ESTABROOK, MOORE FIGHT IT OUT

By SUSAN PHILLIPS
TM Editor-in-Chief

The hard-fought campaigns of Paul Moore and Keith Estabrook are on the line today as voters go to the polls to elect the next ASCC president.

College, University Day here Wednesday

By LAURA MENDOZA
TM Staff Writer

University Day, April 23, will give students the opportunity to become acquainted with various colleges and universities.

The event will take place in the quad area from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Representatives from the Air Force and Army ROTC, eight representatives from University of California, 16 representatives from independent colleges, and 18 representatives of the California State Universities will be on hand to answer questions about programs and transfer.

Voting booths will be located in front of the Social Science Building, the Health Science Building and the Coffee Shop. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 6-10 p.m.

With the slate narrowed to two following the withdrawal of the Trapp-Mittleman ticket, Moore and Estabrook have centered their campaign on the issues of bookstore finances and student involvement in ASCC funded activities.

Don Trapp announced last week that, due to David Mittleman's acceptance at BYU, they were no longer in the race for the top student government seat.

"I don't think it would be fair if we were to win the election and then had to back out," said Trapp.

Moore and running mate John Husek have built their platform on a major plank of student involvement in the ASCC.

"I feel the most important thing the ASCC does for students is make their college experience more enjoyable by offering them a variety of programs," said Moore. He remarked that "more representations of clubs and organizations" during registration is essential to the program.

The ticket of Estabrook and Raine

Dooner has concentrated on the issue of the bookstore enterprise and the turn around in finances since the ASCC began looking into the problems of management.

Estabrook points to his record during three semesters in the Senate, stating,

Mittleman fires Moore as Party Whip after Senate vote clash

By VERNON MORROW
TM News Editor

Party Whip Paul Moore was fired from his position in the ASCC Senate last Wednesday.

Student Body President David Mittleman dismissed Moore after Moore refused to speak on behalf of Simon Semoan whom Mittleman had appointed to a Senate seat.

"He said 'You're fired as Party Whip, you're nothing,' and started screaming at me. And then he just turned around and stalked off. He was so mad I thought he was going to hit me," said Moore describing the scene after the Senate meeting.

"It is the responsibility of the Party Whip to speak on behalf of the the bill. I don't require Moore to vote in favor of it as many people in my position would. In the Senate meeting, he didn't have anything to say in support of the bill and he didn't really fulfill his job," said Mittleman.

EDITORIAL

For a change that counts, vote!

When will voting be taken seriously on campus?

As we see it, the low turn out at the polls appears to be some hapless trend that occurs year after year.

The person elected can only be the right person if you have voted for him.

The other guy's choice is not the right man for the job.

What happens when an extremist runs for office, gets a group of his friends together and ends up winning the election because more of his good buddies showed up than the rest of the campus population?

People will be puzzled as to how someone with spiked hair, green shoes and an earring could become president.

The answer lies at the polls...you weren't there.

The voting process doesn't take long. The lines are short.

For many, this will be the last chance to vote someone into office who can offer the student body the qualities of leadership, foresight and responsibility.

Running the ASCC is an involved job. It requires involvement on the part of the president and, more importantly, involvement on your part.

Get involved. Vote.

Windy prof stresses out hapless ones

By BRENT SIMS

Dear "Simply" Sims,

I know you're not a "Dear Abby" column or anything, but I don't know who else could handle such a delicate topic with such style and finesse.

