Mittleman asks additional 5% profit share

By MELISSA HERNANDEZ
TM Staff Writer

The Board of Trustees engaged in a heavy discussion regarding bookstore matters last Tuesday. Several questions were asked with no answers offered.

Student Body President David Mittleman admitted to having initiated the review of the bookstore and asked that the matter be made an agenda item. He stated that when the Accreditation Team visited the college, they gave suggestions as to how the bookstore could improve their business status. The team suggested that the college take immediate steps to investigate the ASCC fund losses and take action to resolve the problem.

Mittleman said he wants steps to be taken. He asked, "Do we (the ASCC) have the power to determine how to make the bookstore make more money?" Presently, the management responsibilities belong to the Business Services Office.

Mittleman's plea, stressed many times, is for the ASCC to somehow create a consistent, stable income for the bookstore. The ASCC currently receives five percent of bookstore gross sales. Mittleman presented a chart showing the mark-ups on textbooks and the amount of profit returns for eight area colleges and expressed a wish to see the present five percent figure climb to at least ten percent, more in keeping with other local colleges.

C.C. Falcon: A bird's eye view

MISTAKES—Have you noticed how the Talon Marks prints something for everybody? It even prints mistakes. Er...mistakes. These little blunders are meant for those of you who enjoy treasure hunts and puzzling situations. So, you see, there's something in the Talon Marks for everyone.

CASH CALL—Those of you who drop classes and then show up five years later to collect your refund are going to be in for a big surprise. The college is not going to carry you on the books for more than one year from now on. So, if you have some money coming, you'd better get it while the getting's good.

BALLOT BATTLES—It's refreshing to see that candidates for political office are still playing games. The recent ASCC Senate race wouldn't have been as interesting if it hadn't been for the antics of a few of the power blocs.

Maybe they just don't quite believe in their own qualifications. That would explain why they felt the need to appear in a place on the ballot where they'd be noticed by those who don't bother to look into who's best for the job.

SICK CALL—Dad gummit! Word has it that a good buddy of mine is laying low these days. Here's hoping he's soon back into the journalistic swing of things.

HEART ATTACK—A real special day is coming up soon and I have got to buy that special someone in my life a real fine gift. Isn't it a shame that we wait for just a few special days each year to show someone we care?

BRAIN DRAIN—Are the students at Cerritos really inferior? Tell me it ain't so! I always thought that students were only as good as their instructors.

I certainly wouldn't take a class from someone who thought I was less than smart. I'm not that stupid.

NO SOAP—My gal pals tell me that there may be a serious soap crisis on campus. They say there is never any soap in the ladies room in the Arts and Crafts building. Now I know that the gals over there are clean living folk...but they still need to wash their hands now and then. This could make for a real soap opera.

FALCON FLYERS—When are they going to turn our two lane drag strip into a four lane race course? The speeders on Falcon Way have been practicing over the semester break...they actually came close to clipping my wings this morning.

What happened to the removal of the parking spaces out there that was supposed to ease traffic congestion and give me a better view of what was about to hit me?

VICA upsets; senate seated in 1st session

By VERNON MORROW
TM News Editor

A strong VICA and Cosmotology showing at the polls last week will see 17 vocational students seated at the first session of the spring senate today.

This semester's elections suffered a light voter turnout with only 790 people turning out to cast their ballots and only 785 ballots qualifying to be counted.

Franz Seifert, who ran under the VICA banner, was the top vote getter this semester with 168 votes.

Among the rest of the winners were 11 Independents, nine VICA, seven Cosmotology, and two LDSSA members.

"The highlight of this semester will probably be the budget because of the $18,000 lost in ASCC fee waivers. Some money may have to be moved around but that is not for me to decide, but rather for the Budget Committee," said Seifert.

"Personally I would like to make sure that the parking situation in the C-10 parking lot is corrected as laid out by Keith Estabrook last semester," said Seifert when asked about what he would personally like to see this semester.

