Board axes campus lottery sales

By KEITH ESTABROOK
and DWAYNE KING

The lottery tickets hit the fan.

As of 11:15 a.m. yesterday morning, the Cerritos College Bookstore was no longer allowed to sell tickets.

The withdrawal was the end result of Monday evening's Board of Trustees meeting.

The Board, which has the right to approve ways in which the student body raises money, was split three to three on the issue.

In a deft strategical move, Board Member Harold Tredway — who is against campus sales — moved to approve the continuation of lottery ticket sales, knowing the movement would need a four-to-two majority to carry, since there are only six Board members until the Nov. 5 election.

Tredway pulls off coup with call for approval

Members Bob Epple, Katie Nordbak and President Hazel Scotto voted for the continuation, but Vice-President Ada Steenhoek and Secretary Dale Hardeman joined Tredway in the condemnation of the sales.

Tredway immediately claimed victory, saying the tie vote meant the motion had failed to pass and that the lottery ticket sales at the Bookstore would have to be discontinued.

Tredway then admitted, "I have talked with Walt Magnuson (college vice-president of Business Services), and he told me that if the Board decided to discontinue the sale of lottery tickets, that he would have them out of the Bookstore by tomorrow (Tuesday) morning."

He then leaned forward and challenged Dr. Magnuson to deny it, but Magnuson confirmed the conversation.

A heated debate followed.

Those against the sales complained that they had not been informed of the situation previously and had never approved it.

French food on student menu tomorrow

"A Day in France" is the theme of the Food services program's special luncheon, tomorrow in the Student Center from 11 a.m. till 1 p.m.

Students and faculty will be able to sample many French delights prepared by the students under the direction of Chef Ellis Robinson.

The food services students prepare these luncheon with varying themes several times a year, all served at special prices ranging from $1.25 to $4.00.

Last week, the students prepared a salad buffet for the faculty, consisting of such specialties as ratatouille, Waldorf salad, Bay shrimp and marinated mushrooms.

Bill calls for Bookstore funds to transfer monthly

By VERNON MORROW
TM Staff Writer

The College Business Service Office tradition of withholding bookstore profits from the ASCC until the end of the fiscal year will be brought into question at today's Student Senate meeting.

Senate Bill 85F024 will require the Business Services to transfer five percent of the Cerritos College Bookstore's monthly profits to an ASCC account at the end of every month.

The bill will be introduced by Senator Keith Estabrook and Senator David Nowell.

Both emphasize that the bookstore is an enterprise of the ASCC, and therefore has a right to expect some share in the bookstore profits.

While the one bill calls for the ASCC to receive profits every month, another one makes provisions for an annual share in the bookstore profits.

This bill — 85F025 — makes the Business Services Office accountable to return eight percent of the bookstore's annual gross profits to the ASCC. It was also introduced by Estabrook and seconded by Senator Chris Schrater.

Business Services only manages the Bookstore; the ASCC is the proprietor.

If the two bills are passed by the Senate, they will be added to the ASCC Financial Code as sections 4.48 and 4.49 respectively.

At last week's Senate meeting, bill F85020 was passed.

The bill will allocate funds from the ASCC to make improvements on Falcon Way to provide for smoother traffic flow and easier parking in the C-10 parking lot.

The bill mapped out Senate suggestions to the College Parking Committee for improvements on Falcon Way to provide smoother traffic flow and easier parking in the C-10 parking lot.

The westside access road to Lot C-10 will be designated as one way running south from Falcon Way to 166th St. All eastbound traffic on the curb side of Falcon Way will be required to turn right.

All changes will be made over the Christmas holiday to avoid confusion during school hours.

Another bill passed last week requires the Cerritos Community College District to turn over all monies collected for ASCC membership to the ASCC by the end of the 15th business day.

Traditionally, the District would hold all monies in their account until all refunds could be made.

NOV. 5 VOTE DATE

Trustee seats sought by variety of candidates

By SUSAN PHILLIPS
TM News Editor

Two incumbents and eight newcomers are in the race for the three four-year terms on the Cerritos College Board of Trustees to be filled in the Nov. 5. election.

Current Board president Hazel Scotto is not seeking reelection.

A special two-year term to fill the seat resigned by Rich Goul has attracted five candidates.

Political activities on campus are expected to pick up the next several days, with candidates on campus speaking to various faculty, staff, and student groups.

The candidates will gather in the Board Room on Oct. 23 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. to answer questions concerning the role each hopes to play if elected.

The communities of Downey and Bellflower head the list with Trustee hopefuls.