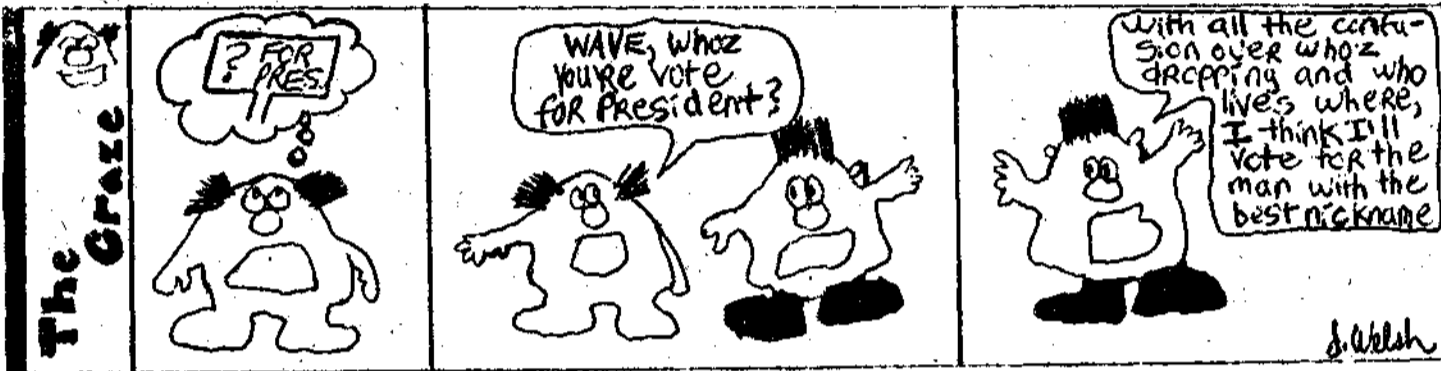

It seems that throughout this college there is a growing problem. I know there are lots of problems with the students, but this time it's not. It's with the teachers.

Imagine yourself in class. You're ready to go, and it's 12 minutes of the hour. The 10 minute mark passes and your teacher is still talking about the housing problem in Saudi Arabia. Now that causes stress!

You've got to get to your car out in C-12, run back, grab your books, and make it back to see your girlfriend all within 10 minutes, and this clown's not finished with his lecture yet.

Please offer me whatever advice you can.

Thank you,

Sabbatical to ye old English lit scene

By ELEANOR COLLINS
TM Managing Editor

When Cerritos English teacher Alexander Belroy returns from his three-month journey through the British Isles next year he will bring back a wealth of memories, experiences and color slides to share with his students.

Belroy is taking a sabbatical leave for the 1986-87 school year, and plans to teach two Survey in English Literature courses upon his return. Therefore, he has planned his trip to coincide with the locales of many of the writers included in the Survey courses' textbook, The Norton Anthology of English Literature.

For the first semester of his sabbatical Belroy will attend CSU, Long Beach, taking three English courses. "It has been over twenty years since I completed my Masters degree and I feel the courses I will take will serve to refresh my memory of the various works I will be teaching," he said.

Belroy and his wife Ludmila will leave for London in March of 1987. They will tour England and Scotland, and also visit Dublin, Ireland before returning in May.

The English professor, who has taught here for 23 years, is no stranger to travelling. He was born in 1938 in Bessarabia, an Eastern European country which has since been absorbed into the Soviet Union. His parents took him to Austria when he was still an infant. When Belroy was 11, he and his mother moved to the United States. (His father had died in Austria.) They initially came to Pasadena, but for the next five years Belroy and his mother, who worked as a governess and office worker, moved from California to New York, then on to Arizona and finally back to Pasadena. "It wasn't easy, but I got used to it. I suppose my mother was trying to find a place she could call home," explained Belroy.

After graduating from high school Belroy attended L.A. City College for one semester, and was then accepted into the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. But the young cadet gave up his commission one year before graduation. "I liked the Academy, but during summer training at Fort Campbell I found that life had a continual sameness. And I had second thoughts

Public Relations officer Wallace wins awards at CC convention

By DAVID GIGLIO
TM Features Editor

"It's a real juggling act," said Mark Wallace, referring to his job as Public Information Officer and Director of Publications at Cerritos College.

Wallace's efforts were rewarded recently when he took third place in feature writing at a convention of the California Association of Community Colleges Commission on Public Relations and the Community College Public Relations Organization.

The department's staff newsletter, "The Star," took second place in the newsletter category.

Calling writing his "first love," Wallace remarked, "It's hard to find ten free, uninterrupted minutes in this office to write." So he was especially pleased to take third place in the PRO awards for his article about Cerritos College marine biologist Professor Jules Crane in the '85 "Campus" newsletter.

Recalling the awards ceremony at the end of the two and a half day convention at South Lake Tahoe, Wallace said there was a "neat twist" because his former journalism professor from Fresno State University was there to see him receive the award.

When Wallace came to the college in August of 1984, he knew he would be supervising two sections, both Public Relations and Publications. It is the split nature of his job that he would most like to see change because the division of his time takes away from his being a more effective Public Information Officer.