CONCERN EXPRESSEDFaculty Senate questions Board policy

By BRENT SIMS
TM Staff Writer

The Faculty Senate discussed the tentative Cerritos Board of Trustees' policy at the Feb. 4 Faculty Senate meeting. The Senate expressed concern over the Board's "deviation" in policy from past boards.

"The philosophy of the Board is, very simply, we want to run the college," said Faculty Senate President John Boyle, "I don't think they've made any bones about that from the start."

In the past the administration and faculty have submitted proposals to the Board, and they have drafted these into policy. This time however, the board has written their policy, and submitted it to the administration for approval.

"I don't think they have a clear understanding of what they are doing," Senator William Lewis commented referring to the Board, and expressing concern over the relationship of the Board of Trustees with the President and Faculty Senate.

From the draft of Board policy the Faculty Senate had in front of them, Lewis commented that it seemed the president was more of a "whipping boy" for the Board without any real authority to act on his own.

President/Superintendent Dr. Wilford Michael disagreed with the Faculty Senate's evaluation.

"I didn't see it the same way at all," Dr. Michael told a TM reporter. "I don't see the President in the same light that the Senate described."

When asked if he was concerned by the Board deviating from past procedures with the formation of their policy, Michael said, "It is Board policy," and then went on to explain that since the Board has so many new members, the procedure used this time was to help acquaint them with the policies and procedures.

Study and travel for extra credit

Various programs to attend schools in Austria in the spring and the Soviet Union in the summer are being offered to students.

Three Russian Language Program tours to the Soviet Union are being offered this summer by the Society for Cultural Relations USA/USSR, 5768 W. Pico Blvd., Suite 203, Los Angeles, CA, 90019.

For further information, contact the Society at (213) 937-4130.

The University of New Orleans is sponsoring a session of UNO-INNSBRUCK at International Summer School in Innsbruck, Austria during the summer of 1986. All credits are transferable.

For information contact Carl Wagner, c/o UNO-INNSBRUCK, Box 1315, University of New Orleans, LA 70148 or call (504) 286-7116.

"I don't think the problem is with the procedures, I think it is with a few of the things that they are trying to do that people might not agree with."

The Faculty Senate salary committee reported earlier in the meeting that they have yet to come up with an agreement on two key issues for consideration by the Board of Trustees.

The disagreement centered around salary percentage increase and summer pay. The committee has agreed on six other issues, but failed to come up with a proposal in time for last night's Board of Trustees meeting.

The faculty last asked for a 9.8% salary hike, while the last offer from the Board was a 4.6% increase. The classified employees at the college have already accepted a 6% increase, which most faculty feel will put pressure on them to settle somewhere in that general vicinity.

E.T. at Burnight

Steven Spielberg's film "E.T. The Extra Terrestrial" will turn on your heart light tomorrow night, 7 p.m. and 9:15 p.m. in the Burnight Center Theater.

E.T. is the story of love between a young boy and a defenseless alien he promises to protect. The tale will capture your imagination as well as your heart.

All student body members are welcome to bring their whole family to watch this fun filled flick. Admission is free with a current student ID card with a sticker attached.

Colorful biblical musical comes to campus

By GEORGE CHAVEZ
TM Staff Writer

The rollicking musical hit, 'Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat' arrives at the Burnight Center Theatre Feb. 27 and runs through nine performances ending Mar. 15. Performances are scheduled Thursdays through Saturdays with show time scheduled for 8 p.m.

Director/choreographer Georgia Well and Music Director Tim Nelson bring to the stage the Old Testament story of Jacob and his twelve sons. Joseph, the favorite, is sold into slavery by his jealous brothers. The musical tells the tale of his trials and tribulations and his close relationship with the Pharaoh.

The production is a kaleidoscope of musical styles. There is country-western, French cabaret, Calypso and even a tribute to Elvis Presley in 'Son of the King,' a clever number that incorporates 20 song titles into the lyrics.

Twenty-two talented, energetic singers and dancers landed the roles. Mark Perkins was cast in the lead as Joseph, Sherrie Flemming and Sylvia Tomoselli will share the role of Narrator; Jacob will be played by Gerard Reyes and Pharaoh is portrayed by Paul Lord. Stephen Kennedy of Whittier is Levi. Also in the cast are Pat Killian, Elisa Gonzalez, Sharon Davis, Jennifer Simpson and Diana La Cori.