Four-year candidates are Mark Durant, a police officer from Norwalk; Edward Monk, electronic equipment monitor from Downey; Helmit K. Schneider, police officer from Downey; Ada Steenhoek, incumbent, teacher from Downey; Edwin Reames, electrical contractor, Cerritos; Bob Epple, incumbent, lawyer, Norwalk; George Griswold, businessman, Downey; Paul Mangan, businessman, Cerritos; and Geoffrey Smith, businessman, Bellflower.

Seeking the two-year spot are Bob Verderber, engineer/educator, Downey; Barbara Hayden, businesswoman, Downey; Stewart Luce, program planning manager, Bellflower; Hayward Nishioka, college educator, Bellflower; and Ralph Kephart, businessman/college instructor, Bellflower.

College President Dr. Wilford Michael is encouraging district voters — including students — to "get out and vote." He called attention to the fact that only 5-10 percent of those eligible choose to vote in "such an important election as the School Board."

Continuing Board members are secretary Dale Harde-man and former president Harold Tredway long-time Trustee.

Estabrook, who sponsored the bill, stated that "Only a small portion of this money collected would be necessary for refunds. The rest would do better sitting in an ASCC account drawing interest."

Today's Senate meeting will be held at 2:00 p.m. in BK 112.

New Transfer Center holds Open House

In recognition of its official opening, the new Transfer Center will host an Open House tomorrow between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., in the Administration Building.

Cerritos College faculty and staff members are invited to drop in to meet representatives from several colleges and universities in the area.

The Transfer Center has been established to ease transition of students who will be continuing their education at four-year colleges and universities.

The representatives attending tomorrow's Open House will be participating in the new transfer program on a regular basis.

Steenhoek injects Mormon religion in lottery picture

Said Tredway, "I am appalled with the fact that the Board was not consulted regarding the matter."

Added Steenhoek, "Of the four years that I've been on the Board, this situation has made me feel (that) less credibility (exists) between the staff and Board than any other item. We weren't given any information."

College President Wilford Michael then reminded the Board that last year's ASCC President Fred Regan had mentioned to the Board on two occasions that he (Regan) intended to have lottery tickets sold at the bookstore during the upcoming games, but that the issue had always been dismissed.

Member Bob Epple remarked that he found it "hypocritical to take money from the lottery fund if we aren't going to contribute to it."

Tutor, 74, gets revived helping students learn

By STELLA AGUILAR
TM Features Editor

"I was very excited about working with young people and particularly with foreign students," states Joe Lessin, a 74 year old tutor at Cerritos College.

"I love communicating with foreign students," commented Lessin, "because I am able to understand their way of thinking and cultures."

Presently, Lessin tutors English, Reading, Speech and Business Communication courses.

At the beginning, four years ago," he explained, "I wondered if young people would accept me. Professor John Dowden was a great influence and encouraged me all the way."

As a Spanish student in earlier days, he recalled "Dr. Silvia Hubbell accepted me as just one of the students." He called Cerritos College a "really very special to me."

He comes from a Jewish family which he said faced terror and death in Russia for three generations. Lessin's biography, called "Gone the Golden Dream" by Jan Markell, is in the college library and local bookstores.

An ordained Christian minister since 1975, he explained that "I will make myself available to anyone on campus for spiritual counseling."

He has also traveled to México with missionaries.

Lessin mentioned that he has a grievance which he described as "instructors who use foul language in classes," explaining that "the faculty has the responsibility of molding the young lives that are committed to them. They have it within their power to build character and morals."

Lessin went on to describe Cerritos College as a place where "I get a feeling of being revived and am able to get out of the retirement complex."

Among his academic accomplishments are an AA in humanities and an Achievement Certificate in Spanish.

During his spare time, Lessin enjoys writing, reading, baseball and taking long drives.

And he asked if the Board intended to waive the money from the state ticket sales, to which Steenhoek answered affirmatively.

"It is a tax that preys on the poor; there are six million losers for every one winner."

A Talon Marks reporter then asked Tredway and Hardean if the Board would be willing to waive lottery generated income to the school should they (the Board) deny the students the right to contribute to the cause through the sale of tickets.

"Yes," they confirmed, and Steenhoek restated her position.

However, ASCC President David Mittleman contended that since the student body supported the Bookstore financially, "it is for the students to say as to what should and shouldn't be sold, and not the Board."

Due to the confusion over the split vote and the manner in which the issue was presented, the matter was referred to council.

However, yesterday morning, after consulting with legal representatives, Dr Michael said that there was no other choice than to honor the Board's vote and discontinue the sale of tickets.

A TM reporter at the meeting heard Steenhoek, a Mormon, chide Mittleman immediately following the meeting.

"I am shocked at your position in this matter," she was overheard to say, "And you call yourself a Mormon?"

Mittleman, however, offered no comment on the conversation when later asked about it.