While he would like to see the PIO position become a full-time one, he understands the economy in the dual arrangement.

Commenting that the publications section "usually runs itself," Wallace said that this job has been made easier due to the "excellent" staff under him.

In his nearly two years at the college, Wallace feels that he has accomplished much in the areas of increasing advertising for the college and getting a good community paper out to the public.

Looking back over his achievements here at Cerritos, Wallace feels that his most important success has been the improved relations with the outside press as compared to when he first arrived here.

Gentle Reader,

Though Miss Manners may have some misgivings about carrying an Uzi to class to remedy this situation, I do not.

No, the trick here is intimidation.

First try the subtle tricks like folding your papers and closing your books very loudly, then look with exaggerated gestures at your watch, yawn and say in a mock whisper, "Oh, is it time for class to get out already?"

In tough classes where this won't work, you might try organizing the class. Have one person distract the professor by grabbing enthusiastically at his face while saying, "Ah-ha got your nose!"

Sometimes even this clever ploy won't work.

When that doesn't happen Rich, I don't know what to tell you, and that's too bad, because I can tell you're a desperate man.

I can tell because out of the last three people who have written to me, one was a credit agency inquiring about my car and two questionable checks, another was someone wanting me to buy Amway and the third was you.

The only thing I can tell you is just remember who gives out the grades in these classes while you're trying to get out early.

And with that in mind, if you still feel like carrying an Uzi to class, it couldn't hurt.

Falcon Way 'Mason-Dixon Line' issue called myth

By SUSAN PHILLIPS
TM Editor-in-Chief

The issue of the so-called "Mason-Dixon Line" rankled ASCC presidential hopeful Paul Moore when it came up at Thursday's candidate forum in the Board Room.

"The existence of a 'Mason-Dixon' line at Falcon Way is a myth," said Moore who emphasized that although he is running under the VICA (Voc Ed students) banner, he represents the student body "as a whole."

The issue deals with the division of the campus between mostly VICA students and the so-called "white collar" students.

Moore is a speech/philosophy major. Asked to explain why he originally chose to run under the VICA banner, he hesitated, "Let me think...I don't recall."

Moore and Keith Estabrook, the two left in the race after Don Trapp and David Mittleman decided not to try it again, were grilled on major campus issues by members of the Talon Marks and KCEB.

At times the exchanges were as heated as the campaigning around campus. The two candidates traded verbal punches on a variety of questions, including bookstore management, Senate vacancies, ASCC programs, and plans for a student union.

Terry Diaz and Monica Calderon of KCEB zeroed in on the problems of bookstore management and finances, questioning Moore on his reasons for voting to retain a lawyer if he felt the bookstore was not a major issue.

Moore reiterated an earlier campaign statement that management of the bookstore "should be left to the pros."

Talon Marks representatives Susan Phillips and Eleanor Collins also pursued the bookstore issue, asking both candidates for their opinion on student involvement in the management of the campus enterprise.

Estabrook remarked that a profit of over $100,000 was expected this year because of the work of a "handful of students."

While commenting on just who should be involved in the management of the bookstore enterprise, Estabrook remarked that the faculty should not be involved because "They don't know what they're talking about in relation to the bookstore."

"I hope they put that in the newspaper," interjected Moore.

The faculty had, in the past, undertaken an investigation of pricing policy in comparison to other college bookstores expecting to find vast differences. Their finding showed Cerritos College Bookstore prices to be in line with other colleges.

Questions dealing with proposed plans for a student union brought similar responses from Moore and Estabrook, one of the few times the presidential hopefuls were on agreement on the issues at hand.

Both spoke of the need for a place where students could gather between classes instead of congregating in the library.

The candidates also agreed that this project was one that required time and careful planning before it was realized.

On the subject of Senate vacancies,

Moore expressed the opinion that "an inexperienced person shouldn't fill a position so near to the end of the semester."

Some positions remain vacant, said Moore, because nominees lack the qualifications to fill that seat.

Estabrook countered that every Senator "was not qualified as far as experience" when first elected.

When it was suggested that seats went unfilled so that ASCC president Mittleman could get the votes he wanted on certain issues, Moore responded, "There are factions (in the Senate) and there will always be factions," a point not overlooked by Estabrook who remarked "I thought there was no 'Mason-Dixon' line."