Tickets are $7 for general admission and $6 for students and seniors. For further information call (213) 924-2100.

Despite the heavy vocational representation most observers feel that all groups will be fairly represented with only a few reservations as to where budget cuts might be made.

Most of the senators are interested in the senate's public relations. They feel that since the senate is there for the students, the students should make use of it by bringing ideas or problems to any of its elected officials.

The first task of the new senators today will be to approve the appointments of six new student government officials.

These appointments include Hazel Marbas to ASCC Supreme Court Justice, Todd Hanson to Commissioner of Athletics, John Husek to Commissioner of Activities, Keith Estabrook to Commissioner of Public Relations, Eric Saylor to Party Whip, and David Carpenter to ASCC Supreme Court Chief Justice.

Senate meetings are open to the public and are held every Wednesday at 2 p.m. in BK 111-112.

Mittleman seeks consistency; bookstore ownership questioned

During former president Fred Regan's term, bookstore income was budgeted at $70,000 by the budget committee, approved by the senate. The ASCC claims that they do not request an amount but are told how much they will receiving.

Last summer, with prompting from Mittleman, the return was upped to five percent gross sales. The agreement was between the ASCC, the Business Services Office, Personnel Services and Student Activities. This resulted in an income jump of some $60,000 according to Mittleman.

In response to Mittleman's request for a "consistent income," Board member Bob Epple replied, "Business is not consistent."

Trustee Dale Hardeman felt that the figures presented by Mittleman did not necessarily evidence a more efficient operation. It could be that the schools are not charged for services by the district.

Mittleman stated that "We believe we have the answers" to the bookstore's financial problems. He presented several suggestions including:

- Including district full time employees salaries, payroll taxes and fringe benefits into district budgets.
- Cease the practice of charging the bookstore a business services fee.
- Set an acceptable net profit percent and abide by it. An acceptable net profit for the ASCC, with Cabinet approval, is a minimum ten percent of net sales.
- Cerritos College will pay all bookstore charges for payroll and accounting services.

It was indicated that if the recommendations are not accepted, the ASCC will seek Board approval for putting the bookstore up for outside bid in order to insure consistent income.

Mittleman also questioned ownership of the bookstore.

"When the bookstore loses money, where does it come from?" asked Mittleman. "When the bookstore lost $42,000 over the course of the last two years, the money that should have been there ultimately came out of the student body account, funded by profit from the bookstore and the $8 student body fees. If you, in our position, with the help of Community Services, built the building and pay the rent to the lessor for the property and financially subsidize the business when it does bad, I think that shows who owns it. We do. We're financially responsible for it."

Vice President of Business Services Walter Magnuson pointed out that the lease states that the district is the lessor and the students are the lessee which means the district owns it.

Hardeman said the question is not one of ownership but of "who is in a better position to supervise the store."

No Board action was taken on Mittleman's requests.

Chancellor honors dancers

By SUSAN PHILLIPS
TM Editor-in-Chief

For Cerritos College dance students Linda Rosales and Robert Gilliam, the hours of hard work and persistence paid off recently in the form of the Chancellor's Performance Award in Dance.