HOME COMING SATURDAY

Queen selection wraps up today

By LESLIE BERESTEIN
TM Campus Editor

Elections end tonight as seven hopefuls compete for the title of 1985-86 Homecoming Queen. The winner will be crowned during halftime at this Saturday's football game versus Taft.

Queen candidates include the following: Lena Herrera, LDSSA; Lisa Garza, Upsilon Omicron; Jill Dayen, Cosmetology; Tammy Parra, Alpha Phi Beta; Cheryllynne Bailey, Black Student Union; Dolores Hulshof, Sigma Phi; and Marina Castaneda, MeCha.

Polling places are located by the North Elbow Room, the Student Center Patio, and the Health Science Building. Voting hours are 8:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. and 6:00 p.m.-9:00 p.m.

Twenty-five clubs have turned in applications for homecoming floats, leaving a waiting list of five clubs for the 20 available float beds. Float building activities began Monday and will continue through midnight on Friday. The floats are being constructed beneath the east side bleachers of the football stadium.

Float judging will be held Saturday at 11:00 a.m. inside the stadium and will be followed by a Judges' Luncheon at noon. Trophies are to be presented at the luncheon which will be open to all students participating in float building activities.

Activities will resume Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. with the Homecoming game against Taft. In addition to the coronation of the Queen and the parade of floats, the halftime program will also include a fireworks show and a presentation by the Gahr High School Marching Band.

Immediately following the game will be a dance in the Student Center which will feature DJ Mic Smiley and a light show. Admission will be free to all alumni as well as current students displaying valid student I.D. Students may also bring one guest.

Cerritos prepares to host No. 1 Taft

By JOHN VAN GASTON
TM Production Coordinator

"This is going to be the game to decide the championship," said head football Coach Frank Mazzotta, referring to this Saturday's game against visiting powerhouse Taft, starting at 7:30.

Taft, which is rated as the No. 1 team in the country, manhandled the Falcons last year, winning 55-14.

"The key for us to win, is we have to play emotionally, we have to tackle aggressively, and we can't give up the big play," said Mazzotta.

Mazzotta's team displayed all of those talents, and more, last Saturday, defeating Bakersfield (3-1 conference, 4-1 overall) 24-2.

"Our defensive scheme had them confused after their first three drives," Mazzotta said. "Anybody that gets 82 plays and doesn't score, well that should tell you right there how well our defense played."

The Renegades got on the board first, when Gary Richard blocked a Richard Rendich punt out of the end zone for a safety in the second quarter.

After the punting miscue, it was all Falcons, with quarterback Tony Locy hitting on only six of 20 passes, but two going for TD's.

Locy's first TD strike went to Chris Perez for a 67-yard score, as he beat Pat Glaskill at the 30 yard line, and went untouched the rest of the way.

Sal Gonzales was the recipient of Locy's other TD pass, just 3:08 after the first, as Gonzales took Glaskill to the cleaners on a 37-yard touchdown.

The score was set up after Anthony Drawhorn picked off a Bobby Brandon pass at the Falcon 19 yard line, and returned it 44 yards.

"Defensively, you have to be proud of these guys," said Mazzotta. "We're not the biggest team around, but we have skilled players at all positions"

The Falcons swarming defense registered six sacks on Brandon, with John Pukini (2½) and Kevin Rasco (1½) leading the way.

In fact, at times, the defense was overrushing the quarterback, enabling Brandon to scramble out of the pocket giving him more time to find an open receiver.

BENCH BANTER — Cerritos defensemen Robert Lan, Mark Lopez, Anthony Drawhorn, Kelvin Miles and Damon Moore root on teammates during last Saturday's victory. Falcons host Taft this Saturday at 7:30.

The Renegades did run up 313 yards of total offense, (129 rushing, 184 passing), but the Falcon defense was in control the entire game.

"I read a newspaper where Coach Bowser (Bakersfield coach Carl Bowser) said that he would only throw the ball if he had to," said Mazzotta. "After the first three sets of downs, we practically knew what they were going to do, because he literally told us what they were going to do."

Cerritos ran up a total of 207 yards on the ground, with four different players gaining over 40 yards.

Fullback Paul Backes (seven rushes, 46 yards) led the way, while Lafayette Shelton (11 for 45), Keith McCoy (four for 44) and Reggie Nettles (eight for 43) followed close behind.

Locy's six completions were good for 196 yards, while back-up Andy Konieczka completed one of two passes, with his only completion good for a 44-yard TD to tight end Buford Joice in the fourth quarter.

The Falcons also connected on their patented fake punt play, with up-back Brian Borza completing a pass to wide-out Drawhorn.