A question concerning Estabrook's difficulties in securing a running mate drew laughs from the audience. Estabrook told the "saga" of his search and final selection of Raine Dooner.

The final question of the session asked each candidate what the students should know about them before casting their votes.

"I'm honest," said Moore, "and I can represent each and every student on this campus. All I've done in the Senate was represent what I've felt was best for all areas of the campus."

Estabrook replied, "My actions show that I represent the student body as a whole. I've worked hard and I intend to keep working hard."

Moore's influence said to kill approval of Senate appointee

bill before the Senate, voted it down. Supporters of the bill felt that Moore's vote would have made the difference.

Moore, however, said that the Senate well being is more important in his decisions than Mittleman's personal feelings.

"The thing that really frustrated me was that after the meeting, I asked Moore why he didn't say anything, and Paul said 'I don't have to answer to you, I'm not responsible to you.' He does have to answer to me, that is his job and he didn't do his job so he required firing. Moore seems to feel that an experienced Senate not filled to its constitutional requirement is more important than a full Senate as required by the constitution," continued Mittleman.

"It's so late in the semester and he (Semoan) hasn't been here all year. I mean, if he had been sitting in the back of the Senate and watching what was going on and become familiar with the procedure, then I could see supporting him," Moore continued.

Mittleman said that if Moore would stand by what he says, he would have supported Semoan.

Mittleman was referring to the pre-senate meetings held every Wednesday by Moore and Franz Seifert to "educate and inform the new senators of the issues."

Mittleman supported his stance that the student government cannot operate at its best unless it is complete and empty Senate seats do not constitute a complete government system.

Moore, however, cited the fact that Mittleman had yet to appoint a Commissioner of Voc-Ed, a Commissioner of Handicapped Services, or Commissioner of Student Services. Moore asked that if having a complete student government is important to Mittleman, how come these seats are not filled.

Other supporters of the Mittleman administration felt that the Senate has been giving him a hard time all year unless it directly supports them (VICA), citing another bill from last week as an example.

The bill was for funding a State VICA competition which passed with no competition.

CAMPAIGN PLATFORM

FINANCIAL STABILITY — Estabrook and Dooner will continue to pursue a steady course toward financial stability. Because of the work done in the A.S. Senate by Estabrook, along with the current student administration, the bookstore has been turned around from a loss of $42,000 in 1984 to a profit of more than $100,000 in 1986 without an increase in costs to the students. The 1986 budget had to be cut 20% from 1985 levels because of income losses. The diligent work of Estabrook and ASCC President David Mittleman has brightened the financial picture to the point where program funding levels can be restored to 1985 levels.

STUDENT UNION — Cerritos College needs a student union building. As an accredited college, Cerritos is required to undergo a review every 5 years by an outside team of inspectors. The accreditation team has recommended that Cerritos College build a student union building in their last two reports. Estabrook and Dooner will work to see that a student union is built.

CAMPUS SAFETY — Crime on the campus, and at the satellite campuses, is a problem. Cerritos College is situated within 90 seconds of two major freeways, making getaways relatively easy. By putting our campus police officers through POST (Peace Officer Standards and Training), our campus police officers will realize a better rapport with the Sheriff's office. Professional courtesy will facilitate sharing of information about suspects between departments and result in quicker response times when assistance is needed. Current Sheriff's office response times can range from 45 minutes to one hour. POST can be realized with no expense to the district, as the state is willing to reimburse costs.

TUITION — Assembly bill 979, by Assemblyman Gary Condit, was vetoed by Governor Deukmajian last year. The bill, which had the support of 110 out of 120 California legislators, would have raised the maximum number of units for the part-time fee schedule from six units to seven. The California higher education master plan is currently under review in the state assembly for the first time since 1960. Estabrook and Dooner will lobby in Sacramento to see the return and passage of legislation similar to Condit's AB 979 in the new Master Plan.

ACCESSIBILITY — Estabrook and Dooner are on campus both day and night. We will keep night time office hours at least two nights a week, so that the concerns of extended day students can be addressed. Student Government offices are located in the Student Activities building, next to the bookstore.

