Trees lose leaves

Chances are you'll rarely ever see a sight more striking than a naked tree...with limb and leaf felled by trimmer's chainsaw as part of the usual seasonal clean and clear activities all over campus. Photog captures stark outline of once luscious bowers silhouetted against patient summer sky which knows that this, too, as with other campus wounds, will be healed in due time — hopefully...

Trustees vote 6-0 to support Martinez in killing pro rata pay

Surprise move enrages professors even further

By CHARLIE WALDORF
STM Editor-in-Chief

A second major shocker hit the faculty when the Board of Trustees voted 6-0 against pro rata pay in a non-agenda item to close the meeting.

Mark Durant made the motion at the June 18 meeting, seconded by Rick Sanchez, that "The Board of Trustees hereby supports the administration in the elimination of the existing pro rata pay policies for overload and summer school assignments for full-time faculty personnel.

The Board also supports the establishment of a revised form of compensation for such assignments through the existing 'meet and confer' process.

In the best interest of both parties, the 'meet and confer' process should begin immediately."

Twelve irate faculty members lambasted President Ernest Martinez and the Board at the June 4 meeting attended by some 150 professors.

The faculty's even more irate now, and have not yet responded.

EDITORIAL

...To chew out the chewers for a little spittle...

There's graffiti...writing on bathroom walls...myriad littering....

And then there's spit(ing).

Great dark gobs of tobacco-looking juice type substance splattering and spotting everywhere it flies.

Stuff that stains.

It's gross — downright gross.

Who's dunnit? Who's doing it?

It's not your regular tobacco...or anything normally advertised as "pinch between your gum and cheek" substance.

Apparently it doesn't leave a worn rim mark on the jeans pocket.

Word is that it may just be some kind of pleasure "chewing" import.

Whatever — and whomever — it can be seen in all its grossness on walls, dripping from trash can sides, discoloring sidewalks, all the usual places where avid spitters and chewers might get rid of their excess...or whatever they don't swallow.

It's sort of a sensitive subject.

We don't want to knock some healthy, wholesome, sophisticated cultural or deep-rooted sociological activity, but we do have a real problem with the problem....

...The problem being grossing up the chosen spitting spots around campus for squeamish eyes to get gaggy over.

If yer gonna chew it, could you deposit it cleanly in some kind of fairly respectable receptacle?

After all, somebody's gotta clean up that stuff.

And all the stray spraying and splaying of spittle is a little bit hard to swallow....

...Anybody spotting the not-too-splendid spitters splat(ter)ing might want to just spit it out to the appropriate authorities.

...Or at least recommend they work on their aiming....

Campus Comment

QUESTION: What do you think about televising the capital punishment electrocutions?

ANDREW CELAYA
Business / Graduated

...It's a private thing that shouldn't be televised to the public. It wouldn't be wise to see something like this. I personally wouldn't watch it.

HAI TA
Biology / Sophomore

...I feel it should be shown, because it will scare people who kill or do something bad.

ERIKA CULMAMN
Pre-vet / Sophomore

...I don't think it makes any difference to people, it is a put on. I believe that it will stop crimes.

STEFFANI GOLTAR
Psychology / Freshman

...It's no big deal because people are used to seeing violence on the screen, such as the movies and television. I think it will make the public aware of what is going on in the prisons.

ADAM VELIZ
Gen. Ed. / Freshman

...It shouldn't be shown, because it affects our children. They will be traumatized psychologically if they see someone get executed.

KATE PARENT
Nursing / Sophomore

...It's horrible, and extremely violent. It doesn't deter crime, but instead it is very sadistic, and cruel.

ANITA LAVERGNE
Gen. Ed. / Sophomore

...I don't think it will make a difference. It will be like a freak show.

KELVIN TEMPLE
Psychology / Freshman

...I think it will make criminals think twice before committing crimes, because it will show that we are serious about punishing them rather than supporting them in jails.

SHUGGIE RECIO
Phys. Ed. / Freshman

...It should be shown at least once so criminals will think twice.