This play has worked for the Falcons 10 out of 11 times over the last 13 games, and according to Mazzotta, "I think it is one of the most inventive plays we have, and we will use it every time it is given to us."

"I even think we should be able to use it against Taft."

Taft, which uses it's running game to beat you, has used as many as 13 different backs in one game. Bruce Williams lead the Cougars with an average of almost 10 yards a run.

"They're predictable in some situations, because they don't throw the ball very often," said Mazzotta. "But the use a three-back set-up like the wishbone, so they could run the ball any way they want. It's not what they are doing, it's who they're doing it with."

"It's not going to be tough getting this team up for the game. They've been waiting for this one since summer. This is for the championship."

Falcon wrestlers take arch-rival Rio Hondo to mat 34-8

By ROBERT YOUNG
TM Sports Editor

"To beat them the way we did is a bonus," said Cerritos College wrestling Coach Jeff Smith. The Falcon wrestling team "soundly defeated" arch-rival Rio Hondo 34-8 in the South Coast Conference opener last Tuesday night, before a Cerritos crowd.

The Falcons have a chance to improve on their 3-0 record tonight, as they host Moorpark at 7:30.

However, the Falcons got off to a slow start, as returning Southern California Champion George Williams (118 lbs.) battled Rio Hondo's John Esquivel to a 5-5 draw.

Following that, Cerritos' Jesse Singh (126) and Levi Chin (134) each walked off the mat victorious in their matches.

Then, Rio Hondo's Ruben Chavez celebrated the only win for the Roadrunners, when he pinned 142-pound Jim Trent in 1:23 into the second period.

From then on, it was all Cerritos.

Carl Hampton (177) and Tom Howe (190) picked up the only pins for the Falcons.

"It was a good overall performance. Rio Hondo is one of the better teams (in the SCC) and other teams should be looking at us," said Smith.

Following their triumph against Rio Hondo, the Falcon grapplers traveled to participate in the individualized Cuesta Tournament, placing sixth out of the 17 schools who entered.

Howe suffered a heart-breaking loss in the finals to last year's third-place finisher in the state.

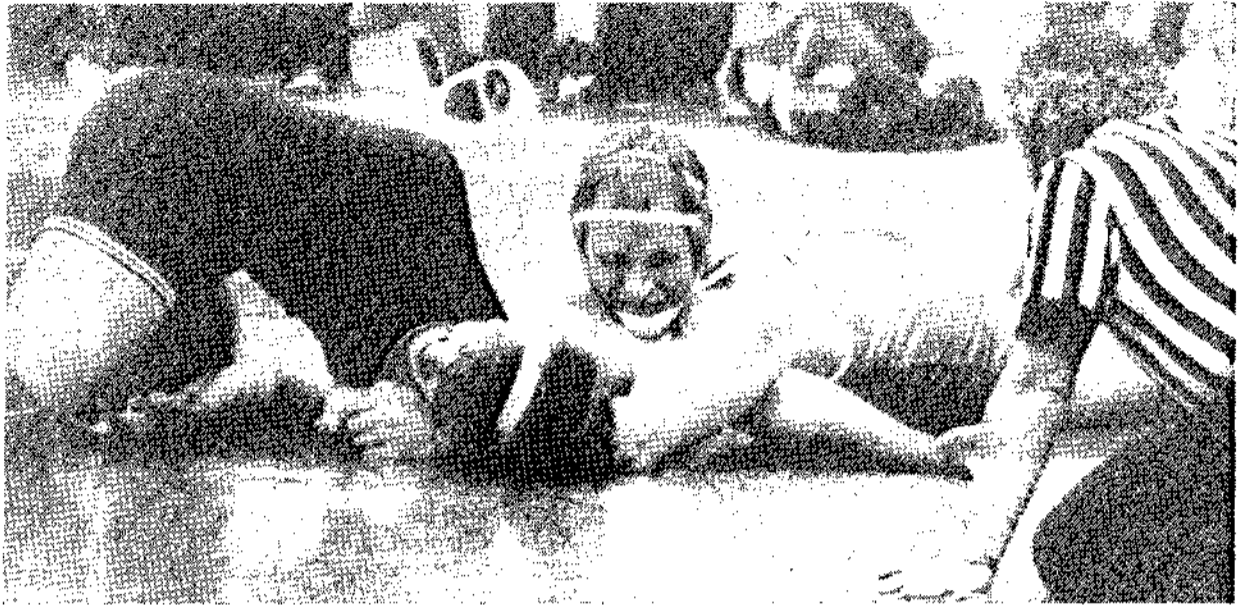

Howe took the match into overtime after a regulation 5-5 tie. They then battled to a 3-3 tie in overtime, but Howe was declared the loser, as he had been warned for stalling.