REPRESENTATION — The President of the Associated Students of Cerritos College sits on the college Board of Trustees as the student representative. Estabrook works to represent all students at Cerritos College. Examples of his commitment to the students include:

- Financial Legislation — Estabrook introduced legislation into the senate to guarantee quicker transfers of funds from district to student bank accounts, resulting in more interest income for the students and financial stability so that the ASCC can continue to fund the finest Associated Students program in the state. They include:
  - Senate Bill 85S031 — This bill required the bookstore management to submit the bookstore budget to the senate for review and approval every year. It passed 28-0-0.
  - Senate Bill 85S032 — This bill established a separate checking account for the bookstore, making accounting easier and separating bookstore funds from student body general funds. It passed 26-0-0.
  - Senate Bill 85F023 — This bill required the Business Office to transfer monies collected for Associated Student membership to the student body within 15 business days after the close of registration, instead of waiting until the end of the semester. Passage results in an extra $5,000 per semester in interest income for the student body. It passed 23-0-0.
  - Senate Bill 85F024 — This bill required the Business Office to transfer 5% of bookstore gross sales to the student body each month, instead of waiting until the end of the year. It passed 22-0-0.
- Legislation to resolve the traffic flow problems on Falcon Way. Estabrook worked to get a plan through the student senate and the college parking committee to restripe Falcon Way into a four lane street. Parking spaces on the side of Falcon Way, which have been the source of the problem for years, will be eliminated. Work is scheduled to commence in May, 1986.
- Legislation to install better lighting in parking lot C-11. The lighting in lot C-11 is inadequate, and poses a potential hazard for night students who find it necessary to park in front of the Health Sciences building. Estabrook put a bill through the senate to get new lights, and then followed it through administrative channels. C-11 lighting is now approved and in the 1987 district budget.

about being a trained soldier. But one good thing that the Academy taught me was discipline."

Since Belroy had studied engineering at West Point and he enjoyed writing, he became a technical writer for a year. His assignments took him to New Jersey, Massachusetts and Utah.

In 1960, Belroy returned to college at CSU, Long Beach, and changed his major to English Literature. "I always loved to read. As a young child, there were few books available to me, so I read what we had several times over."

He received his BA and MA from Long Beach, and began teaching at Cerritos College right after graduation.

In 1972, while on his second tour of his parents' homeland, Russia, he met and fell in love with a Russian tour guide in Kiev. Although they only knew each other for two weeks before Belroy's tour ended, he and Ludmila corresponded during the following year. "I went back to Russia the following summer for over a month and we got engaged. Ludmila was fired from her tour guide job and harassed when Soviet officials discovered that we were corresponding. During Christmas vacation I went back and we were married. I had to come back to the States without my wife, but she was finally allowed to leave Russia six months later."

For this upcoming trip, the Belroys will probably use London as their home base, and rent or buy a car to tour England and Scotland.

Among the highlights of this trip will be visits to the homes of Milton, Keats, Dr. Johnson and Dickens in London. Other London stops will be Windsor Castle, Hyde Park, Fleet Street and Westminster Abbey.

The travelers will drive into England's Lake District to see John Ruskin's house and William Wordsworth's Dove Cottage in Grasmere. Wordsworth, the British poet, referred to the area as "the loveliest spot that man hath ever found."

The Belroys will drive north to the Scottish Highlands to visit Inverness, site of the Battle of Culloden, and Dumfries, one time home of Robert Burns, the Scottish poet who wrote "Auld Land Syne." They will also stop in Edinburgh and Ayr.

Back in England will be a tour of Blenheim Palace, Winston Churchill's ancestral home, said to be one of the grandest and most stately home in Britain. The Belroys will also go to the prehistoric monument of Stonehenge; Shakespeare's home, Stratford-on-Avon; the Bronte parsonage in Haworth; Newstead Abbey, Byron's ancestral home, and many more historically important sites mentioned in English literature.

Belroy is especially excited about going to Dublin. "I'm looking forward to exploring the sites James Joyce mentioned in his great novel Ulysses," he said.

Alexander Belroy will return to Cerritos for the 1987 summer session. "I will be able to share with my students a more vivid and immediate understanding of our great literary heritage. I plan to come back refreshed. I've made up my mind to inspire my students, and be inspired myself."

Tracksters host prelims on April 29

By MONICA MERTZ
TM Staff Writer

Considering that both the men's and women's Mt. SAC track and field teams are 7 and 0 in conference, Cerritos' scores of 32 and 108 for the men and 36 to 89 for the women were respectable.