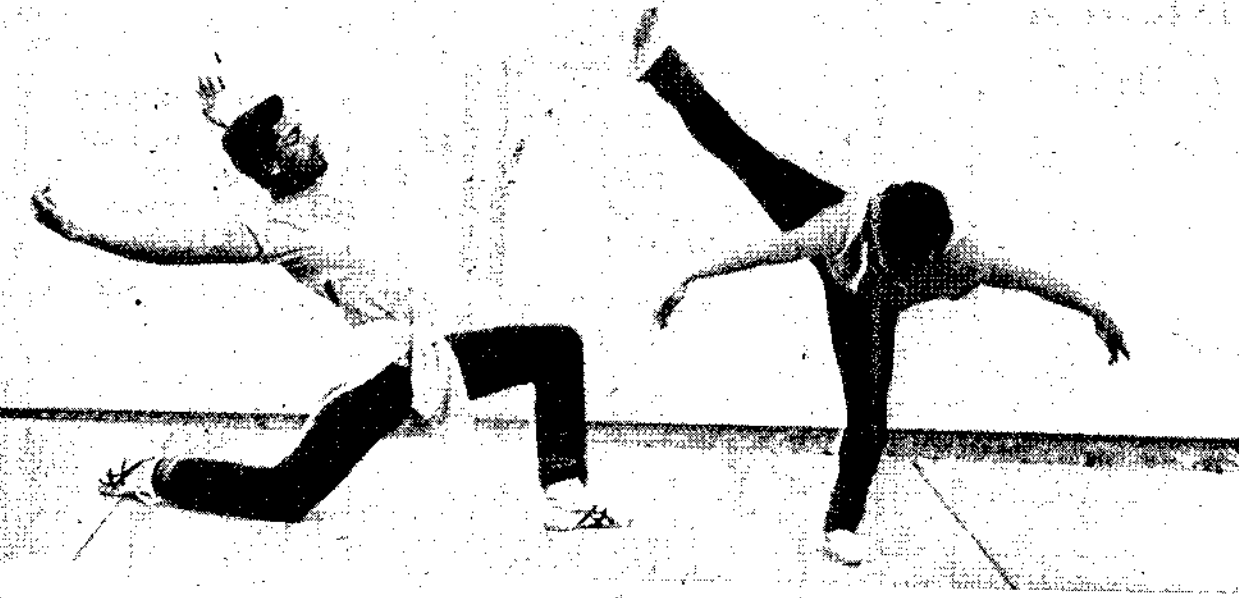

Application for the scholarship, presented to those students who show potential as performers, is made in the form of an audition. Linda and Robert competed with 30-40 other Cerritos dancers for the honor.

Both dancers agree that those interested in a career in dance will find Cerritos "the best place to start," noting the caliber of instructors such as Katherine Steadman and Rebecca Bobele who have danced with "some of the best dance troupes around."

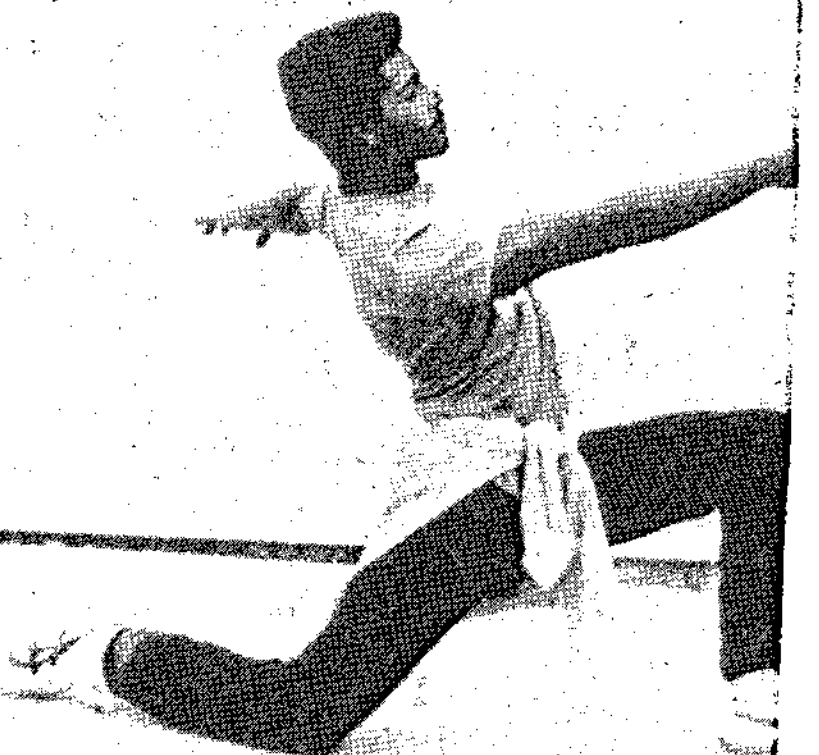

"When I first walked into class and saw her," Robert said of Bobele, "I thought, 'Wow! Cerritos has her!'"