Howe, who went 3-1 in the tournament, had to settle for second place, as did Pat Welch (158), who came up short against last year's returning State Champion from Lassen Jr. College.

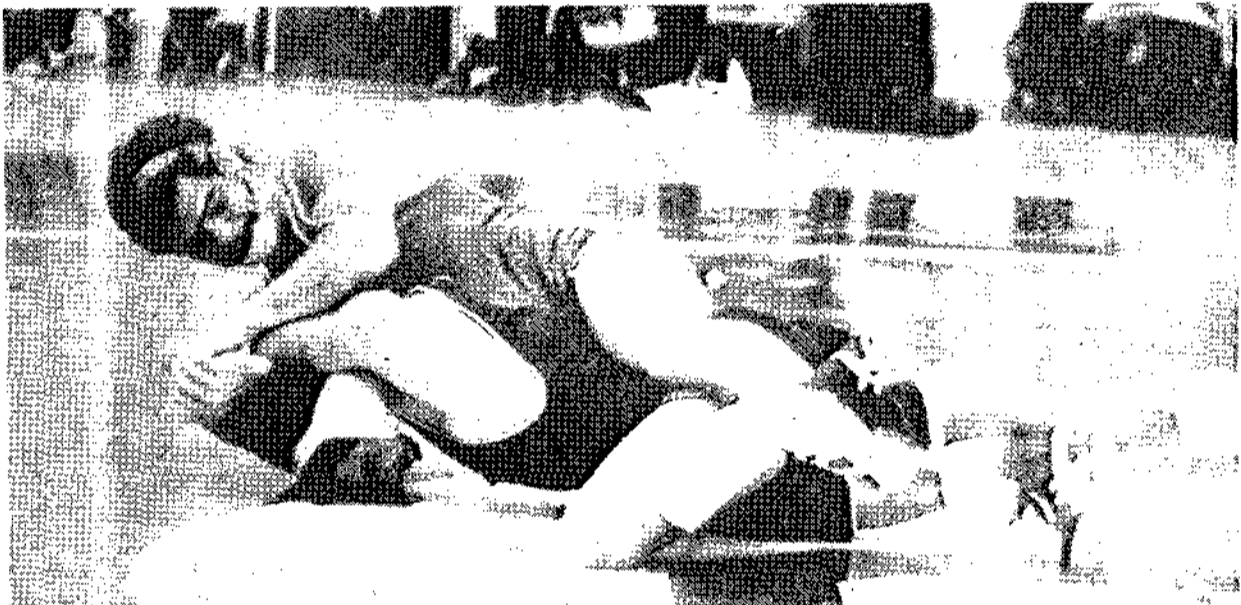

Williams (118), Singh (126), Doug Losak (150) and Joe Powers (177) ended the tourney with a 2-2 showing.

"I expected more out of the guys. Our guys didn't do what they could have. We will improve," said Smith.

"They (Moorpark) have some real good guys. We could beat them, if we wrestled like we did against Rio Hondo, but if we wrestle like we did at the Cuesta Tournament, it's going to be a dog-fight," said Smith.

Volleyball to host Orange Coast tonight

By GABRIELA MARTINEZ
TM Staff Writer

With two tough South Coast Conference opponents coming up this week, volleyball coach Jeaninne Prindle is looking for her squad to continue their strong consistent play.

They host Orange Coast tonight at 7:30, and travel south to face Saddleback in a 7 p.m. match on Friday.

Cerritos (3-1 in SCC, 4-1 overall) split their two SCC matches this past week, defeating Mt. SAC, 15-9, 15-13, 14-16 and 15-6, while slipping to Golden West 18-16, 7-15, 3-15 and 6-15.

In the win over Mt. SAC, Chris Dunbar led the Falcons with 11 kills in 21 attempts and Michelle Linton, who went six for 13 in kills.

Sheri O' Connor and Rocky Norica provided some clutch serves, passes and hits for the win.

Said Prindle referring to the teams play against Mt. SAC, "We will take it, but it was not artistic. We made several errors, especially in hitting and blocking. In the second game, we were behind 11-0, and came back to win 15-13. We had match point in the third game, only to lose the game."

Golden West regrouped after the first game and "outplayed us the rest of the night," according to Prindle.

"We played very well in the first game, especially at the beginning of the game behind the hitting of Dunbar (nine for 22) and Linda Bauman (seven of 16)."

"We need to play more consistent and eliminate our errors, to continue to win," said Prindle.

Soccer squad held to 1-1 OCC draw

By ROBERT YOUNG
TM Sports Editor

Cerritos College soccer has rolled to an impressive overall 10-1-2 record (1-0-1 in South Coast Conference).

