named Most Valuable Player of the tourney and played two steady games. Yezbak scored 12 points in each contest and provided the floor leadership that proved decisive in the final.

Cerritos head coach Bob Foerster made two key changes in the final game that worked to perfection against the much taller Chargers.

First, he inserted seldom used ball-handler Kevin Hobbensiefken into the line-up. The sophomore guard teamed up with Yezbak to literally control the game in the backcourt. Hobbensiefken hit from both inside and outside to lead the Birds with 19 points.

Second, he changed the Falcon offense into somewhat of a slowdown to confuse the defending state champions.

"I just wanted to change them up," said Foerster of his offensive tactics. "We didn't want to just sit there and do what they wanted us to do. Psychologically, more than anything else, when you make someone do what they don't want to do, it changes the whole complexion of the game."

The Falcons employed the slowdown game from the outset, drawing the Chargers out of their tight zone defense. Tim Kuyper, an all-conference performer from a year ago, suffered through an unproductive game and Cerritos found the going tough in the early part of the game.

Hobbensiefken and Yezbak teamed up for ten of the Birds' 17 first half points, but it was the defense of shot-blocker John Martin that kept Cerritos within one, at 18-17, at half-time.

Cerritos took control of the game opening the second half with 10 unanswered points. The blitz began with a driving lay-up by Hobbensiefken and ended with a Yezbak lay-up five minutes later. This gave Cerritos a lead it would never relinquish at 27-18.

The Falcons continued to spread the court in what Foerster calls his "Big Apple" offense. With Cypress in foul trouble, Cerritos remained content to just hang on to the ball and wait for the Chargers to commit a foul.

"The apple opened the game up and got us the shots that we wanted," Foerster said. "Kevin drove to the basket and passed off well."

Down the stretch it was Hobbensiefken and Yezbak keeping the game out of reach with clutch lay-ins and free throws. Forward Neil Anderson scored four points in the final two minutes.

Yezbak wins MVP; two others tabbed

George Yezbak was named Most Valuable Player in last weekend's "Cypress Charger Classic" by the Cypress tournament's awards committee.

Kevin Hobbensiefken and Tim Kuyper were selected to the All-tourney squad in the four team "classic."

Some controversy surrounds the appointment of Yezbak as the MVP, even though the sophomore point guard played an excellent tournament.

GEORGE YEZBAK

"It seems there was some misunderstanding," explained Cerritos coach Bob Foerster. "But there was no mistake. I'm very happy for George."

Reportedly a committee member consulted with Foerster at the conclusion of the final game as to who the coach would choose as the MVP. Based on a 19 point performance, Foerster chose Hobbensiefken.

But the committee had already picked Yezbak as the MVP, so they added Hobbensiefken to the all-tournament team (along with Kuyper) making it a six man squad.

Yezbak scored 12 points in each of the two games and handled the ball extremely well. Hobbensiefken, who played only sparingly in game one, was the dominating force in the final game. Kuyper scored 23 of the squad's 50 points on the opening night, but was virtually ineffective in the finale.

Five Falcons selected to All-League squad

Five Cerritos Falcons were named to the All-South Coast Conference football team chosen by the SCC coaches last week.

Herb Welch, a second team all-conference pick from a year ago, was the only Bird selected to the first team in last Wednesday's balloting. Welch, the sophomore defensive back, led the SCC in both punt and kick-off returns as well as establishing Falcon records in both categories.

Offensive tackle Ken Sample, full-back David Steele, and defensive linemen Jim Rowley and Chuck Endersby were selected to the second team.

Sample, a 6'-5" 240 lb. lineman, enjoyed a fine season and is currently making numerous recruiting trips to major colleges around the country.

Steele led Cerritos in receiving with 26 catches and gained 284 yards on the ground and established himself as one of the best blocking backs in the conference.

Rowley and Endersby led the Cerritos defense with a fierce pass rush and did a steady job against the run.

Spiker Robarge leads Falcon team in honors

Lori Robarge, who last year earned second team all conference honors did one better this time around and then some. Not only did she grab a spot on the first team, but she also nailed down the Most Valuable Player Award in the league as voted on by the coaches from around the conference.

Robarge heads an impressive list of Falcons named to the team. Joining her on the first team were setters Gigi Alpenia and Evelyn Kim, while Nancy Vanderpool and Alecia Bremer each landed a spot on the second team. Mary Lary was an honorable mention selection, meaning all six regulars from the conference co-champion Falcons earned spots on the squad.

Robarge, a sophomore out of Gahr High School where she was all CIF, had a big hand in leading Cerritos to their best finish ever, 11-1 in league and 15-4 overall.

With Kim and Lary returning next year as well as three other players with game experience the Falcons figure to be very competitive in defending their title.