This dual meet last Friday leaves the Falcon men with a 4 and 3 record for the year and the women with a 5 and 2 standing.

Male high scorer of the day was David Rivera, who chalked in second in the 5000 meter with a time of 15:23.8 and 1500 meter with a time of 4:03.4. Derrin Bruce threw the hammer 125'10" while the 400 relay team of Anthony Drawhorn, Tim Bradshaw, Errol Payne and Anthony Williams won the event by scoring 42.0, their best time of the season. Anthony Durden won the high jump with a 6 feet mark. Durden and Bruce compiled 5 points each for Cerritos.

Anthony Williams also shined in the 200, by winning with a time of 21.7 and placing third in the 100 meter with a 10.9 time.

The 1600 relay foursome of Frank Williams, Eric McKendell, Mike Valenzuela and Ben Crouch clocked in at 3:19.7.

Female Falcons had wins in the 400 meter where Heide Ruth turned in her best time of the season, 63.2. Sharron Gilbert tied for first in the high jump while Krisie McCoy ran the 200 meter in 25.8 and placed second in the 100 meter, and made herself the top scorer with 8 points. Sharron Brown had a second place spot in both the shot put, 29'1 1/2" and discus, 105'7", competition.

Other top women point scorers were Ruth, five points, Kimberly Lynk and Gilbert who both scored four points. Ana Covarrubias earned three points.

Thursday the squads compete in the Annual Mt SAC Relays beginning at 2:30 p.m.

Cerritos will host the South Coast Conference prelims and finals on Tuesday, April 29. Field events begin at 1:30 p.m. and running events start at 3 p.m. The 10,000 final will be held on Tuesday at 5 p.m.

The South Coast Conference Finals field events begin at 4 p.m. and 5:45 p.m. and will mark the start of track events.

The Falcon baseballers continued playing .500 ball last week as they beat Mt. SAC 10-9 Tuesday and lost to Orange Coast by the identical score Saturday.

At 8-8 in the conference, the Birds are 18-12 overall.

Cerritos travels to Cypress today (Tuesday) and returns here Thursday to battle Fullerton. Both games open at 2:30 p.m.

At Orange Coast, with the score tied 9-9 and two out in the bottom of the ninth, budding superstar Joey James singled to right on a 3-2 count to score the winning run.

James went 3-4 with two homers against the Falcons, and contributed five RBI's. His first four-bagger against Falcon hurler John Rodriguez was the first a Cerritos pitcher has surrendered in conference play.

Saturday will see Cerritos at Saddleback for a noon match.

Orange Coast leads the conference with a 15-0 mark.

Golfers try links at San Diego Mesa

Falcon golfers travel to San Diego Mesa Friday. Results of yesterday's match with Cypress was unavailable at press time.

Friday they came in third behind Moorpark and College of the Desert.

Kevin Devries of Cerritos shot an 80 for the day while Shaun Brandy of College of the Desert led the tournament with a score of 76.

Softball squad tied for second

By CASEY CARNEY
TM Staff Writer

The Cerritos women's softball team has made some progress in close South Coast Conference competition. Last week they moved up from a third place spot to tie for second with Golden West.

A 7-3 conference record has the Falcons two games behind first place Rancho Santiago, which boasts a 9-1 mark. Cerritos carries an impressive 28-9 season record.

"We're peaking at the right time," asserts Coach Nancy Kelly, who says that she is confident with the team's progress.

Last weekend, the Lady Falcons won six out of seven games to emerge champs of the First Annual Falcon Invitational Tournament.

Players Kathy Dunn, Vandy Wilkerson, Estela Gutierrez, and Toni Tucker were named to the All-Tournament Team. Wilkerson received the Big-stick award for her high batting average of .562 in the tourney.

The team travels to Orange Coast tomorrow and hosts Golden West on the Falcon diamond Friday at three.

Saturday the locals host a double header against Chaffey at 12 and 2 p.m.

The fight is on...

"You'll find my name on just about every bill" that "put the screws to the administration to get this thing turned around."

The major issue between the candidates is whether or not the ASCC should have managing control of the business.