Several major remodeling projects, additions in progress this summer

Some 25 remodeling projects around have been funded to the tune of $593,000, with the Board of Trustees awarding several contracts at its last meeting.

A number of other projects are already under way, some nearing completion.

A $198,830 bid was approved to remodel the theatre costume lab and storage area and provide expansion of a classroom in Bumight Center.

The Metal Building got a $197,296 contractor approval which includes modification of the welding booths, a classroom-lab and remodeling of the restrooms.

The Instructional Media Services area was handed a $38,482 remodeling, and $24,673 will be spent on relighting tennis courts 6-12.

Other project activities around campus include the following, as outlined by the President's office:

The Community Services Classroom Building - Located on the southside of Community Services this consists of three classrooms and three offices. It will add 3,730 square feet of space and is due to be occupied this month. It is being paid for on a lease-purchase through user fees. This facility was needed because of the growth in community services classes and because the College no longer uses the Cabrillo Lane School.

The Student Affairs Addition - This facility will add 3,926 square feet of office space to the Administration Building.

Financial Aid, EOPS and Veterans offices will be located in this addition with move-in expected to be by the end of July.

The trailers currently housing these offices will be removed from campus right after the move.

The new addition will include offices, work stations and restrooms.

It will be paid for through Financial Aid and in part with District funds in a lease purchase arrangement.

The Santa Barbara Building - These recently acquired modules are stored in the C-10 parking lot while the foundation is constructed in the C-7 parking lot.

This building will provide 5,400

Student Health, College Service ID fees added to Fall registration costs

A new mandatory Student Health Service Fee of $7.50 has been tacked on to registration fees starting this Fall semester.

Also adopted by the Board of Trustees is a required College Service I.D. Fee of $10, which replaces the ASCC fee which has been $8.

Student parking permits have gone up to $15, taking a $5 hike.

For the first time in the history of the college, faculty and staff will have to pay $15 per semester to park. (The classified union negotiated an extra day off to offset the new parking costs.)

Tuition is $6 per unit, up from last year's $5. Maximum tuition is $60 per semester, regardless of units taken.

Total cost for a 10-unit or more load, including parking, will be $92.50 per semester.

Four-year costs at state schools for the same schedule run around $600 or more per semester.

Theft prevention called for

The theft of several pieces of instructional services equipment valued at $1600 has prompted a call for tighter security in classrooms.

"Please do everything possible to ensure that classroom doors are locked," said Bob Silverman, Vice President for Instructional Services.

Recently, three pieces of equipment have been lost due to classrooms left unlocked. One monitor and VHS player were removed from two Lecture Hall classrooms. The second VHS player was taken from the Learning Resource Center.

Due to educational budget cuts, it may be some time before Cerritos College can purchase new equipment.

If bolting them down won't keep them from being stolen, what will?

Elevator Access

Second Summer session starts off with an excellent advantage for Cerritos College disabled students.

The Social Science's elevator will be unkeyed in order for disabled students to have better access and prevent any difficulties in getting to class.

Elevator usage is still restricted to the handicapped and faculty.

For the rest of the student body, last minute rush does not account for using the elevator.

REMODELING

square feet of space that will include 25 offices, two conference rooms and restrooms. The College will lose 12 spaces in the C-7 parking lot and the remainder of spaces in that lot will be designated for staff parking.

Faculty offices, the Director of Disabled Student Programs and Services, Research and Development and two counselors will be the new occupants. Move-in is scheduled for the break between Fall and Spring semesters.

The cost to the District for the building is $2,000. Installation costs will bring the total up to approximately $200,000 which will be paid for in a five-year lease purchase by the District. Officials say this is the most economic and creative solution to solve our need for additional faculty office space.

Storage Building- Construction is under way now which will provide a 1,024 square foot storage facility for chemicals used in our laboratories. This building will be done in July at a cost of $40,000 which is state funded. The new building is located in one corner of the metal trades yard.

Library / Learning Resources Center- Construction on this $4 million plus remodeling project is expected to begin in Spring 1992.