Self expression is an important aspect of dancing to Linda and Robert. Both believe they can communicate any emotion to an audience through their movements "without saying a word."

The instructors at Cerritos "let you be yourself” and “put your own feelings” into the dancing.

“You can show happiness, anger or frustration,” said Linda, remarking that expressiveness is an important part of dancing to her since she tends to keep her emotions bottled up. Through the motions of a dance, she releases all her pent up energies.

Robert enjoys performing and feels that touching “just one person in the audience” makes for a successful performance.

Both Linda and Robert hope for careers as performers but also want to share their love and knowledge of dance with others.

For Linda, the immediate future is settled. She enlisted in the Air Force and will begin a four-year stint that she hopes will pay her way through four years of training as a choreographer.

Robert anxiously awaits his appearance in April at The House, a performing theater in Santa Monica.

Their advice to others, not only those studying dance, is to use dancing as a way to relieve the day to day tensions of life.

“Whenever I feel depressed,” said Linda, “I put on the music and dance”.

Cerritos win streak ended as Cypress soars higher

By JUDY REJON
TM Staff Writer

Last Saturday, Cerritos' sovereign rule over SCC came to an end as they came up against the "never say die" Cypress Chargers.

Cerritos' men's basketball team will play Fullerton (5-4, 11-11) today at 7:30 p.m. in the Falcon gym.

Cypress beat Cerritos 67-64, in a game the Chargers had been looking forward to since their first meeting back in January.

Cypress' only loss in South Coast Conference play came from Cerritos in that game. Cypress coach Don Johnson felt his team should have won.

The Chargers managed to break Cerritos' 22-game winning streak, and end their shutout of SCC teams, now midway through conference play with last Saturday's win.

Cerritos and Cypress now share the top position in the SCC with 8-1 records.

Cypress' Bill Dobbs led his teammates to the upset of the season, with 21 points and nine key rebounds.

Russ Heicke and Marlon Wadlington put Cerritos up by 44-36 before Dobbs and Jeff Martineau gave the Chargers the offense they needed.

Cypress converted 25 of 35 free throws on the game, as opposed to the Falcons, who could only manage 10 of 16 from the charity line.

"The fouls were 7-1 against us early in the second half," said Falcon Head Coach Jack Bogdanovich.

Cypress was in the one-and-one situation for the last 15 minutes of the game.

Falcon center Tom Tolbert led the team with 15 points.

Guards Russ Heicke and Marlon Wadlington had 12 and 11 points, respectively, with Willie Joseph rounding up the double figure foursome, with 13.

Cerritos was outrebounded 30-23, which marks the second consecutive game in which the Falcons were on the short end of that category. Cypress' Andy Olivares, making his first start of the season pulled down nine rebounds, many of them in critical situations. He had been averaging less than two per game.

Tolbert had 10 rebounds for the Birds while Heicke and Wadlington pitched in with five assists each.

Charger forward Scott Swanner scored four of the last five points for Cypress to finish off the Falcons.

Cerritos (22-2), is ranked number one in the state with Cypress (18-5) now ranked 11th in the latest poll.

The Falcons are led by the 6-9 Tolbert, who is averaging 20.3 points per outing in SCC action. He also leads the Birds with 7.5 boards per game.