Moore upholds his view that the operation should "be left to the pros" while Estabrook maintains that the only way the bookstore can turn a profit is through managerial involvement of the ASCC.

Don Trapp, in announcing his decision not to run, remarked that the bookstore "is a major issue" and that he "feels sorry for the people that are going to vote for him (Moore) if he thinks it's not an issue."

"I don't know how he expects to keep the student body alive without it."

Trapp then added an endorsement of candidate Estabrook, saying, "Dexter can do a good job as long as he doesn't go off half-cocked and shoot himself in the foot. I wish him the best of luck."

Fac meet Thursday

Board of Trustees takes note of note-taking — don't note all

By MELISSA HERNANDEZ
TM Staff Writer

The Board of Trustees has elected to reduce the length of Board minutes as suggested by the Accreditation Committee Report.

The Accreditation Team assessed the procedure used for recording the Board minutes during its visit to the campus and found the records overly lengthy.

It was noted by President Dr. Wilford Michael that throughout 1985, Board minutes ran from 11 to 63 pages.

It was suggested that since the tapes were available at the Learning Resource Center, any further information could be obtained from the tapes.

Nina Bressler, Secretary to Michael, formerly spent three days transcribing and typing the minutes.

Bressler's method was to decode her own extensive shorthand notes to produce the minutes. She did not utilize the tape.

The new, shorter procedure is more practical and has "released a lot of time to do things that I ordinarily don't have time to do," said Bressler.

Campus police seeking witness who saw car break-in attempt

By RITA SANTANA
TM Staff Writer

On the eve of April 1, 1986, approximately 8:20 p.m., a female dashed into the campus security office stating that a couple of people were breaking into a car in the C-6 parking section.

After giving a brief description of the vehicle she then left without identifying herself.

Campus security is requesting information as to her name and her witnessing of this crime. Mike Bolden, assistant campus police coordinator, stated that the name would be kept confidential.

"We're not even sure if she was a staff member or student, but we need her to come forward to help in the investigation," said

Bolden.

The fact that she was willing to come forward to help out with the crime actually prevented a car theft and led to the arrest of the individuals.

Also, Bolden wants to point out that motor cycle zone changes are underway.

If it doesn't specify motor cycle zone, then it's an indication not to park there.

"We have already started to make it easier by painting stalls which are not for motor cycles red and have stenciled 'no parking' on them."

But until all of them are painted, the rule of thumb is don't park any place other than where it says "motor cycle parking."

Academics honored

Cerritos College students who have maintained a standard of excellence throughout their college career will be presented Academic Excellence Recognition plaques Wednesday night, May 7.

The Cerritos College Foundation sponsored awards ceremony will be held at the Burnight Center from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

A reception given by the faculty will follow at the Board Room.

This year there are 42 top students selected by the faculty from each department for the 86-87 term. A minimum grade point average of 3.5 is required, along with demonstrated motivation and willingness to succeed.

Professor Jerry Shopfner of the Technology Division will be the featured speaker.

The public is invited. Admission is free.

'Brat Pack' tonight in Burnight showcase

By ELIZABETH ARCALAS
TM Chief Photographer

Hollywood's newest "Brat Pack," drops by tonight when the ASCC movie showcase presents The Breakfast Club and St. Elmo's Fire.

The evening starts off with the Breakfast Club, where five high school students learn about themselves and the strangers they meet during detention one Saturday.

In St. Elmo's Fire, a tightly knit group of recently graduated college students face their first year of life on their own.

Both movies will be shown in Burnight Center theater, with the Breakfast Club at 7 p.m. and St. Elmo's at 9 p.m.

Admission is free to all students, and one free guest, with a current student body ID card with a sticker attached.

Stress management workshop May 1

By JENNIFER RICKETS
TM Staff Writer

Stressed out because of final exams coming up?

Other stress-related problems? The Psychology Club and Psychological Services can help.

Co-ordinator Dr. Allan Boodnick will speak at a presentation entitled, "Stress Management: Toward a More Productive Life," Thursday, May 1, at 11 a.m. in the Board Room.

Dodger Al Downing here; game trip set

Who's on first? Cerritos College will host "Dodger Day" featuring former Dodger pitcher Al Downing on Tuesday, April 29, in BK 111-112 at 11 a.m.

After his speech, Downing will field questions from the audience.