Senators Frank Hill and Cecil Green and Assemblyman Bob Epple have been instrumental in getting this project through the funding process in Sacramento.

Health Services Building- This facility will be funded by the new student health service fee which will pay in part for the lease purchase.

Construction will begin on this project in July 1992.

Security System Upgrade- The electronic security system for the entire campus will be going through a major upgrade that will start this summer and will be completed in February 1992.

The upgrade will provide more comprehensive security in buildings all over campus and "will probably require some changes in our building entry bad habits on campus".

Let's go see them Dodgers again

BY CHARLIE WALDORF
STM Editor-in-chief

How about those Dodgers.

Vice-President / General Manager Fred Claire has been yelled at for shelling out approximately $30 million in the free-agent market for this year.

The signings of big name players like Darryl Strawberry, Brett Butler, and Kevin Gross brought out the pennant-buying charges (with apologies to Gene Autry).

Interesting fact is that the Dodgers are leading their division by five games.

Everything wasn't coming up too green with the beginning of the new season, as they struggled to smooth out the diamonds in the rough.

They led the league in errors.

They had an 0-5 start at home.

And Strawberry's woeeful start had the critics wondering if he was worth the big bucks.

But the bad started giving way to something good.

Lenny Harris is playing spectacularly at third while hitting .327.

Juan Samuel, after having a horrendous first season last year, is hitting second behind Butler in the batting order, and is second in the league at .326.

Butler is doing everything the Dodgers went after him for — playing great in center field, doing his job as a lead-off man, and stealing bases.

The combination of Butler and Samuel hitting one and two has led to a lot of first inning runs.

The pitching which everyone thought was going to be shaky, tops the majors in Earned Run Average at 2.91.

Besides Ramon Martinez (10-3), oddsmakers were wondering who they'd have to do the job.

And so...Tim Belcher and Mike Morgan are having Cy Young type of years with ERAs of 2.40, and 2.41 respectively.

They both could have 10 or more victories with a little luck.

With Orel Hershiser back from arm surgery, this is one of the best starting staffs in baseball.

In the bullpen, Jay Howell has come in and closed the door when he had to.

With 11 saves, he could by far pass his total of 25 in 1988.

So far, a couple of his big bucks have faded.

But, like I'm saying... Claire realistically hasn't bought anything.

Gross has had a struggle also, going 4-5 and his 5.03 ERA is less than par for the course.

But, all things considered, the best record in baseball at 42-26, has overcome...

Manager Tommy Lasorda and his coaching staff have done a great job sanding the nicks out of the diamond.

Funny how nobody's coming down on Claire's roster calls now...

Clips looking good, unless...

By JIMMY BARO
STM Sports Editor

They traded Benoit Benjamin.

Now, they get Glenn "Doc" Rivers.

A National basketball contender for suffering Clipper fans?

Whether a proven, veteran point guard can turn a perennial patsy into one of the best teams in the world is open to debate.

Rivers has no championships rings, but he brings leadership where there has been no leader.

Wednesday was a different kind of lottery where the NBA could draft... where teams such as the Clippers hoped to strengthen their roster.

The Clippers don't want to play lotto anymore, but get that feeling of what it feels like to play in June.

They took a giant step in getting the Doctor for the L.A. Sports Arena house.

They still must compete in a division with Portland, the other L.A. team, and even Phoenix.

I've been anxious to see the Clippers go to the big dance.

Now...how long do we have to wait before the Doctor also blows out his knee, or something else?

Annual 605 Football fills Falcon Field

Over 12,000 people were expected to attend the Sixth annual 605 East-West All Star football game played Saturday at Falcon Stadium.

Results were not available at press time.

Some 49 players participated in the gridiron contest coached by Jeff Vedeer of Milikan High School and Ben Carpenter of Lynwood High for the East squad.

The West side had 48 mad men butting heads for Coach Phil Dunaway of Downey and Miguel Olmeba of the St. Paul Swordsmen.

The West went into the game with a three game winning streak and a 3-2 overall mark over the East.

Many college scouts were at the game.

Teams were chosen according to the side of the 605 freeway their schools were on.