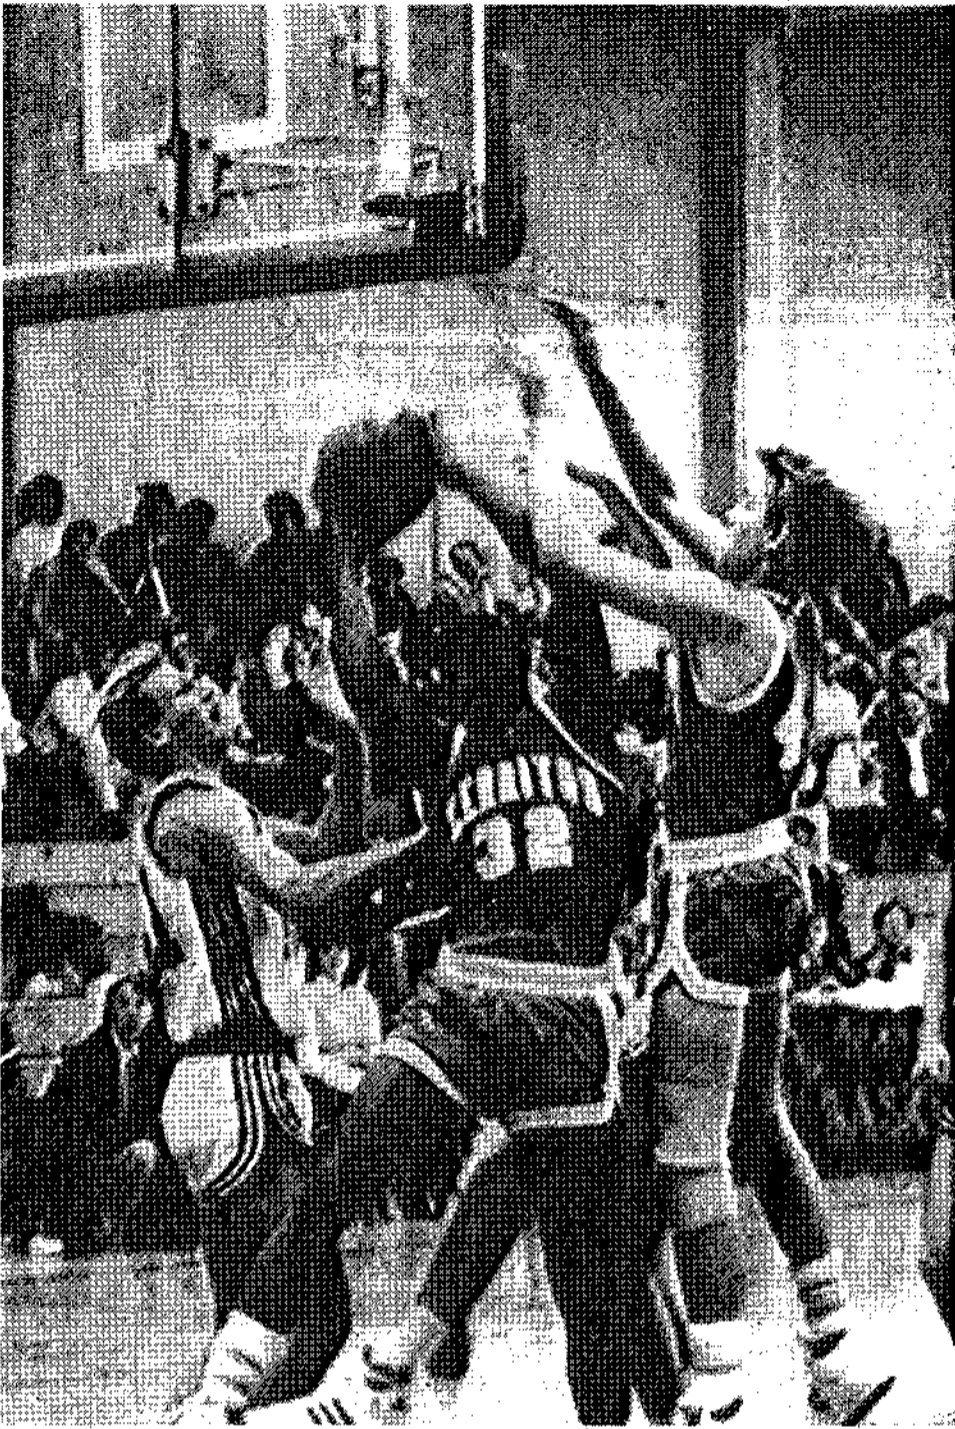

Forward Joseph is second on the team averaging 16.4 points per game and is pulling down six rebounds per game.