The Falcons had to settle for a 1-1 draw against visiting Orange Coast in the conference opener last Tuesday.

Hector Barrera scored the only goal for Cerritos in the first half.

The host Falcons took on Irvine Valley (formerly Saddleback) yesterday (score unavailable at press time).

Irvine Valley sports a 3-0 SCC record and is currently in first place going into the game.

"We beat them on the field," said Coach Robert Flores, referring to the game against Orange Coast. "We had 28 shots at the goal to their eight," Flores considered it a "frustrating performance."

The following Friday, soccer traveled to Golden West finishing on top 4-2.

Juan Juarequi scored the first goal, just 30 seconds into the game. Juarequi scored his second goal of the day late in the first half, putting the score at 2-2.

In the second half Francisco Posada and Marcelo Balboa each scored a goal to put the Falcons on top for good.

Again the Falcons were dominant having taken 22 shots at the goal, to Golden West's eight.

This Friday, the Falcons travel to take on the Dons of Rancho Santiago at 3 p.m.

"It should be a very competitive, exciting game," said Flores. "They have a lot of skill, in fact, they look just like us."

The Tuesday following, the Birds will host Mt. SAC. "They are a good team that has been unlucky. They're one that can't be overlooked," said Flores.

Women's basketball busy with pre-season preparation

Women's basketball Coach Karen Peterson, is looking forward to a successful season from this year's players, who have been in preseason conditioning drills over the previous month.

They open the season with a scrimmage game against LA Valley Nov. 12, here at Cerritos.

Peterson states she is, "very pleased with the talent and depth of the team," which consists of five experienced sophomores and 12 promising freshmen players.

Excellent team speed, consistent height, and overall athletic ability are characteristics of the team.

In the remaining month of daily practices, Peterson aims for a blending of these strengths into one competitive team, enthusing that, "from top to bottom, this is the best group of athletes yet."

Cross Country teams travel to Mt. SAC to get back on track

By MONICA MERTZ

Cerritos' Men's Cross Country team had a "lack-luster" performance while competing in the Irvine Invitational last Friday.

The Falcons placed fifth out of the eight schools involved, with a total of 133 points, with Grossmont coming out on top with a low score of 22.

This Friday, Cerritos will compete in the annual Mt. SAC Invitational starting at 8 a.m., in effort to improve on last week's performance.

David Rivera was the first Falcon to cross the finish line, with a time of 20:58, which was good for 18th place overall.

Following behind Rivera, were Melchor Lopez (21:19, 24th), Abe Varughese (21:23, 27th), Refugio Estrada (21:35, 31st) and Mario Zamarripa (21:42, 33rd).

"I thought we were about even in strength with Orange Coast (who finished in second), but we were not even in the competition with them," mentioned Coach Hal Simonek.

Grossmont, which is considered to be one of the top teams in the state, literally ran away with the win, with just 22 points, while Orange Coast (75 points) and Trade Tech (77 points) were left to fight for second. Santa Ana (87 points) finished a distant 46 points ahead of the Falcons to come in fourth.

Irvine course 'flat and fast'

"We've beaten San Diego Mesa, Rancho Santiago and Fullerton before," said Coach Hal Simonek, referring to the Women's Cross Country team placing sixth out of the twelve teams competing in the Irvine Invitational last Friday, "They just looked healthier and were quicker than we were this time."

"Flat and fast" said Coach Simonek describing the Irvine course.

Mira Costa won the meet with a low score of 24 points while Orange Coast, Rancho Santiago, Mesa and Fullerton followed.

Lea McFarland ran a 19:37, which made her the first Falcon across the finish line. Next for Cerritos was Cheryl Eckford, 20:45, followed by Charlena Pompa and Lorraine Lara who finished 5th and 6th.

Orange Coast's Kathy Kirman left a thick cloud of dust for everyone at the finish line with a blazing 17:30 finish time.

The Falcon runners had a larger cheering section than expected, with three team members on the side-line: Deanne Unzicker, Jackie Castro and Sheila Jordan were sidelined with the flu.

"Their performance would've most likely boosted the team's ranking," concluded Simonek.

The lady runners compete in the Mt. SAC Invitational next Friday at 3:00.

RE-ENTRY PLANS LIT ANTHOLOGY

By ELEANOR COLLINS
TM Staff Writer

The Re-entry Resource Center (formerly the Center for Today's Women) is in the process of compiling a collection of poetry and short stories written by re-entry students.

Nov. 1 is the deadline for submitting entries for the anthology, which will be published in January.

According to Co-ordinator Vera Eckles, the idea for an anthology began several years ago, when a re-entry student gave Eckles a poem that she had written. Eckles posted the poem on the Center's bulletin board. The original poem inspired many other re-entry students to post various writings on the board, and from that collection the first anthology evolved in 1978.