Tickets to the Dodger/St. Louis game on May 4 will be awarded in a raffle.

Tickets for the special ASCC outing for the May 2 Dodger game are still on sale for $1 in the Student Activities Office.

— LAURA MENDOZA

The session is designed to help people understand what stress is and how to react to it, as well as how to overcome and deal with it. Dr. Boodnick will deal with such topics as holistic health, biofeedback, relaxation techniques, and self-hypnosis.

Art exhibit, auction by Upsilon Omicron

By NANCY BALLARD
TM Staff Writer

An art exhibition and art auction sponsored by the Upsilon Omicron Alumni Association will be held April 25 in the Student Center.

The public is invited to view and also purchase a piece of art by such masters as Rockwell, Neiman, Curry, Dali or art by lesser known, but equally great exciting artists.

Gathered for examination are a collection of signed and numbered lithographs, etchings, and serigraphs, as well as a selection of water colors and oil paintings.

Each piece of art is customized framed and ready to hang.

There will be a preview of all art from 7-8 p.m. with the auction beginning at 8 p.m.

Upcoming Mental Health Fair features gymnast Kathy Rigby

Olympic gymnast Kathy Rigby will be the featured speaker at the Saturday, May 3, Mental Health Fair sponsored by Cerritos College Community Services.

The first exclusive Mental Health Fair held in this area is being staged in conjunction with College Hospital and Rio Hondo Community Mental Health.

Some 15 workshops are scheduled beginning at 10 a.m. and concluding at 3 p.m. A variety of "healthy food booths" will be featured, along with several carnival style booths with a slate of attractions.

Rigby will open the activities with a presentation on her personal battle with bulimia, an eating disorder.

Other speakers are qualified professionals and experts in a variety of mental health areas.

Registration fee is $5, and attendees may sign up for at least three workshops. Spokesmen said pre-registration is encouraged. Doors open at 9:30 a.m.

The event has been described as a "celebration of Mental Health Month with...a most positive approach to Your State of Mind."

Peking acrobat's visit

A rare area appearance of the famed Peking Acrobats will be sponsored by Cerritos College Community Services Friday, May 9, at Excelsior Auditorium in Norwalk.

The group is stopping off for one final appearance on their way home, officials said.

A sell-out crowd is expected. Tickets are still available for $9.50 and $11.50 for adults, and $6.50 and $8.50 for children. For further information, call Community Services.

Departmental name change boosts security's image

By MELISSA HERNANDEZ
TM Staff Writer

A departmental name change was approved by the Cerritos College Board of Trustees at last week's meeting.

The new name is Campus Police. Also approved was a measure to upgrade the position of Security Supervisor to that of Chief of Campus Police.

A salary has not yet been arrived at. It is being researched by the office of Nello Di Corpo, Community Services head. Officials said they want to determine a salary that will encourage more highly qualified individuals to apply for the job, as well as preventing turnover.

The current Security Supervisor, under the direction of DI Corpo, coordinates and supervises the department in a non-management capacity.

The Board felt it was important to have a police chief in a management position.

The departmental name change was approved with the provision that the police officers do not carry guns.

Board President Dale Hardeman stated he was "vehemently opposed to police officers carrying guns."

Hardeman admits having no problem with calling the department "Police," but feels their salary shouldn't necessarily match that of other officers in the community.

Helmut Schneider, campus police officer and dispatcher commented of the training, "I feel it will upgrade the department."

The Board requested the formation of a broad based committee that will look into the department's operating procedures.

Co-Rec T-shirt nite

Basketball, racquetball, volleyball, refreshments and prizes will all be part of Co-Recreation Night Friday, April 25 from 6 to 9 p.m. in the gym. T-shirts will be given away on a first-come first-serve basis. All students are welcome.

Art exhibition opens

The Annual Student Art Show will open in the Cerritos College Fine Arts Gallery with a reception for the student artists from 6:30 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday April 29.

Art to be featured was selected by Cerritos College art professors from their students works.

Exhibits will include cover drawings, paintings, print making, two and three dimensional sculpture work and water-color landscaping.

This is the last show of the season which will "represent the best it can offer," said Larry Klepper, gallery director.

Gallery hours are Monday through Thursday 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Tuesday through Thursday evenings 6 to 9 p.m.

The gallery is open free to the public.