Guards Wadlington and Jerome Hall are 1-2 on the squad recording 4.7 and 4.0 assists respectfully for the Falcons.

Guard Russ Heicke is third on the team, averaging 10.7 points per game. Tolbert is shooting at an incredible 70% from the field and a respectable 76% from the charity line.

Cypress' coach Johnson feels Cerritos is good enough to win the state title.

Coincidentally, the state championship tournament will be held at Cerritos, March 13-15.

TOUGH YET SWEET — Cerritos forward Willie Joseph (32) demonstrates his magical presence time and again. While Falcon guard Jerome Hall (35) exhibits that he too has a few tricks up his sleeves, as all Orange Coast could do is watch in amazement.

Pirates sunk by lady cagers in 'year's best'

By KELLY SIMS
TM Staff Writer

The Lady Falcons went on a rampage last Wednesday, defeating the former first place Orange Coast Pirates and promoting themselves to a three-way tie for second with Fullerton and Orange Coast.

Cerritos dominated the first half, outscoring their opponents 46-26, and successfully ended a second half attempt at a Pirate comeback for a 87-78 victory.

Jane Hentzen led the scoring attack in what Cerritos coach Karen Peterson termed, "their best played game of the year."

The Falcons finished off the week by defeating sixth place Cypress in a hard fought battle that ended 64-60.

The Falcons are now facing their biggest week of the season meeting Fullerton, their second placed partners, tonight at Fullerton. They return home on Friday to challenge the first place Saddleback Gauchos. Both games will start at 7:30.

Girl racketeers battle SD Mesa SCC is threatening

By GABRIELA MARTINEZ
TM Staff Writer

This spring season brings new players and challengers to the Cerritos' tennis court-yard.

The women's tennis team will face their first opponents on Feb 6 when they play in San Diego Mesa at 2:00 pm.

"San Diego Mesa usually has a strong team," states coach Rhea Black, "In fact, the entire area is strong," she said.

Last season proved to be a tough conference for the Falcons, as Orange Coast took the number one spot leaving Cerritos behind in sixth place with a 5-9 SCC record (10-10 overall).

Coach Black and her squad will try to improve their record this season for "the toughest conference around."

Newcomers for this year's team include Julie Hammond from Warren High, Monica Mertz from Bellflower High, Annie Schooling, Linda Steanich, and Eva Castel from Downey High, and Simone Lappen from Our Lady of Loredo.

Loans mean liability

Abuses of the educational loan program are putting the futures of California college students at risk.

Disregard for the responsibility of re-paying guaranteed student loans has caused the California Student Aid Commission to serve notice of intent to terminate, limit or suspend participation in the program to several colleges throughout the state.

The soaring costs associated with higher education make it necessary for some students to seek financial aid in the form of grants, scholarships or low interest loans.

While each of these programs require the student to act responsibly in the use of the awarded funds, the Guaranteed Student Loan Program requires the student to carry the responsibility of re-payment.

The GSL program has become the largest single source of financial aid for California students, dispensing over $270 million in 1985 alone.

Those who accept a low interest loan promise to repay it beginning six months after the completion of their education.

Drastic collection action has resulted in some cases, with garnishment of wages, withholding of tax returns and legal proceedings against those failing to repay loans.

Defaulting on a loan results in a bad credit rating and, more importantly, deprives college students of the future of the chance to finance an education that would be otherwise impossible.

Before you sign up for financial aid, think about the responsibilities involved.

Use the money wisely; keep your end of the bargain and repay the loan; give someone else a chance at the quality education you have enjoyed.

Power struggle for senate control

The 46th Senate of the Associated Students of Cerritos College will be seated today, after an election in which we observed:

- The filing of a formal complaint alleging a violation of the ASCC election code.
- A noticeable lack of campaigning by the candidates.
- The majority of senate seats won by vocational students.

With the exception of two senators from the LDSSA, the current senate is composed entirely of athletes, cosmetology students and members of VICA.