A second anthology was published in 1981.

Eckles stated that the anthology, the third sponsored by the Re-entry Resource Center, "is a wonderful vehicle to express and share thoughts, feelings, and insights."

All re-entry men and women are encouraged to submit entries for consideration.

The Center noted the following guidelines for entrants:

- All entries must be typed with no spelling or grammatical errors.
- Short stories are to be no longer than one typed page or 500 words.

- Entries are limited to re-entry students. No more than one entry per person allowed.

- Name, address and phone number must be included on entry.

Selection of entries to be included in the anthology will be made by a committee and staff of the Re-entry Resource Center.

Entries should be submitted to the Center, located in the Student Center.

"The Board of Trustees should wean the district from the 'Sugartit' of dollars provided by the ASCC," offered English Professor John Dowden, as he stood before the Board and read a letter in which he chastised the school for allowing an "unfair and deceptive" method of student body fee collection.

He also charged that the bookstore artificially inflated textbook prices. The Trustees requested that Dr. Wilford Michael and the administration reword programs and literature to make it clear to students that the ASCC membership fee is optional, and to discontinue the practice of sending students to another building to obtain a fee waiver.

Trustee Ada Steenhoek commended Dowden for standing up for his beliefs, and moved to make bookstore pricing policy an agenda item for the next meeting.

"Are we going to go into the management of the bookstore now?" asked Trustee Bob Epple. He continued, "Mr. Dowden presented us with two book titles, not a comparative price analysis."

Harold Tredway submitted his opinion that, "The Board has spent too much time studying the complaints of two students out of 17,000, and one faculty member who has made a career the last twenty years of opposing the administration of this institution."

At Steenhoek's request, the Board agreed to obtain and study a comparative analysis with regards to prices at the other bookstores.

The Board also concurred that they needed to set policy pertaining to instructors who engage in private enterprise while on school grounds or time.

The issue was raised after a student complained to a Board member that she was unable to meet with an instructor, because the instructor was in a meeting with a client, practicing law in the instructor's office.

'Gremlins' hit campus tomorrow night

Creatures and spooks come out this month for the ASCC movie showcase. Tomorrow night at the Burnight Center Theatre, the motion picture "Gremlins" will be presented at 7 and 9 p.m.

"Gremlins" is a movie about an unusual pet known as "Mogwai." There are three basic rules concerning these unusual pets.

First of all, never get them wet. Secondly, keep them out of the light, and thirdly never, never feed them after midnight.

When Billy Pflitzer, 20, fails to obey these basic rules, he sets off a chain reaction of events in Kingston Falls that the citizens will never forget.

Just in time for the Halloween night, the movie comedy adventure Ghostbusters will be shown on Oct. 30 at 7:00 p.m. and 9 p.m. This motion picture stars Bill Murray and Dan Aykroyd who's unique, consummate comic talents are combined for the first time on the big screen. The cosmic crusaders walk a fine line between genius and lunacy as parapsychologists who go into business as Ghostbusters.

The laid-back heroes take on terror dogs, green ghosts, gargoyles, a possessed woman and more!

Both pictures will be shown at the Burnight Center Theatre.

ASCC members are welcomed, and may bring one free guest having current student I.D. card with sticker attached.

The spirit's call

Homecoming...coming home.
 Coming home holds a special meaning for anyone who has at some time been away...
 Soldiers coming home from the battlefield or prison...hostages from the danger and despair...students from college...or just from a vacation or trip...all can relate.
 A college homecoming has traditionally provided that very special feeling as soon as one sets foot back on campus. For the alumni, there are the familiar landmarks, old friends, memories of both good times and bad.
 But it takes those here now to make "homecoming" what it is at Cerritos College — a time and event when and where students go all-out in the unique gala environment of the sparkle and energy generated.
 Homecoming is for everybody...everybody who gets with the spirit.
 This year's game, Saturday night, is with Taft — just the top team in California — as well as the nation.
 But our team is tough. They may very well win.
 And our new Homecoming Queen is classic coed lovely — she'll be crowned at halftime.
 The dance after the game is expected to overflow.
 Cerritos is recognized as having one of the biggest homecoming affairs around.
 Why not "come home," or be on the mass welcoming committee for former Falcons?

Writer questions Sunday eve Co-Rec

Dear Editor:

Sunday night is not a night to have Co-Recreation Night, but a night to be in church worshipping God.
 I'm surprised that Campus Crusade for Christ would be involved.

College plays host to women's seminar

By RAELENE KING
 TM Managing Editor

Women in leadership positions will be discussed by Dr. Pamela Fisher, President of the California Association of Community Colleges, on Friday Nov. 1 at 1:00 in the Health Sciences Building, Room 102.

She is here under the auspices of the newly formed LA-Orange County chapter of the American Association of Women in Community and Junior Colleges (AAWCJC)

The conference is entitled Women Leaders: Priorities, Prices Payoffs.

"The response so far has been enthusiastic," stated campus representative Sharon Whelan.

The AAWCJC, an organization stressing excellence in education, is also open to men and encourages membership from all levels of the Community/Junior College — students, faculty, staff, classified and administration.

Kathy Boyer from Orange Coast College will further discuss the AAWCJC and its goals.

Fisher, Director of Special Programs/Contract Instruction for Modesto Junior Colleges, was named Women of the Year in 1984 by the AAWCJC.

She has also held the position of Director of the Leadership Development Project, a seminar focusing on leadership skills.

All those interested must notify Whelan at ext. 585 by Oct. 23 to reserve a seat.

KING TODAY...

Lining up in the lottery lines spawns some of the best lines you'll ever get hooked on...

By DWAYNE KING

When the lottery was voted in last November, I didn't give it a second thought.
 I never dreamed of it interfering with my isolated world.
 But I was wrong, dead wrong.
 Sure, I expected all the big shopping marts to get caught up in the games, but I never expected the smaller and more intimate five and dime stores to be over-run in the fervor.
 But like I say, I've learned otherwise.
 Every day at 1:30 p.m., I leave work to go across the street to a Seven-Eleven store to buy a drink and a bag of nuts.
 It's a little ritual that helps me make it through the day.
 The place is run by an Arabic family who hardly speaks any English at all.

But if I'm going to have to wait in line, I wish that just once...

Until just recently, I had never even seen more than two cars parked in front of the place at any given time.
 I now park across the street.
 Now understand, I've been going there for nearly four months, and I was quite often the only person in the store.
 But as you might suspect, that is no longer true.
 Now, I wait in a line.
 "A line?" you may ask, "at Seven-Eleven?"
 It was a shocker to me too.
 But they're there, every single business day.
 The ones who visit my watering hole all wear Brooks Brothers suits.
 White shirts, ties, and finely combed hair accent the executive aire about them.

Cerritos personnel part of data survey

By LORRAINE FIMBRES
 TM Staff Writer

The District as well as all employees of colleges and other schools are required to submit statistical data reports periodically for compliance agencies.

Some examples of these reports are: HEGIS, Affirmative Action Goals, Available Data, Separation and New Hires, Promotions, and Staff Data.

The Statistical Data questionnaire includes: sex, age ethnic groups, handicaps, promotions, the county you currently live in, and your current occupational group at Cerritos College.

These reports are mandated, and are covered by the minimum standards provisions of Title V, Administrative Regulations.

Failure of the District to submit accurate data could lead to the District losing 1% of its paid A.D.A.

And always the same dialogue.
 "I'll take a pack of Marlboro," begins the first one.
 And then, almost as an after thought, he'll pretend that he's just discovered the lottery.
 "Oh, are those lottery tickets?" he'll ask, "Gee, how much are they?"
 "Just a dollar a piece?"
 "We'll I'll take two then."
 And then the next business executive, who you know had never set foot in a Seven-Eleven store before the games, will repeat the entire encounter as if he hadn't heard the conversation in front of him.
 "I'll take a pack of Winstons," he'll begin.
 "Gosh, are those lottery tickets? How much are they?"
 "A buck a piece?"
 "Give me three."
 Who are these people?
 Where do they come from?
 I begin to wonder as the dialogue is repeated again and again.
 Why don't they just come right out and ask?
 Do they think they are fooling me?
 "I'll take some Camels."
 Does he even smoke?
 The cigarette industry must be really booming.
 "You sell lottery tickets here?" he asks astonishedly, as I look out at the huge green poster in the front window, "Well give me a couple."
 Sometimes there are only three or four of them, but once there was as many as seven.
 And always the same scenario.
 Don't get me wrong, I don't have anything against white-collared business executives who drive Cadillacs and Mercedes that fill the parking lot.
 And I don't have anything against the lottery.
 But if I'm going to have to wait in line, I wish that just once one of those hot shots would admit what he's there for.
 One of these days I'm going to get one of them to confess the truth.
 "Admit it buddy!" I'll say, "You're here for the tickets, not the cigarettes!"
 His face will go white, and he'll break out in a cold sweat.
 And with trembling lips, he'll ask me how I knew.
 You think I'm wrong?
 I took a peek into a Mercedes on my way in the other day and guess what I saw?
 No, I didn't see any ticket stubs, they had been cleverly discarded.
 But I did see five unopened packs of cigarettes.