Senate legislation requires a two-thirds majority for passage. The voc-ed senators (VICA and cosmetology) are but a couple of chairs shy of having a two-thirds majority. The athletic contingent is a vote or two shy of having a full 1/3 of the senate. This leaves the two LDSSA members in the position of holding the swing vote. Passage or defeat of bills may well depend on the position that they take.

Why, you might ask, do we speak of two sides?

Past experience has shown that the senators from the south side of Falcon Way vote as one. The same can be said for the athletics contingent.

Not always...but usually.

This has created a classic power struggle in which each faction seeks to flex its muscles to try to bring on the demise of the other side.

It makes for great newspaper stories, but poor politics.

Successful politics are based on compromise in which each side gives a little to gain a lot. Cooperation, not confrontation, is the key to success.

It works in the hallowed halls of Washington, and it can work here.

Falcon Way should be considered as a passage to parking spaces, not a hometown version of the Mason-Dixon line.

Some things worth watching...

- Presidential appointments.

It is ASCC President David Mittleman's prerogative to appoint qualified people to fill vacant seats in his cabinet and the senate. Appointees, however, must be confirmed by the senate, which must act to confirm or deny appointees based on qualifications, not affiliations. To deny a qualified candidate confirmation because he does not fit into a faction's game plan strains the credibility of the senate, and the majority in particular. It also causes the appointee and the president undue embarrassment. It happened last semester.

- Senate attendance. The ASCC lost almost 25% of its senators due to poor attendance. Anyone who is not going to make it to the meeting has no business seeking office.

- The budget. The 1986-87 budget will soon be constructed by the ASCC budget committee, chaired by President Mittleman.

The committee, composed of campus administrators, student government officers and students at large, will present to the senate this spring the spending allotments for everything funded by the ASCC. The budget must be approved by the senate before it becomes a reality. Will the senate, which will most likely seek to amend it, do so equitably, or will it engage in a bloodbath seeking to advance the cause of one group over another? If the senate blue pencils the budget too severely, or unfairly, Mittleman will most likely veto it and require the senate to meet and compromise until it approves a budget that he can live with.

Will the 46th senate of the ASCC act with the dignity that should be afforded the office and its constituents, or will it become mired by infighting?

It is up to them.

True confessions of a cartoon junkie

By ANSELMO PEREZ

"Transformers, robots in disguise...
"By the power of Greyskull...
"Yabba dabba doo..."

Familiar, huh?
"Why is it so funny to people when you tell them you still watch cartoons now that you're in college land?"

Do they think that you haven't quite matured yet, or perhaps have a couple screws loose?

My secret was safe until that fateful morning.

Monday through Friday, I watch "The Jetsons" while I get dressed and eat my breakfast. But on this particular morn, Channel 13 ups and shows you-know-what-sons an hour earlier.

I showed up to class ready to learn new things, explore new horizons — only to discover right room, right prof, but wrong time.

I was mortified.

Teacher asks, "Anselmo, why are you here an hour early? And, on time, no less..."

I confessed, "Because 'The Jetsons' were over and I leave when they are over."

Laughter everywhere. I could only sit there, hapless.

The truth was out. The world had discovered my hidden secret — I watch cartoons... a real cartoon junkie.

From the defender of the universe, "Voltron," to that 'wascally wabbit,' Bugs Bunny.

Yesssss... I watch them all.

I love watching cartoons past and present. Do you remember the cartoons of past generations?

Try Scooby Doo, The Flintstones, Bullwinkle and Rocky, Speed Racer, and Kimba?

Now that I watch the old cartoons, I realized that now I get the jokes rather than just laughing with the laugh track.

Seen any of the stuff kids today are watching?

For example, "The Transformers" where cars and planes transform into robots. Or "She-ra" fighting off the Mighty Horde.

But now I've faced my problem, and, frankly, folks, I don't care a blankety what people might say. You could say I'm coming out of the tube closet.

Betcha I'm not the only one watching cartoons in the privacy of their own closed doors.

Come on out, fellow loonies, and shout, "Yes, I watch Underdog and Johnny Quest. What's it to ya?"

Now, if Channel 13 can just get its scheduling act together...

Or, at least call and warn me.
